HUNGER AND DISEASE STALK ENGLAND, ARK.

Women and Children in Dire Need.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Arkansas general assembly convened today. The house unanimously adopted a resolution requesting congress to pass Senator T. H. Caraway's $15,000,000 food loan amendment to the drought relief bill.

[This $15,000,000 appropriation measure comes up for action today in congress. Story on page 2.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

England, Ark., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—This little England in Arkansas, down where the cotton blossoms bloom, presents one scene today which has its counterpart in the older, darker England across the sea. It is called the "dole" line in England; here it is the Red Cross bread line.

Early this morning the line began to form in the town fire station, where the mayor, the chief of police, and a dozen volunteer workers and stenographers began to list applications for help and issue requisitions on the food stores for meat, bread, flour and rice. The issues ranged from $1.50 to $3 worth, and each is supposed to keep a family of five for two weeks. It has been found that this is insufficient in many cases and the rules are being stretched to give additional aid, but it is not much more.

Need Help at Once.

These are the families from the plantations near town. The owners of the land have not been able to feed them any longer, and do not know where the money is coming from to finance their next crop.

"I have 92 families on my place," said one planter. "Only eight of them paid me out last year. I could put them to work now if I knew where I could get some money for the next crop. One bank is closed and the other is scared. The insurance money has stopped coming in. We need help from the federal government and need it now, not two months from now. That would be better than having our people forced into the bread line, for the land needs turning over soon. There is not enough feed for the stock. I have 60 mules out there with nothing to feed them."

In an average year 35,000 bales of cotton are shipped out of this little station.

The crop was cut in half this year by the drought and the price for what they had was too low. There is only one crop and that is why this section of the state is suffering.

Form Soup Line in Schools.

Children are going to school ragged and hungry and a soup line was formed in the schools today. The Red Cross has spent about $6,000 in here and is taking care of about 1,500 families. As there are only 3,000 families in the county the extent of the disaster may be realized. It is expected that 2,500 families will need help before the winter is over. They are being saved from starvation, but that is about all. The mayor and the planters agree that outside help is necessary and appeals are to be made over the radio this week.

As to communism, it is an unknown element. These are a simple folk, with ordinary living standards marked by a farm labor wage of $1 a day. They know all about each other for miles around, and in the conversation around the hotel stove and in the barber shop no one can recall any case of distinct radical or communistic tendencies. A week ago Saturday and again last Saturday there was some display of temper and impatience on the part of the farmers who came to town for help.

Orderly but Determined.

In the central high district the justice of the peace who had charge of the Red Cross work ran out of the formal requisition blanks. Men with hungry families came to him, but he had to send them away. After the third or fourth visit they decided to go to town to do something about it. Forty-two of them piled into two trucks and stopped in front of the bank in town. The chief of police came over to see what was going on and they told him they were determined to get some food. There were no guns in sight and no wild threats, but a real determination.

The chief did not blame them much when he heard their story and started out to see what he could do. He found merchants who have long been unpaid and are worrying about their wholesale credit willing to help still more if necessary. But the Red Cross

CAPTIVE DENIES LINGLE KILLING; MEETS MOTHER

3 Witnesses Heard by Grand Jury.

Leo V. Brothers was indicted yesterday for the murder of Alfred J. Lingle last June 9. At 6 o'clock he was turned over to the sheriff and placed in the county jail and at 6:25 o'clock he was sent to the receiving room to be given a physical examination, jail clothing, and to have his life history taken.

At the jail, waiting for him when he came, were his mother, Mrs. Rose Jessen of St. Louis, and his attorneys, Tyrrell Krum and Louis Piquett. Warden David Moneypenny allowed the prisoner a few minutes with his mother, then a few minutes for the photographers and then he asked the accused man if he wished to talk to waiting newspaper men.

The Captive's Statement.

"All I want to say is that I don't know any thing about the Lingle murder," Brothers said. His manner was aggressive. "I never heard about him until I was arrested and they didn't tell me till four days later that I was arrested for that murder."

Later Attorney Krum interpreted his client's statement as follows:

"Of course he didn't mean that he hadn't heard of Lingle until he was arrested. Certainly he heard of Lingle's death as every one in the country did. What he meant was that he didn't know he was accused of the murder till after he was arrested."

After a bit of whispering between the accused man, his mother, and the lawyers, Brothers said:

"I am telling this just like I told my mother."

Before his arrival at the jail Mrs. Jessen said: "One look at him and I'll know whether or not he did it," although she asserted her belief in his innocence.

Greets His Mother.

"Hello, mom, how's everything?" her son greeted her, putting his left arm around her shoulder and kissing her while Detective Herbert Seyferlich was unfastening the handcuff from his own left wrist and Brothers' right. "How's everything?" he kept repeating to the mother he had not seen in seventeen months.

Some of the newspaper men wanted to question Brothers further, but Attorney Krum said he did not wish the defendant to say any more, at least until the lawyers had a chance to talk with him. It was the first time Krum and Piquett had seen their client. They had been hired by Mrs. Jessen when it became known that Brothers was in custody.

Warden Talks to Prisoner.

Warden Moneypenny had a few words to say to the prisoner who will be in his custody for some time about jail regulations and such, and then the reception was over and Brothers was marched out of the room.

"I knew he didn't do it," said Mrs. Jessen, almost hysterically. "I felt all along he didn't do it and now I know."

"He said: 'If an innocent man can't beat that rap there's no use living.'" Attorney Krum declared as he was leaving with the mother. The lawyer added that he considered he had won a victory in the fact the indictment was returned yesterday and Brothers put in jail at once rather than waiting for action on a habeas corpus writ tomorrow.

Betty Cook, a sweetheart of Brothers, who was questioned by Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and Chief Investigator Pat Roche, who are responsible for the arrest and indictment of Brothers, is to be questioned by the defense lawyers as a possible defense witness, they said.

Find Captive's Father Here.

The father of Brothers was found in Chicago yesterday, according to Attorneys Krum and Piquett, and they said they expect to interview him today. He is V. Harvey Brothers, a barber, and he was in touch with his son on several occasions after Leo fled from a murder charge in St. Louis and after the Lingle murder in Chicago, the lawyers said, although he and Leo's mother have been separated for 21 years.

Prosecutor Rathbun obtained the indictment on the testimony of Warren Williams and Otto Svobodo, eyewitnesses who identified Brothers as the man they saw put a gun to the back of Lingle's head in the Randolph street subway leading to the Illinois Central station, and the testimony of Capt. John Stege, who was at that time deputy police commissioner in charge of detectives. Capt. Stege reached the scene shortly after the killing and identified the victim as Lingle.

Charles Jones made the hole in one club last night at 1220 West 14th street, although he is not bubbling over with enthusiasm about it. It was a chimney hole, he got bunkered, the fire department was summoned to chop him out, and when it did he was turned over to the police.

Detectives Edward Hazzard and Kenneth Ebey of the Maxwell street station, in plain clothes, were walking east in 14th street at 9 o'clock. As they arrived in front of 1242 two colored bandits leaped from a doorway, pointed guns at them and told them, "Stick up your hands." Instead both detectives lashed out with their fists. The bandits dropped their guns and ran.

Runs Into His Home.

One, Mitchell Hamilton, 23 years old, 1400 Washburne avenue, was easily overtaken and captured. The other, Jones, ran in the doorway of 1220, a three story building of 50 flats, where he lives, and disappeared. It was learned later that he went to his apartment on the first floor, removed his clothing and, climbing out the bathroom window, shinned up a brick wall to the roof.

Neighbors, aroused by the commotion, saw him climbing, and told the policemen about it. They immediately ran to the roof. Jones couldn't be seen. The buildings are close together in the block and as Hazzard and Ebey were peering about they suddenly heard a faint cry of "Help," which they traced to a chimney at 1228.

Jones had let himself down it, planning to hold on with his hands and feet braced against the bricks. These were so hot, however, he quickly let go, sliding rapidly toward the basement furnace, where a hot fire was going. Between the third and second floors there are a couple of right and left turns, and it was between them that Jones became firmly wedged.

Wants Fire Put Out.

"Hurry," he called to the officers, "it's blistering down here. Have them put out that fire."

Ebey did, while Hazzard called the fire department, explaining the engineering problem. Truck company No. 5 of the 7th battalion responded. Its members with pickaxes and sledges cut a two foot square section from the side of the building and Jones was hauled out, wrapped in a blanket, and after receiving first aid at the county hospital, was removed to the Maxwell station.

ONLY $75,000 IS ALLOTTED FOR NEW TEACHERS

Board Expected to O. K. Expenditures.

The 1931 school board budget will call for an expenditure of $96,799,000, about $5,000,000 more than was appropriated for 1930, if recommendations agreed on by the finance committee during the week of secret meetings are incorporated when the budget is finally adopted by the Thompson board of trustees. This tentative figure reached by the committee was made public by Harry H. Brackett, auditor.

The probable allotment of money to each of the five funds from which the various departments of the schools system are financed, according to Mr. Brackett, will be as follows:

|---|---|
| Educational fund | $63,728,000 |
| Building fund | 29,316,000 |
| Playground fund | 1,382,000 |
| Free textbook fund | 1,457,000 |
| Pension and retirement fund | 916,000 |

Following the last closed door session yesterday morning, James A. Hemingway, chairman of the finance committee, said that a draft of the budget was being examined by lawyers and he indicated that the details would not be made public until the time of its approval in the final form.

$75,000 for New Teachers.

It was learned that during the committee's morning session in the private office of President Lewis E. Myers, the appropriation of $75,000 for the hiring of sixty new teachers was recommended. Superintendent William J. Bogan characterized this sum as a "mere drop in the bucket," adding: "But I am grateful for getting anything at all." Mr. Bogan had told the board that $300,000 was needed to relieve overcrowded classes.

Before an open meeting of the board, at which the representatives of labor organizations and school employes groups were heard, Joseph P. Savage, a recent Thompson appointee to the board, admitted that he was the author of the plan to hire secretary-investigators for each board member.

Pleading that he was ignorant concerning many school board matters on which he was expected to vote, Savage, a law partner of former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, asked that investigators be hired at $5,000 a year, one for each board member, to keep that member informed. The annual cost of carrying out this plan would be more than $60,000. The committee took no action on the request.

Questioned on Contracts.

Ernest Withall, business manager, when asked if his office informed the board members about contracts and other matters submitted to them for a vote, said: "We tell them everything they want to know."

William D. Burke, truant officer, was one of the many who made requests for higher wages for various employés of the board.

"The board needs more truant officers and they should be better paid," he said. "A dog catcher gets $200 a month. The wage scale for truant officers ranges from $145 to $195."

Members of the school board said yesterday that the earliest possible date for adoption of the budget would be tomorrow afternoon at the regular board meeting. Since the entire board, of which Mrs. W. S. Hefferan is the lone Democratic member, has been attending the finance committee sessions, it is not expected that there will be any opposition when the final draft comes up for a vote.

Italy to Stop Love Cheaters by Rigid Law

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 12.—The sudden clamping down of the Fascist morals lid, following Pope Pius' stern encyclical on present day morals, has struck terror to Europe's most frivolous aristocracy.

It was the arrest of the famous theatrical star, Wanda Orlandini, on a charge of misconduct which brought the truth home. When it was learned a few days ago that the actress had been sentenced to three months in prison at Florence the gilded Roman nobility declared:

"They don't send you to jail for that," promptly concluding that Wanda was guilty of something really serious.

Arrest an Object Lesson.

It was announced today that her imprisonment is intended as an object lesson as to the drastic nature of the new Fascist penal code, which went into effect Jan. 1, and which provides heavy fines and imprisonment for marital infidelity. A man can only be prosecuted on the complaint of an injured husband, but a woman can be arrested on a common warrant any time the authorities consider that her indiscretions constitute a public scandal.

The Fascists have been cleaning up Rome for years and, as far as public vice is concerned, it is the purest city in Europe. But this is the first time the private pecadillos of the aristocracy have been interferred with. Now it is announced that the same rigid "Fascist morality" will be enforced on all classes.

The police have received instructions to enforce strictly every provision of the new code regardless of the prominence of the persons involved. At the same time a cleanup drive has been launched to rid Rome of its last remaining street walkers and all night bars. Dubious hotels are being closely watched, while sidewalk flirts of both sexes are being severely reprimanded by the police.

Blue Blood Gigolos Hit.

It is intimated that foreign women, who have come to Europe for a fling, will get into trouble if they do not behave themselves, at least in public: and orders have gone forth to clean up the fashionable hotels and cabarets of the blue bloods who hang around hoping that the romantic Roman scenery will go to some American girl's head.

In line with the pope's stricture against birth control, newspapers today announced that there will be 100 per cent enforcement against the selling of contraceptives and birth control literature. Violation of this is punishable by heavy penalties. From various provinces news arrived today of the arrests of a number of doctors suspected of having performed illegal operations. Under the new code they will be prosecuted as murderers.

That the Fascist brand of morality still differs from Catholic morality as outlined by the pope, was pointed out today by an article in Giornale D'Italia by the famous lawyer, Giuseppe Gregoraci, who declared that civil law recognizes the right of a doctor to perform an abortion to save the mother's life.

About the only thing the new code does not affect is licensed houses of prostitution, which the government considers necessary.

CRUEL DOG COLLARS ARE UNDER ATTACK BY MRS. M'LAUGHLIN

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Lake Forest yesterday began a search of hardware stores of the north shore in an effort to find the sellers of certain types of dog collars which she termed "anything but humane."

Mrs. McLaughlin said two dogs had been taken to her "Orphans of the Storm" refuge in Deerfield, suffering from the effects of the collars. The inside of one dog's collar, she said, was lined with carpet tacks with the points turned inward, and the other was a chain affair with a piece of wire at the end of each link, pointed inward.

The collars are believed to have been designed to compel the dogs to remain quiet after they have been tied up for the night.

Purse Is Trash, but Candy Is Something Else Again

William Popielsky, wholesale confectioner, didn't utter a word of protest last night when four robbers held him up in his garage in the rear of his store at 1909 Armitage avenue, and took his purse containing $110. But when they started to take several boxes of candy from his truck, Popielsky's indignation rose. "Stop that, you thieves . . ." he commanded. The robbers, objecting to being called thieves, knocked him down. But they didn't get the candy.

Belle Dashes to Housetops in Raid; Seized

New York, Jan. 12 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—Clad only in a light cloak and flaming red pajamas, Belle Livingstone fled across the housetops this morning when for the second time in the last two weeks federal agents raided her place at 158-160 East 58th street.

Three agents in evening clothes gained access to the premises just after midnight. About 100 patrons were there. Some of them were dancing to music played by a jazz orchestra downstairs. Others were lined up against a bar. Still others were playing miniature golf or pingpong.

The agents made themselves at home, ordered several drinks, and finally signaled to other agents waiting outside. These forced their way in through the front door and arrested Miss Joan Davies, 26, who described herself as "secretary of the Fifty-eighth Street Country club"; four bartenders, two waiters, and the doorman.

Flees Through Trapdoor.

The former actress, who has tried twice to enliven Park avenue with what she calls "salons," was in her apartment on one of the upper floors of the house when she heard the patrons scrambling for the doors.

Miss Livingstone tried to escape. Hastily donning a cloak over her flaming red pajamas, she fled through a trapdoor on to the roof.

Then she dashed across to the roof adjoining, entered that house by a roof door, and dashed downstairs. She was just about to jump into a taxicab when the agents seized her and walked her back to her "salon."

Blanket, Pillow to Jail.

Meanwhile the place was being searched. A large quantity of bottles, said to contain liquor, were seized, and these and Miss Livingstone were taken to the police station.

Miss Livingstone was arrested on Dec. 5 when agents raided her "salon." On that occasion she complained that she had been made to sleep on the floor in a cell.

This morning when she and Miss Davies and the seven other employés were taken to the police station Miss Livingstone brought a pillow and a blanket along.

"I have an idea I'll need them," she told reporters.

BURIED LAKE FOUND CAUSE OF LYONS DISASTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LYONS, France, Jan. 12.—The engineering expert commissioned by the court to investigate the cause of the disastrous landslide which killed scores on Nov. 13, has discovered a subterranean lake feeding several full flowing springs which emerge from the hillside. This lake and the springs, according to his opinion, caused the disaster.

While examining the springs, the expert found a tunnel which led him 100 yards to a subterranean lake of considerable size 20 feet underneath a cemetery.

He also found traces of old aqueducts, with which the Romans piped water from the Champagne region to ancient Lyons, then called Lugdunum. Excavations today revealed another victim of the landslide, an unidentified woman.

DROP REVALUE PLAN

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The board of review's plan, announced Dec. 15, to revalue all of the land in Cook county for taxing purposes, as of April 1, 1929, has apparently been abandoned. Tax experts, the bankers, and Gov. Emmerson are said to have told the reviewers that their plan—which was never explained in detail—was impracticable of accomplishment before April 1, when the 1929 taxes are payable.

Bankers are said to have told the reviewers that unless taxes are collected on that date the city, county, schools and other local governments would be unable to borrow money by means of tax anticipation warrants on which to operate.

Gov. Emmerson is reported to have told the reviewers that if taxes are not collected April 1 the state will have no cash with which to pay soldiers' bonus bonds and other obligations. So it was intimated by Chairman Charles V. Barrett at a conference in the board of review office yesterday that a sweeping cut in land values will not be attempted.

Instead Barrett and Edward R. Litzinger, another member, announced the board's intention to correct obvious and glaring errors in valuation. How many errors they will attempt to correct and how much time it will take were not estimated, except that Mr. Litsinger said the reviewers hope to complete the task so that taxs can be collected April 1. The reviewers asked that the valuators of the board of assessors join in the task of correcting errors and John Conroy of the assessors promised coöperation.

"The reviewers are attempting to pass the buck to the board of assessors," commented J. Louis Jacobs, the county board efficiency expert. "They have been monkeying along since Dec. 15 with no plan of procedure. If they go along at the same rate it will take them five years to complete their task. If the books are not in the hands of the county clerk by Feb. 1 tax collections April 1 will be delayed. That means the breaking down of the local governments. Unless the reviewers change their methods it will be May 1 or May 15 before taxes can be collected and the county will not be able to pay salaries much after March 1."

Sutherland Issues Warning.

"You will have a worse situation than you had last winter if taxes are not collected April 1," warned Douglas Sutherland of the Civic federation.

George O. Fairweather of the joint tax commission said that he had investigated about 10,000 loans on real estate and that there was no substantial change in land values between April 1, 1928, and April 1, 1929. He added that these loans indicated that the 1928 assessment, which the reviewers propose to change, had substantial equity and fairness in it.

On the other side Charles E. Fox of the Hyde Park Real Estate board said that "taxpayers will not pay unjust, unfair and inequitable taxes." Edwin D. Lawler, attorney representing the Cook County Truck Gardeners' association, said that the farmers will not pay their taxes unless they get a hearing on their complaints.

Employes of the boards of assessors and review started yesterday afternoon to "correct the errors" in land assessments.

At a conference with the board of assessors the reviewers announced that the assessments in ten townships had been approved. The townships are Barrington, Palatine, Hanover, Schaumberg, Lemont, Orland, Palos, Northfield, Wheeling, and Elk Grove.

CITY ACCUSED OF NEGLECTING CHILD PATIENT

Doctor Asks Inquiry on Municipal Hospital.

An investigation of the municipal contagious diseases hospital, which is supervised by Health Commissioner Kegel, was requested yesterday in a letter sent to Mayor Thompson. Failure of the health department staff to send an ambulance for a child suffering with scarlet fever forms the basis of the complaint.

The writer of the letter, Dr. Everett R. Brown, 7300 Vincennes avenue, stated that in November he was called to attend a nine year old girl, Lellia McQueary, 21 East 100th street. He diagnosed the case as scarlet fever, and as there were eleven children, of whom six were under 15 years of age, he advised that the child be sent to the city hospital.

Hospital Refuses to Help.

"I immediately called the hospital," Dr. Brown wrote, "and was informed that the ambulances do not work at night, and when I asked them what a child would do should she require surgical procedure to save her life in case she had diphtheria, I was informed that it would be just too bad for the child.

"They informed me that the patient would be picked up the next day. She never was picked up and the ambulance never did go to that place at all, which I discovered today. I reported this case by card and a sign was put on the door. The mother told the sign man that the child was to be taken to the hospital that day, but he stated he knew nothing about it.

Girl Left Without Care.

"The above is a fine situation when we are paying high taxes to keep up this hospital. This little girl had no medical attention after my first visit because they are too poor and too proud to ask for charity, and I think this entire institution should be thoroughly investigated."

Dr. Kegel stated that the ambulance service of the hospital has been discontinued, as there are only a few calls during the year. In cases of emergency, he said, the attending physician is advised to bring the patient to the hospital in his own automobile.

Barnes Enters Shoals Fight Against Operation by U. S.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Organized business, through the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, today entered the fight against governmental operation of power plants at Muscle Shoals.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber and close friend of President Hoover, asserted that "government operation of the Muscle Shoals plant cannot be justified from the viewpoint either of economic enterprise or of national policy."

William Butterworth of Moline, Ill., president of the chamber, in a communication to member organizations, said that Muscle Shoals has no further value for national defense, as private production of nitrates is ample for any possible military use, and that it should be disposed of.

The joint attack by Mr. Barnes and Mr. Butterworth was regarded as a move to bolster the opposition to the conference report on the Norris government operation of Muscle Shoals bill, which is scheduled for submission to congress within the next few days.

Preparing Public for a Veto.

It was also construed as intended to build up sentiment to support President Hoover in a veto of the Muscle Shoals bill if it should reach the White House.

Meanwhile the litigation over the validity of legislation authorizing another major government power project, the 165 million dollar Boulder dam, advanced a step in the Supreme court of the United States, which fixed March 9 as the date for arguments on the issues raised by the state of Arizona.

Solicitor General Thacher, on behalf of the government, filed a motion to dismiss the Arizona suit and a brief in support of it. Briefs also were filed by the states of California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Colorado, and Wyoming in support of the Boulder dam legislation. The fixing of a date for arguments in March made it appear likely that the court will rule on the question of the invasion of the sovereignty of the state of Arizona and other legal points involved before it recesses for the summer.

Move to Reopen Power Fight.

Meanwhile there was a move launched in the senate to renew the fight with President Hoover over the membership of the power commission.

Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.] suggested during the day that a senatorial committee should investigate the circumstances in connection with the dismissal by the power commissioners of Solicitor Charles A. Russell and Chief Accountant W. V. King, who have been regarded as antagonistic to power interests, Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] said he also was inclined to favor such an investigation. Senator Walsh may reopen the controversy over the power commission in a speech in the senate tomorrow.

The three members of the commission involved in the controversy, George Otis Smith, Claude L. Draper and Marcel Garsaud, were on the job and expressed assurance of the correctness of the President's contention that the senate's move for reconsideration of the confirmation of their appointments was without legal authority.

Salaries Up to Controller.

Interest was centered on whether J. R. McCarl, controller general, might refuse to permit the payment of their salaries. If he should do so the three members would be forced to carry the issue into the courts. If, on the other hand, Mr. McCarl should accept the view of President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell and offer no objection to the payment of the salaries it seems to be admitted that there is no method by which the anti-administration forces can obtain a court determination of the question.

Mr. Barnes in his statement on Muscle Shoals legislation said that the issue is of "incalculable importance to the future of American industry and the maintenance of sound national economic policy."

"Private industry," he said, "aided by scientific research, has so improved the processes of nitrogen fixation that from this viewpoint the Muscle Shoals plant is virtually obsolete. Its value for the manufacture of fertilizer is equally questionable.

Power Only Value Left.

"The one valuable asset of Muscle Shoals is hydro-electric power. Concerning this the question at issue is whether the government shall enter the field of economic enterprise, in violation of every principle hitherto observed in the conduct of government as well as in the conduct of industry, by developing and distributing this power. Here again there is no question of the capacity of private industry to render this public service, probably more efficiently and more cheaply than it can be rendered by government, which was not designed to perform such a function."

Solicitor General Thacher in his brief filed with the Supreme court argued that the proposals of the Colorado river compact will not invade any of the vested rights of Arizona or her citizens.

He argues that in failing to allege any actual or threatened interference with Arizona's existing rights the bill presents merely abstract questions which may never arise and that the Boulder dam act is clearly constitutional upon the allegations of the bill.

DROUGHT RELIEF SHOWDOWN DUE IN HOUSE TODAY

Hoover Forces to Try and Send Bill to Conference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The controversy over drought relief appropriations which has been smoldering for the last week in the house will come to a head tomorrow when administration forces will seek to send the bill as passed by the house and amended by the senate to conference. A special rule to overcome the situation caused by objections to unanimous consent made on several occasions last week was approved today by the rules committee.

Representative F. H. LaGuardia [Rep., N. Y.] served notice that after the bill is sent to conference he would offer a motion to instruct the conferees to accept the senate amendment with an amendment providing for distribution of food to the needy in the cities as well as in the rural districts.

$15,000,000 For Food Loans.

The senate amendment, which is opposed by the administration, provided for $15,000,000 for food loans to farmers in the drought stricken areas in addition to $45,000,000 for loans for seed, feed and fertilizer as provided in the original house bill.

Representative John Garner [Dem., Tex.], minority leader, said that at least 150 of the 435 members of the house would vote against the special rule with a view to forcing a direct vote on the senate amendment.

Red Cross Asks $10,000,000.

Quotas in a campaign for a $10,000,000 drought relief fund were assigned to 3,000 Red Cross chapters today by the national organization.

"Greatly increased demands during the last ten days have made imperative an immediate campaign for a Red Cross relief fund to meet the emergency situation through parts of 21 states in the drought stricken areas," said John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, in a telegram to chapters throughout the country.

Youth Caught in Robbery Attempt to Face Court

James Brady, 17 years old, is to be arraigned today in the Boys' court charged with attempted robbery. Brady was captured on Sunday night by Dr. Clarence T. Plaut, 1115 East 52d street, in the latter's home after the doctor had heard the screams of Miss Edna Beck, 20 years old, a maid in the home. Miss Beck said that as she was about to enter the front door Brady seized her purse. She screamed and struggled with him while Dr. Plaut hurried down from the second floor. Brady said he is an errand boy and lives at 828 East 53d street.

THOUSANDS CALLED BACK TO THEIR JOBS AT DETROIT PLANTS

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 12.— (AP) —Industrial pay rolls in the Detroit area today were stepped up approximately $2,000,000 a week. Thousands of workers were recalled either on full or part time as automobile factories increased their production schedules.

The total number of men employed in five large factories stood at 136,600 today. These men are working on schedules varying from three to five days a week. The factories are those of the Ford Motor company, the Cadillac Motor company, the Hudson Motor company, the Buick Motor company, and the Chevrolet Motor company.

Officials of these factories have indicated that additional workers will be put on as the situation warrants.

Heading the list was the Ford Motor company, where more than 60,000 men returned today, bringing the total employment to 75,000. Ford plants throughout the country today had a total of 107,000 men at work. The majority of the Ford workers are on a three day a week basis.

The employment at other factories in the Detroit area stood as follows: Buick, 13,500; Hudson, 10,000; Cadillac, 6,000; Chevrolet, 32,100. Officials of Chevrolet have indicated that they planned to have the normal force of 40,000 at work by the end of January.

The resumption of activity was echoed in other parts of the state as two Kalamazoo plants announced their plans to start work within 30 days and four factories in Belding resumed normal activity. The Kalamazoo plants were the Kalamazoo Stove company and the United Corporation of America.

Ford officials at Detroit said it was uncertain when their organization would start a five day week schedule.

"Whether we shall go on a five day basis for the majority of the men in the near future depends entirely," the officials said, "on business conditions and the market for cars."

France Preserves Germans' War Tunnel at Verdun

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VERDUN, France, Jan. 12.—The military tunnel built by the former crown prince of Germany under "Dead Man's Hill" to shelter German troops at Verdun has been classed as an historic site. Henceforth it will receive the same protection of the French government as the cathedral of Rheims, the walled city of Carcassonne, and the pope's palace at Avignon. The classification has been made by the national department of fine arts upon the request of the city of Verdun.

4 Royal Air Force Officers Are Killed in Two Crashes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12—Four royal air force officers were killed today in two crashes. Three officers were occupants of an army bombing plane which crashed in the dark into a dyke at Westwoodside, near the border of Nottingham. A fourth officer was killed at North Weald, Essex, in a collision in the air. There were two other air force crashes, but neither was fatal.

in town, which also had run out of blanks, decided to issue some temporary ones and this was soon done. More than 150 families were taken care of then. Last Saturday another group of grim looking men came in from the country for food. But the organization was ready for them this time and there was no trouble.

In many respects this situation is worse than that which followed the great flood of 1927, when this town was submerged. When the waters receded and the farmers could get back on the land they were all right. But now, when the lands are open, the sun is warm and the air mild, they are unable to start work because they have no money to operate with. This applies to planters with big farms, free of mortgages, as well as to the small farmers. They declare that the situation is worse than it has been in twenty years.

Tales of sickness, starvation and clothes made out of gunny sacking, a family of eight with a Red Cross fund of $1.50 to last them two weeks may be heard here on every hand. Pellagra and pneumonia are appearing and money is needed for medicine. It is stated that there are 300 children who have no clothes to wear to school.

Willing to Work, but No Jobs.

The men and women of the bread lines are shy and ashamed. They would work at 50 cents a day if there was any work to do. Trouble has been slow in coming, but now it has hit them with a heavy hand.

Here, where they raise the cotton, they are forced to ask for charity. In old England where they make the cotton into cloth the economic situation is similarly precarious. There they live in tight little red brick cottages on a few shillings a week. Here they live in flimsy wooden cabins, burning oak logs instead of coal, and it is an open question which is the worse off now.

SHOCHTIM WAR DUE FOR FRESH OUTBREAK TODAY

Warfare in the Shochtim, organization of Kosher poultry killers, supposedly cleaned of racketeering a week ago when all officers were ousted under orders of the Chicago rabbinate, is slated to break out again today at the first meeting of the union under the new heads. Police protection will be requested this morning.

Joe Etkins, business agent of the union at the time the rabbinate declared a ban on poultry as a last resort to drive out racketeering, and now under bonds of $20,000 on an assault and battery charge, declared war yesterday. He notified S. Rest, rabbinical choice as president of the union, that he would attend the meeting, to be held in the Labor lyceum, Ogden and Kedzie avenues, with "men who will back me up."

In a telephone conversation with Rest, Etkins stated, "You will resign at the meeting tomorrow or I'll see that you never attend another one. Resign and see that I am placed back in control." According to Rest he made a veiled allusion to "people who have been bumped off."

DURKIN PLEA FOR CLEMENCY WILL BE HEARD TODAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Eugene Doss, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Ben Hamilton, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph Burke.

Jack Fairchild, contributing to delinquency, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Frank Nelson, robbery, sentenced 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Ethel Boyle, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski.

Sergy Sherchinka, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Earl Malcolm, bigamy, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Martin J. Durkin, gunman and automobile thief, now serving a 35 year sentence for the murder of Edward C. Shanahan, a federal agent, will seek executive clemency today before the state board of pardons and paroles at Springfield. Durkin was sentenced after he had been the object of one of the most intense man hunts in the history of Chicago. Shanahan was shot down during an investigation of Durkin's activities in stolen automobiles in violation of the Dyer act.

Betty Werner, prominent throughout the Durkin hunt as the fugitive's sweetheart and through whom he was trapped several times, yesterday left for Hammond, Ind., and will accompany the prisoner's mother to Springfield. It was indicated that testimony at the parole hearing will be a repetition of the trial testimony, at which Durkin said he thought the government agent was a holdup man.

Mary Nichols, identified as the driver of an automobile used by a gang of bank robbers, allegedly headed by her brother, Glenn Nichols, in the holding of up several downstate banks, was held in bond of $1,500 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on charges of violating the anti-narcotic laws. A hearing was scheduled for tomorrow. The woman was arrested last week with three men companions by Lieut. Philip Carroll of the detective bureau.

Plans to operate on Lieut. Comm. RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 12.—The arrival of 30 freight cars from Germany in Riga, containing equipment and machinery for a large ammonia factory, for trans-shipment to Russia, is causing discussion in the Baltic press. It is pointed out that the new chemical plant is capable of producing poison gas, and that this shipment is one of several similar ones which Germany has made to Russia in the last two years. The soviet authorities admit the factory will be erected and supervised by German engineers and chemists, who have already arrived in Moscow.

SENATORS VOTE TO SEAT 4 MEN ON TARIFF BODY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special]—A radical Republican-Democratic foray against confirmation by the senate of President Hoover's appointees to the federal tariff commission today proved more of a gesture than a serious show of force.

Despite its leadership by such distinguished insurgents as Senators William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] and George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], who can usually rally a considerable anti-administration following, an attempt to drum up opposition against former Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania for chairman of the commission failed for lack of support.

Without so much as a roll call to lend the opposition the dignity of a real threat, Mr. Fletcher was confirmed, as were Thomas W. Page of Virginia, John Lee Coulter of North Dakota, and Alfred P. Dennis of Maryland.

Demonstration Fails.

A demonstration, captained by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] and Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], insurgent Republican, was staged against the confirmation of Edgar B. Brossard of Utah, but the coalition coheris stood silent with none of the brandishings of epithets which marked the assault on the power commissioners last week. Mr. Brossard's confirmation is looked for tomorrow and the sixth commissioner, Lincoln Dixon of Indiana, is expected to go through unopposed.

All six commissioners are now in office under recess appointment and are the first to sit since the commission's reorganization under the new tariff act. Dennis, Brossard, and Dixon are holdovers from the old commission.

The debate over Fletcher and Brossard occupied the entire session today and appropriation and all other bills waited on a siding.

The Democrats and radicals harked back to the controversy on the sugar tariff in 1924 and to the senate investigation of the tariff of 1926-'27 for material with which to bombard Brossard with uncomplimentary parts of speech.

Made Sugar Report.

As an economist on the commission's staff Brossard had collected facts for the 1924 minority report recommending an increased excise on sugar.

Appearing before the senate committee two years later he had evaded and attempted to deceive his questioners—according to charges by his critics today—concerning his part in preparing the report.

"Hypocrisy," "deceit," double dealing," and "evasion" were some of the nouns; "false," "dishonest," "disingenuous" were some of the adjectives tatted out by Senators Harrison and La Follette to get their opinions of Mr. Brossard off their chests.

Mr. Brossard, who is sponsored by Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the senate finance committee, had forgotten the rights of the consumers when he assisted in advocating a high sugar tariff, Senator Harrison declared.

Misstatements Charged.

"The President of the United States was duly warned concerning this nomination," said Senator Harrison. "Some of us believe that Brossard is too close to the sugar interests and has formed unchangeable opinions on the sugar tariff. That, of course, is very pleasing to the senior senator from Utah and to every one in a position to be influenced by the chairman of the finance committee. The record of the special committee which investigated the tariff commission shows that Brossard was guilty of misstatements of fact. Men on the tariff commission ought not to engage in deceit, double dealing, and evasion. Yet that is the kind of man President Hoover submits to us despite the notice and warning given him."

Senator La Follette asserted that Brossard "cannot command the respect of the senate because of the manner in which he conducted himself under oath."

Senator Borah's thesis against Mr. Fletcher was that if congress was to delegate some of its tax levying powers to a commission an appointee should be—as Mr. Fletcher had admitted he was not—a tariff expert.

"The broad question before us," said Senator Borah, "is what we are doing with reference to all these commissions. A few days ago we confirmed—I suppose we did—the chairman of the power commission who now discloses that he knows nothing about his job and prefers to know nothing. What kind of hybrid monstrosity are we creating to be attached to the government—with these commissions on which we are asked to put ignorant men?"

Mr. Borah wished to see commissions of experts and then to see both the executive and legislative—chiefly the executive—departments keep their hands off.

Power Case Comes Up.

"But did the senator from Idaho vote to keep hands off the power commission? Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] inquired.

"I thought I did," Mr. Borah came back.

"I thought the senator voted to recall them for an act committed after they were in office."

"I believe I made my position plain," Mr. Borah's tone was edged. "I do not think they have ever legally taken office."

Senator William H. King, who like Mr. Smoot is from Utah, but is a Democrat, entered the lists against his colleague.

"The President has named twenty-five or thirty commissioners whose duties invade every field of human endeavor," he said. "They invade the field not only of federal action, but they go into the states. When any question comes up a commission is named to gather data and investigate. Just what these commissions have accomplished is not always clear, but when we have commissions as important as this one, certainly its members should be men entirely qualified."

Travels Alone to See Her Mother

Girl, 4, on Journey

Aubrey Francine Bacchi is only 4 years old but she feels that she has had a wealth of experience when it comes to travel. She arrived yesterday on the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, not seeming to mind in the least having made the trip all alone from Philadelphia, in order to see her mother, Mrs. Nettie Bacchi, 2900 Mildred avenue. The little girl is being given the trip by her aunt, Mrs. Addie Murray, with whom she lives in Philadelphia.

ADMITS BEATING SELF UP TO WIN HUSBAND BACK

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A mother who stirred police a week ago with a story of how she was bound and beaten by a maniac told officers today, they said, that she tied and injured herself and wrote the half burned note found in her hand in an effort to arouse the sympathy of the husband from whom she is estranged.

Mrs. Rebecca Hirsh, 35, was found last Monday in the dressing room of the downtown bindery where she worked slashed in the chest and forehead, securely tied, and holding a note signed "XXX Maniac."

Today, ready to be discharged from a hospital, she was quoted by police as saying she committed the injuries herself, and also fired her clothing last June when she told police a man had robbed her and set her dress afire.

FLU AND COUGHS ASSAIL STARS OF NEW YORK OPERA

Singer Illnesses Upset Programs.

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The grip, flu and bronchitis are playing havoc with the personnel and the projected productions of the Metropolitan Opera company.

No official statements have been made of the changes in cast and in production, which have been necessary, but followers of the opera have observed them and have learned that seven principals and at least ten members of the chorus have been obliged to drop out of their places since the epidemic of colds got under way a week ago.

At least twice within the week the opera for the night has been changed within the last few hours before presentation.

Bori and Johnson Ill.

The illness of Lucrezia Bori and Edward Johnson, who were to have sung together in "Romeo and Juliet," caused the presentation of "Faust" with other singers.

Lauri-Volpi has been out of casts for which he was intended for two or three nights but has recovered so that he will be able to sing with Lili Pons tomorrow night.

Edith Fleischer got through with Boccacio with difficulty last Friday night, but Mina Morgka had to stay at home in bed.

Gertrude Kappel has been out since a week ago when word reached Mr. Gatti-Casazza at 6 o'clock on the evening she was to sing that she was unable to leave her bed. Dorothea Manski was the only star on Mr. Gatti-Casazza's roll who was ready to take Mme. Kappel's place.

Hunt Movies for Substitute.

A telephone message to the Manski home reached her 11 year old daughter, who could only tell Mr. Gatti-Casazza that "mamma is out somewhere at the movies."

The little girl did not know in what movie theater to tell Mr. Gatti-Casazza to search for her mother, but assured him: "Don't worry, Mr. Gatti, I'll find her." The child went out and searched six Broadway movies and found her mother and sent her hurrying to the Metropolitan to take over the part.

Rosa Ponselle before that had been so ill that it was necessary to change the opera from "Louise" to "Gioconda." She has now so far recovered that she was able to rehearse today for a benefit late this week for the Florence Crittenden home.

Druggan Pleads Guilty to Tax Fraud; Await Test Case Appeal

Terry Druggan, public enemy and pioneer in the beer racket, appeared in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty to charges of evading income taxes.

The gangster's case had been continued for one week earlier in the day. When Druggan changed his mind it was announced by Attorney Peter Sissman, representing Frankie Lake, Druggan's former partner, that his client probably would plead guilty next Monday.

Await Appeal in Other Cases.

Druggan pleaded guilty on his own terms, with a stipulation going on file that will afford him the benefits of an appeal without incurring the legal expenses. The plea of guilty to two misdemeanor counts is irrevocable, but the defendant reserved the privilege of changing the plea as to six felony counts in the event the Circuit Court of Appeals reverses convictions of Ralph J. Capone and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, in whose cases similar points of law were raised.

Judge Wilkerson deferred sentence until March 2 and indicated that further continuances would be granted pending the action of the Appellate court and possibly the Supreme court.

All concerned expressed pleasure over Druggan's action. The government prosecutors, Cassius Poust, Dwight H. Green and Jacob Grossman, pointed out that it would save them the time and expense of a trial and that it would mean no delay in sending Druggan to the penitentiary, for if he stood trial he would appeal from a conviction.

Capt. William F. Waugh, Druggan's attorney, said that "with all the present hysteria over public enemies, it would be virtually impossible to obtain a jury who would give my client a fair trial."

Druggan had nothing to say except when Judge Wilkerson asked if he understood the terms of the stipulation. He said he did.

Druggan faces a possible maximum prison term of thirty-two years and a fine of $80,000. Frank Nitto, alias Nitti, the only other income tax defendant to plead guilty, was sentenced to eighteen months and fined $10,000, and he was another public enemy.

Two of the Druggan counts charge failure to file returns for 1924 and 1925 and two others charge attempts to evade and defeat taxes for those years. Two indictments of two counts each charge attempts to "cheat, swindle and defraud" through the making of a false offer in compromise, in which Druggan tried to settle his tax troubles for $25,000.

Charge Income of Million.

The last two indictments are based on the same offense and would be consolidated. In the event the felony counts in the cases of Capone and O'Brien are reversed, Druggan could still be sentenced to a maximum of two years in jail and fined $20,000 on the misdemeanor counts.

Druggan has been assessed $300,000 in income taxes and penalties dating back to 1922 and he is alleged to have had an income of more than $1,000,000 from 1922 to 1925.

Druggan and Lake are still reported on unfriendly terms, their falling out dating back to last May when Lake attended a tea dance and got himself arrested. Lake must appear next Monday and the police will have a chance to serve a Lyle vagrancy warrant upon him.

SOCIETY SHOWS MEMENTOES OF U. S. STATESMEN

A camp kettle used by Alexander Hamilton at Valley Forge, Benjamin Franklin's spectacles and printing materials used by him, and a settee from Daniel Webster's office, together with unusual pictures and manuscripts, are being exhibited this week by the Chicago Historical society to commemorate the birthdays of the three great Americans. Hamilton, the first American secretary of the treasury, was born on Jan. 11, 1757; Franklin, statesman and inventor, was born on Jan. 17, 1706, and Daniel Webster, the orator, was born on Jan. 18, 1782.

Kidnap and Beat Worker at Cut Rate Gas Station

Benjamin Friedman, 50 years old, attendant at a gasoline filling station at 1136 North Halsted street, was kidnaped last night by two men in a sedan, and after being so severely beaten that his skull was fractured, was dumped out unconscious at Gardner street and Austin avenue. He was taken to the Augustana hospital. The station had been selling gasoline at seven gallons for $1, a cut rate, and police of the East Chicago avenue station believe the assault indicates that racketeers are attempting to dictate prices. Friedman is married and lives at 1135 North Halsted street.

NEGRO CHAINED TO ROOF; TORCH APPLIED; DIES

Slayer of Girl Teacher Is Lynched by Mob.

Maryville, Mo., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Raymond Gunn, Negro, chained to the ridgepole of a little white country schoolhouse, died in flames today, victim of a mob's vengeance.

Neither civilian officers nor a National Guard battery, mobilized to protect him, interfered after those who resorted to lynch law had wrested Gunn, confessed murderer, from the automobile of Sheriff Harve England and marched and dragged him three miles to the school.

There, eyewitnesses said, he was taken to the place where the battered, partly nude and violated body of Velma Colter, 19 year old school teacher, had been found, and made to repeat a confession of complicity in her death.

Chained to Rafters.

The schoolroom furniture was piled about the building. Gunn was forced to mount a ladder to the roof and creep to the ridgepole. Shingles were removed to permit him to be fastened by chains to the rafters of the building. Roof, floors and furniture were drenched with gasoline and a moment later a burst of flame reached the Negro. At least 2,000 persons stood around the small building.

The victim waved at the mob, which contained hundreds of women, once before the flames reached his flesh, then writhed and screamed until he died.

"The crowd gave a great shout as the flames reached the Negro," one eyewitness related. "Until that time he had made no demonstration. But when the flames seared his naked torso he screamed and struggled. The flames leaped higher and his cries were quickly silenced.

Rumble Comes from Mob.

"The mob stood quietly watching the pyre as the flames enveloped it, but when the ridgepole with its human burden fell into the inferno below, a rumble arose above the crackling of the burning building and continued with diminishing force until the site was a mass of embers. Then the crowd began to disperse."

As spectators returned from the scene of violence they said members of the mob made no attempt to conceal their identity.

Battery Called Out.

Battery C, 128th field artillery, had been mobilized on orders of A. V. Adams, adjutant general of Missouri, to assist Sheriff England in protecting Gunn, and its members were in the nearby armory waiting for the sheriff's orders when the Negro was removed from the car of the sheriff at the courthouse.

Capt. Ed Condon, commanding C battery, said the unit was under orders to act only upon request of the sheriff.

"We were powerless to move," he added, "unless ordered to do so by Sheriff England. We left the armory at 3 p. m. without hearing from the sheriff."

That was hours after the lynching.

"Might Have Been Bloodshed."

"I did not know the guard was mobilized, and with the crowd in the mood it was there might have been bloodshed if the armed guard had been called out," the sheriff explained tonight. He said he did not know what he would have done had he been informed the militia was standing under arms.

"I never expected any violence, and my first knowledge that there would be some, was when we drove up to the courthouse with Gunn in a motor car. I had been assured by men in whom I had reason to trust, that they were here only to see that justice was done, and that they were willing for the law to take its course.

"I do not believe the mob was organized. When three deputies and I drove up to the courthouse in an automobile somebody called 'Get him,' and that seemed to fire the crowd. I held up my hand and urged them not to do anything, but it stopped them only momentarily. Then they rushed me and nothing could be done."

Prosecutor Is Silent.

Virgil Rathbun, Nodaway county prosecutor, said he did not care to discuss what action he might take against leaders of the mob.

In his final confession at the schoolhouse, the Negro introduced the name of Paul (Shike) Smith, 28, a Negro hunting companion, and sought to place part of the blame for the actual clubbing of the teacher upon him. Smith has disappeared since Gunn's arrest.

Smith was arrested late today in Omaha. Threats against Smith were reported voiced by members of the mob. Tonight it was rumored that several automobile loads of men had departed for Omaha. The report could not be verified. Sheriff England said he had telephoned Omaha officers, who reported no evidence of the arrival of the party there.

The lynching of Gunn followed an unsuccessful attempt on his life at St. Joseph, to which place he was taken for safe keeping after Nodaway county officers announced he had confessed and a mob began to form here.

He was spirited away to Kansas City, then returned to Maryville at 3 a. m. a week ago for preliminary hearing. The prosecutor, whose house had been picketed by incensed citizens, eluded them by remaining away all night before the hearing. Gunn was returned to Kansas City and reappeared in Maryville this morning for arraignment.

Seized at Courthouse.

Gunn was seized as he arrived at the courthouse in an automobile driven by Gabe Purcell, deputy sheriff. The leader of the mob told Purcell to stand aside.

A rope was placed about the Negro's body as the group of fifty men on foot began the march toward Miss Colter's rural school.

Behind the group on foot followed several hundred persons in automobiles.

Miss Colter's battered body was found in her schoolroom at twilight Dec. 16. Gunn was arrested several days later. In a confession attributed to him by county officers, Gunn said he had seized the girl at the doorway of her school and killed her with a club after she resisted him.

GIVE UP HOPE FOR ATLANTIC FLYERS, MISSING 2 DAYS

Storms Over Ocean Make Their Chances Slim.

HORTA, Azores, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Hope that the trans-Atlantic "payload" aviators, Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren, were still alive was virtually abandoned tonight.

Not a word or a sign of them had been received since they took off from Hamilton, Bermuda, at 10:15 a. m., Chicago time, Saturday for Horta on the second lap of their flight in the monoplane Tradewind from New York to Paris.

Strong Winds Prevail.

Strong winds and high seas have prevailed since that time and it was feared that had they been forced down their frail machine could have withstood the seas only a few minutes. They had expected to take 21 hours for the flight and were due here at 7:15 a. m., Chicago time, yesterday.

Tonight, indicative of the fear that they were lost, gasoline supplies which had been kept on a scow in the harbor in readiness for refueling were withdrawn.

There was still a possibility they had been forced to come down near one of the small, uninhabited islands of the Azores group or had been picked up by some vessel not equipped with wireless. This possibility was a forlorn one, however, and little hope was felt in that quarter.

Ships Fail to Sight Plane.

Although many vessels plying in the vicinity of the route the Tradewind was to follow kept a sharp lookout from the moment of the take-off the plane was not sighted. It was not equipped with wireless and so, in case of trouble, could not call for help.

In view of the possibility the aviators might have missed the Azores altogether and continued eastward wireless stations in Madeira, the Canary islands, and along the French and Portuguese coasts were asked to be on the alert for any reports. Up to tonight nothing had been received.

Over a wide portion of the Atlantic storms prevailed tonight, according to reports from ships at sea.

Ships Report High Seas.

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Messages from half a dozen ships at sea today told of the sharp but futile watch being kept for the missing monoplane Tradewind. The steamer Excelsior, heading westward from the Azores, reported a rough sea, with falling barometer and sporadic rain. Despite a sharp lookout, there was no sign of the Tradewind.

The Excello, just west of the islands, searched fruitlessly. She also reported squally weather and high seas.

The master of the Exton wirelessed from southeast of Horta that he was keeping a special lookout, but apparently to no avail. The Exton was meeting a moderate easterly gale and a rough easterly sea.

The liners Resolute and Conte Grande queried other shipping, but heard no report of the Tradewind. Like the other vessels, they reported rough water.

Mrs. Cora Mansfield, mother of Mrs. Hart, declared tonight she did not intend to "begin to worry for another 48 hours at least." She said she was confident the flyers were safe, perhaps on some remote island in the Azores, or on a fishing vessel not equipped with radio.

Separated from Wife a Year.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. William MacLaren, whose husband was believed to have died with Mrs. Beryl Hart in their attempt to fly across the Atlantic ocean, was here today at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Numick. Mrs. MacLaren said she had not seen Lieut. MacLaren for more than a year and knew nothing of his plans for the flight. The wedding of the MasLarens here shortly after the world war was a brilliant society event. Before her marriage Mrs. MacLaren was Miss Elizabeth Numick. MacLaren formerly was treasurer of a drug manufacturing company here.

Find Wrecked Plane of Missing Pilot in Far North

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Hope that Pat Renahan, missing pilot, was alive was abandoned today by his wife, Mrs. Robin Renahan, when she was informed of the finding of the wreckage of her husband's plane near Ketchikan. She is the mother of three children. She plans to go to Ketchikan, or as near to there as possible, to help in the search for her husband's body.

WICKERSHAM BOARD WILL BACK DRY LAW, WOODCOCK PREDICTS

New York, Jan. 12—[Special.]—The long awaited report of the Wickersham commission will end the hopes of any people who had anticipated that it might recommend changes tending towards a modification of the prohibition laws, Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock intimated today. He addressed a meeting of Protestant ministers under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon league.

People will learn the truth about prohibition from the commission's report, he said, adding that he thought the report would "make people settle down." A large part of the "restlessness" with respect to prohibition, he added, "has come from the thought that things are going to be changed."

He said that he himself had worked for three months with the Wickersham commission and could testify to the "sincere and scholarly attitude" with which its members had approached the question.

LOESCH CALLS WASHINGTON A GOSSIP CENTER

Tells of Efforts to Keep Dry Report Secret.

Returning from Washington yesterday after 18 months' investigation of prohibition as a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, Frank J. Loesch, Chicago attorney and civic leader, humorously recalled the trouble he and his colleagues experienced in preserving the secrecy of their findings until the President had received their report. Indications are that the report will be in Mr. Hoover's hands this week.

"From the outset the reporters were after us in droves," Mr. Loesch said. "They swarmed the commission's headquarters. Members couldn't step outside for a breath of air or a smoke without being buttonholed."

Washington a Gossip Center.

Withal, the newspaper men were pleasant and not impertinent, Mr. Loesch said. It was society folk of the capital who sometimes became disagreeable in their effort to worm secrets from members of the commission, he explained.

"Washington is a great gossip center, anyway," Mr. Loesch said. "But on discussion of the prohibition report the gossips surpassed themselves."

Dinner hostesses, dowagers, debutantes and clubmen buzzed around the Wickersham commission men at social functions until some of these gentlemen began to suspect that the principal cause of their popularity arose from the secrets they were guarding, according to Mr. Loesch. At last the various press associations began to release reports portending to disclose the substance of the commission's findings—reports which Mr. Loesch called garbled.

Issue Blanket Denial.

"In view of the conflicting and garbled reports, the commission held a meeting to discover where the leak was," said Mr. Loesch. "We finally concluded that remarks dropped at social affairs had been carried away, growing more exaggerated and distorted as they spread, until they finally reached the newspaper men. It was finally necessary for the chairman to issue a statement denying the accuracy of every report."

Although out of touch with local affairs for the last six weeks, Mr. Loesch said he was disturbed to find that five candidates were entered in the Republican mayoralty primary. As president of the Chicago Crime commission, he said he found an encouraging sign in the capture of the slayer of Alfred Lingle and in the vagrancy campaign of Judge Lyle.

RIOTS DOT INDIA AS BRITAIN PLANS TO FREE REBELS

50,000 Prisoners Expected to Win Amnesty.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—With Prime Minister MacDonald considering an offer of amnesty, as a gesture of good will, for 50,000 Indians now in prison for participation in the Gandhi revolt, news of serious rioting in India reached the round table conference today. The prime minister is expected to order the release of the prisoners next Monday, when the conference ends.

Mr. MacDonald is also expected to outline the British government's position on Monday. Britain's policy is said to include dominion status with responsible government, subject to a few safeguards during the transition period while the Indians are being trained and gaining experience in self-rule.

Indians to Get Responsibility.

If the plans of Lord Chancellor Sankey are adopted by the Labor cabinet the government of India will be a combination of features of the American congress and British parliament, with the responsibility for future government resting with the Indians themselves. The report of the federal structure committee as read by Lord Sankey today goes far to meet every demand of the Indians.

The executive power, according to the plan, will be vested in a governor general advised by a council of ministers. The governor general shall choose the prime minister, whose duty will be to present a list of his colleagues to the governor for his approval; but the prime minister and all his colleagues must have the confidence of the legislature and may only remain in office while they retain that confidence.

Certain subjects are reserved for the sole responsibility of the governor general during the unspecified transition period. These are defense, foreign relations and relations with Indian states not in the federation, certain aspects of finance, and emergency powers in event of a breakdown of the constitution. For all these the governor general must have adequate powers, and must have control of the necessary finances, the report recommends.

Two Houses in Legislature.

The legislature is to consist of two houses, a senate of 100 to 150 members, and a lower house of not more than 250 members. British Indian senators will be elected by the provincial legislatures and the senators from the states will be chosen by the princes and rulers. The senate is not subject to dissolution, but a fixed proportion will retire at regular intervals and be replaced. The term of office in the lower house is five years unless previously dissolved by the governor general.

No decision has been reached on the method of election, but certain interests must always be represented such as the depressed classes, Indian Christians, Anglo-Indians, landlords, commerce, and labor.

This plan of government will be presented to the full conference, meeting as a committee of the whole on Thursday. It is hoped to hold a plenary session Friday.

200 Hurt in Bombay Riot.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Serious disorders broke out in several sections of India today, resulting in clashes between manifestants and the police. Many persons were injured.

The worst disturbances were in Bombay. Crowds, gathered as an expression of resentment against the hanging at Poona of four men convicted of murder during the Sholapur riots last year, became violent. The demonstrators were eventually dispersed by the police, who charged with their sticks. About 200 of the participants were injured, forty of them seriously.

Despite police threats to use firearms, the manifestants held up street cars, taxicabs and private automobiles, stoning the occupants and forcing them to walk. When the police commissioner appeared he was jeered and his automobile was the target for a fusillade of stones.

In a village near Allahabad seven police constables, one sub-inspector and many civilians were injured during a demonstration against the payment of taxes. The police fired on the mob, which retaliated with a shower of stones, sticks and bottles.

At Karachi 35 followers of Mahatma Gandhi were injured when police charged with their staves. Twenty women demonstrators were arrested.

British Chancellor Meets Demands of India

*Lord Sankey (second from left), who proposes a responsible government which will be run by the Indians themselves. ## RUM SHIP SHELLED AND CAPTURED AFTER TWENTY MILE CHASE

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—With part of her pilot house shot away, her decks riddled with shells, the motored sloop Violet was towed here today by the coast guard patrol boat CG-221. The boat was captured off Plantation light in Chesapeake bay last midnight after she had been chased 20 miles by the coast guard craft. Boatswain Raymond Abell, commanding the coast guard boat, said he opened fire on the Violet when she refused to obey his order to stop.

Three men composing the crew of the Violet jumped overboard while their vessel was being shelled, but they were captured and made prisoners. The Violet has about 700 cases of whisky on board, which she is believed to have obtained from a larger rum laden ship off the Virginia capes.

4,000 JOBLESS PARADE; ENVOYS VISIT CITY HALL

Slightly more than 4,000 professed communists, mostly out of work men but including a handful of women and girls, yesterday engaged in a hunger march through the near west side. A committee of fifteen visited the city hall and presented their demands to Assistant Corporation Counsel Breen. The demands included a $75,000,000 appropriation for unemployment relief, free car fare, free light and gas, suspension of evictions, and free lunches for children. Demands for a dole called for $25 for married unemployed and $15 for unemployed single persons.

When Breen told the committee the city was without authority to act, the men left, threatening to storm the city hall on Jan. 19 when the council budget committee meets. The parade, starting at Madison and Carpenter streets and ending at Canal and Harrison streets, was vociferous but orderly.

GUNMAN SEIZED IN ROCHE RAID GETS MAXIMUM

Genaro Roberto, one of two men arrested with revolvers in their possession during a raid in Chicago Heights by Chief Investigator Pat Roche, was given the maximum sentence for carrying concealed weapons yesterday by Judge Harry Fisher in the Criminal court. He was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $200. George Monesanti, the other defendant, asked for probation and his case was continued until Jan. 20.

Motions to quash the murder indictments against William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, public enemy, who was jailed on a revived murder charge after Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court had started the vagrancy campaign, will be heard by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court on Feb. 25. He is under indictment for the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaume of Forest Park.

Judge Justin F. McCarthy will have a roll call Thursday morning of all the hoodlums, gunmen and racketeers who have asked a change of venue from Judge Lyle. There are twenty-nine such cases.

URGE ROAD WORK ON BIG SCALE AS END TO IDLENESS

Highway Builders Plan for This Year.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—A committee to devise ways and means of alleviating unemployment through highway construction was appointed today at the opening session of the twenty-eighth annual convention and road show of the American Road Builders' association.

The committee, headed by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads, will report Thursday. It is considered certain that among its recommendations will be that diversion of gasoline tax funds to purposes other than road construction cease in all the states, and that particularly during 1931 all such funds be used in road construction.

Would Spend All on Roads.

MacDonald touched upon this briefly in his address before the convention today. Some of the states use part of their gasoline tax funds for schools. While the road men are not antagonistic to expenditures for education, it is the consensus that revenues arising solely from use of the roads should be expended on the roads.

MacDonald reviewed appropriations for federal aid to road building.

"The grand total of federal funds available for 1931 is $315,800,000," he said, "and this, with the previously sanctioned $144,000,000 of state funds, will provide a highway program of $459,000,000." He estimated the total which would be spent in the United States at more than two billion dollars.

Nonemployment relief likewise was the theme of the annual address of W. A. Van Duser, president of the association and assistant chief highway engineer of Pennsylvania.

Suggestion on Unemployment.

Van Duser said if the national annual expenditure for highways was increased to $7,000,000,000 all the unemployed could be put to work at once. He said the 1930 expenditure on highways was $2,200,000, of which $1,760,000 was in wages at an average rate of $1,000 a year.

He insisted users of highways pay for good roads, whether they have them or not, and said the "mud tax is equal to or greater than the annual levy for highway improvement," pointing out the average cost of operating is 2 cents a mile higher on an unimproved road than an improved one. "All weather highways" reaching into every corner of the nation was his plea.

"England's dole system is charity in Sunday clothes," he said. "Let's stick to the American system of a day's pay for a day's work and give the nation a highway system while doing it."

The afternoon was devoted to sectional meetings. T. H. Cutler, chief engineer of the Missouri highway commission and chairman of the committee on highway finance and construction, presented a report urging highway financing and planning based on traffic requirements and not on political subdivisions.

Program Recommended.

Cutler's committee recommended that each state develop a "master highway system" with its administrative structure restricted to three units—state, county and city—elimination of highway districts separately financed within the county, consolidation of administration wherever possible, elimination of state highway financing by county aid, elimination of use of gasoline tax and registration fees for other than highway purposes, centralized highway planning and budgeting based on modern transportation needs, state requirements to apply to county highway operation in a manner similar to the supervision exercised by the federal government over the states, levying of gasoline taxes and license fees solely by the state, financing of secondary systems by state aid and local taxes or bonds, and purely local roads by local financing, issuance of bonds for construction where highway development is in its incipiency and the need for good roads is urgent, and construction by current revenues where the systems are almost completed.

About 12,000 to 15,000 attended the sessions. Officers estimate about 22,000 will attend before the convention closes Friday.

Niles Magistrate Returns to Face Shortage Charge

Theodore H. Wunderle, police magistrate of Niles, missing five days and accused of being short $3,000 of village funds, collected chiefly from motorists, returned yesterday and was immediately arraigned before Police Magistrate W. W. Ward of Morton Grove and ordered held in bonds of $3,000. He admitted a shortage. Assistant State's Attorney Robert L. Donigan said, but would not say how much.

SNOW AND COLD INCREASE NEED OF GOOD FELLOW AID

Cause New Suffering Among Poor.

Snow and a temperature that was falling toward the 20 degree level last night brought a new urgency for relief among the unemployed, a new call to the Good Fellows.

For the last few weeks the weather has dealt kindly with impoverished families. Mild weather was welcomed in homes where there was little or no fuel. Food went further, too, during warmer weather, and the thinly clad did not mind the weather so much.

But freezing weather means suffering among the poor and work for the Good Fellows. With the most of the winter ahead, much help is still needed to hold this suffering to a minimum. Your responsibility, Good Fellows, is lending a hand to the head of a household who wouldn't be asking for a penny's worth of aid were it not for unemployment or sickness, often occasioned by insufficient food and cold, damp living quarters. Much more is still needed, even though many checks are being received by THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund.

Good Fellows Send Checks.

"Enclosed please find a check for $25 as promised to cover to Jan. 3 inclusive," writes F. L. B.

"Enclosed please find $10 check to be used for your relief work. If it is possible, apply it for the relief of a white collar worker, should it be needed," says one donor.

"Enclosed please find check for $30 sent by members of D. S. K. company," another letter says.

That is a sample of the assistance that is being given by Chicago's citizens, and it must continue if destitute families are to be helped to their feet again.

To Worthy Families.

Your contribution, every penny of it, is used for the purpose intended, the expense of administering the Good Fellow fund being borne by THE TRIBUNE. Every gift reaches families whose worthiness has been investigated by the United Charities, the Jewish Social Service bureau, the Central Charity bureau [Catholic] and the Salvation Army.

The Good Fellows, guided by a standard budget, are providing the necessities of life to 277 families. The Good Fellow fund will be grateful to have your contribution, which may be sent with the coupon on this page.

25 ARMY PLANES FIND NO TRACE OF PILOT, PASSENGER

Galveston, Tex., Jan. 12.—(AP)—No trace has been found of Lieut. Jonathan Grasty, 25 year old pilot, and his passenger, Corporal Philip Schuchman, 28, both members of the 13th squadron, third attack group, missing since last night.

Twenty-five planes of the Fort Crockett attack group today made an intensive search of the area between Galveston and Matagorda bay, the last point where the aviator was seen. Lieut. Grasty was returning to Fort Crockett from the attack group's hunting grounds at Matagorda.

'BUY NOW' CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED IN BRITAIN AS CURE FOR SLUMP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—"Spend more freely. If you save a dollar you put a man out of work for a day."

John Maynard Keynes, eminent British economist, urged this policy as a cure for unemployment.

"Many people believe that the most useful thing they can do is to save more than usual," he said. "But in the present circumstances that is utterly harmful. With a large surplus of unemployed already available for producing capital goods, the effect of saving is merely to add to this surplus. Furthermore, when a man is thrown out of work, his diminished spending power causes further unemployment among those who would have produced what he can no longer afford to buy."

Mr. Keynes appealed to patriotic housewives, emphasizing that the housewife is the greatest employer of labor in the country.

RELIEF GROUP IN FINAL DRIVE TO FILL QUOTA

A last minute intensive drive was started yesterday to complete the $5,000,000 relief fund being collected by Governor Emmerson's commission on unemployment relief. A special committee was named by Philip R. Clarke, director of the fund raising campaign, to make a list of wealthy Chicagoans who will be asked to contribute sums ranging from $1,000 to $25,000. Telegrams will be sent to those vacationing out of Chicago.

Total collections up to last night were $3,532,226. Of the remainder 50 per cent will be solicited from various trade groups already named, and the other 50 per cent solicited from wealthy citizens. In announcing his new program Mr. Clarke emphasized the necessity of raising the total amount. "While we, as well as the majority of citizens, are encouraged by reports of increased employment," he said, "we still wish to emphasize the need of relief that is still to be met. We are meeting with a daily increase of 700 needy families, and our $5,000,000 program will just carry our total budget through the winter. We hope that this week will mark the conclusion of our drive."

"Not Kissed in 14 Years"; Wife Given a Divorce

After testifying that her husband had failed to kiss her for 14 years, Mrs. Miriam I. Snyder, 1845 West Washington boulevard, was yesterday awarded a divorce from Walter Y. Snyder, an investment broker with offices at 209 West Jackson boulevard. The decree was granted by Superior Judge John J. Sullivan on grounds of cruelty. Through her attorney, Harry X. Cole, Mrs. Snyder said that her husband began treating her coldly two years after their marriage. She was awarded $5,000 alimony.

PUT WIFE UNDER PEACE BOND.

Mrs. Mary Zelco, 31 years old, 1035 North Franklin street, whose battles with her husband, Michael, have brought the two into court six times, was placed under a $100 peace bond and on probation for six months yesterday in the Chicago avenue court on a charge of disorderly conduct.

WIDE VARIETY OF JOBS OFFERED THROUGH SALLY

Widow's Plea in Tribune Is Answered.

Yesterday's assortment of jobs offered to the unemployed through Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE ranged from piano tuning to pleating, from typing to plumbing, and included a furrier's job, a polisher's job, and a job laying hardwood floors.

One of the best jobs of the day went to the 28 year old widow described in yesterday's TRIBUNE. The widow, according to a letter to Sally Joy Brown, said that she was the support of her aged mother and that, were she to obtain a job from any of the fifteen commercial employment agencies she was listed with, she could not pay the necessary $5 deposit.

Mrs. A., in the 6200 block on Dorchester avenue, read of the young widow's situation and called Miss Brown to say that she would give the young woman a job typing and multigraphing.

Offers Job to Painter.

J. E., in the 4900 block on Lake Park avenue, offered a job to a man who could do some inside painting at $1 an hour. This is one type of job others could create in their homes, Miss Brown pointed out.

Mrs. G. D., in the 4400 block on Magnolia avenue, said she would pay 50 cents an hour to a man to wash her windows. E. B., in the 1300 block on Early avenue, provided a job for an electrician.

The S. G. company, in the Railway Exchange building, provided a $25 a week job to a man stenographer.

A. S., in the 6700 block on Oglesby avenue, offered a job polishing furniture, for which he would pay 50 cents an hour.

Mrs. P. W., on Lakeside place, asked for a piano tuner. The M. L. I. company, well known insurance brokers and solicitors, offered a job with salary and commission.

Plumber is Given Job.

S. K., in the 1000 block on North La Salle street, gave a job to a plumber. A. W., in the 2300 block on West Monroe street, said he would pay a "good salary" to a carpenter.

D. W., in the 1100 block on East Seventy-ninth place, provided the furrier's job. Mrs. F., in the 100 block on East Forty-third street, wanted one full time waitress and one who would work short hours.

The N. cleaners, on the north side, asked for one girl to press and another to pleat. The salaries would be $20 and $25, respectively.

PROPOSES THREE CENT POSTAGE, EXTRA PENNY GOING TO DROUGHT AID

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—An opportunity for letter writers to pay 3 cents for a 2 cent stamp, the added penny to go for drought relief, was proposed today by Representative Ackerman [Rep., N. J.].

He prepared to introduce a resolution calling upon the postoffice department to overprint several billion 2 cent stamps with the words "drought relief" and to turn over the added postage to relief organizations.

He estimated that, should 25 per cent of the individuals and firms using 2 cent stamps purchase the relief issue, $5,000,000 would be realized in ten weeks.

ROB MARKET AND ESCAPE.

Two armed men escaped with $655 yesterday after holding up the manager, a girl cashier, and two customers in the General Market, a meat shop at 3314 West 26th street.

KING PREDICTS SWEDEN'S O. K. ON WAR AID PACT

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 12.—(AP)—King Gustav of Sweden, in a speech from the throne today at the formal opening of the riksdag, predicted ratification of an international agreement recently signed by Sweden and 47 other nations, pledging financial aid to a nation attacked or threatened by war.

The king expressed gratification at the cordial relations between Sweden and all other nations, and said he would propose ratification of a convention recently drawn up at Oslo to bring even closer the relations between the Scandinavian countries.

He proposed increased appropriations to meet the unemployment difficulties and suggested electrification of the main railway trunk line from Stockholm to Malmo in southern Sweden. It was announced that the budget balanced at about $229,683,897. No increase in taxes was announced.

For Sore, Soft or Bleeding Gums

Follow This Simple Treatment

Soft, sore, spongy or bleeding gums are a dangerous condition. Loss of teeth and health may result. Bacterial infection is always present in every cause of gum trouble. You can combat gum infections and save your teeth and health if you'll adopt a few simple measures. Visit your dentist regularly. In the meantime follow this simple regime. Brush your teeth faithfully every day and in the right way. Brush the upper teeth downward and the lower upward. Rinse your mouth thoroughly morning and evening with a solution of one part Extol and three parts water. Following this, massage gums gently with your finger. Be sure you use the Extol as it is absolutely necessary to kill the germs.

Reach the Hidden Germs!

Extol is the amazing new antiseptic mouth wash and throat gargle you hear discussed everywhere today. It is of revolutionary germicidal and penetrative powers. It kills germs faster than any mouth wash heretofore known—so fast it is called the "10-second germicide." It is so highly germicidal that diluted even 1 to 3 it is far more effective than any ordinary mouth wash used straight. Also, and equally important, it is extremely penetrating! It penetrates the folds and crevices in the mouth and throat: also the mucous membrane, so it can reach germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of the mucosa. That is what Extol does—it penetrates through to those hidden germs that ordinary mouth washes miss.

Harmless to Tissue Delightful to Taste

Efficient as it is, Extol is absolutely harmless to tissue and most delightful in taste and sensation. And it not only costs less than most mouth washes, but it is more economical to use, because you have to use so little at a time. All McKesson Service Druggists and other independent drug stores carry Extol. Get a bottle today and keep your mouth, throat and gums in the clean, wholesome condition that health of mouth and body demands. Note the name, EXTOL—a McKesson & Robbins product.

HARDING DISOWNS PETITION; QUIETS MAYORAL HUBBUB

Mischief Maker Blamed by Chairman Snow.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Another flurry of excitement stirred Republican circles yesterday when it was learned that a George F. Harding mayoralty primary petition had been put into circulation. Harding immediately disowned the petition, saying that he had had no advance knowledge that it was to be put out.

"And no friends of mine would do it," he added. "If it is filled I'll withdraw it inside of five minutes."

In spite of this speedy disclaimer—a repetition of the sentiment Harding expressed last week when he turned down suggestions that he should run if Mayor Thompson withdraws—the appearance of the signature sheets had the politicians running in circles all afternoon, mystified when they tried to determine the source of the petition.

Blames Mischief Maker.

"It was some mischief maker trying to tangle the situation," said County Chairman Snow, who, like Harding, joined the forces supporting Judge Lyle soon after the judge announced his candidacy.

Several theories were evolved by politicians to explain the motive behind the petitions, but the most general one was that it originated in the camp of one of Judge Lyle's opponents and that its purpose was to check the regular organization trend to the judge that started when it became known that Harding as well as Snow and Edward J. Brundage were with him.

Investigation showed that the petition forms had been produced by a printing house which recently has done considerable work for Thompson. Inquiry at the printing offices brought a statement that the identity of the man who had ordered and paid for the blanks was not known.

A Nameless Transaction:

"He came in during the morning when the sales manager was out on business," was the explanation. "We keep the type for such forms standing and so it was necessary only to insert Harding's name and run off the 200 sheets ordered. That was done and the order was delivered to the customer before the sales manager returned. He paid cash, so there was no record made of his name or address."

Political managers accustomed to the ways of printers said they had never been able to order a job done without giving a name.

"But it is of no importance in the mayoralty campaign," said Chairman Snow, who is a close associate of Harding's. "Harding is not and will not be a candidate. This attempt to muddy up the waters has made only a passing ripple."

A somewhat similar piece of news came in renewed publication of reports that Charles V. Barrett has determined to withdraw as a candidate. The report was once again submitted to him.

"I have not withdrawn and I am going ahead without any idea of withdrawing," he said.

Mayoralty headquarters of Ald. Arthur F. Albert distributed copies of a statement issued in his behalf by Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago, one of several men whose names were presented by Senator Deneen during the recent effort to unite the anti-Thompson forces.

Albert's Qualifications.

"Ald. Albert's ten years in the city council," ran the statement, "have given him excellent training for the office of mayor. His platform is not made for campaign purposes, only, but is a statement of what he has been trying to do for many years.

"His views of what can and should be done for Chicago are based on long practical contact with all the big municipal questions of concern to the people of this city. Among other things, he had a hand in reorganizing the fire department in 1925, when, against very great odds, he overcame the whitewashers.

"He took the lead in reorganizing the police department in 1929 in the face of very bitter opposition from organized spoilsmen. He rescued the pension funds of the city in 1926. He was chairman of the subway advisory committee and rendered valiant service there."

"Throughout his experience he has shown the very highest qualities of integrity, courage and common sense. In fact, his whole campaign is an effort to restore this simple but important principle to the city hall."

In addition to distributing this statement, Ald. Albert's managers, headed by Jacob D. Allen, presented to the Better Government association a batch of photostats of records from Judge Lyle's court, of "literature" from previous campaigns, and other documents that they said reflected on Judge Lyle.

Judge Lyle Indorsed at 18th Ward Meeting

The candidacy of Judge John H. Lyle for mayor was indorsed by the 18th Ward Republican organization at a meeting in the South Side Masonic temple, 64th and South Green streets last night. Committeeman Herman Vandenberg presided. The poll at the meeting stood: Lyle, 176; Albert, 13; Thompson, 2.

DAVID ASSAILS LYLE AS USING OFFICE IN RACE

Frees Defendants Held by Felony Court.

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court criticized Judge John H. Lyle yesterday while passing on a writ of habeas corpus for employés of the sheriff's office jailed by Judge Lyle on charges of larceny of an automobile. Judge David discharged the defendants and in a lengthy speech assailed Judge Lyle and State's Attorney Swanson, although it was shown by the record that the prosecutor's assistant had done just what Judge David said he should have done.

The case at issue was that of Ted Worth, 11214 Indiana avenue, and George H. Brohm, 8048 Kingston avenue, manager of a garage. They were ordered held on a continuance until Jan. 20 for seizing the automobile of Albert J. Fisher, 6316 Dorchester avenue, on a regularly issued mechanic's lien from a court. Last week Deputy Sheriff Fred H. Worth and Bernard Kelly were held to the grand jury on the same case, but the jurors subsequently voted no bills.

Opens Attack on Lyle.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Peters obtained the writs of habeas corpus from Judge David.

"The fact that this man has been tolerated in his office is a reflection on the intelligence of this community," said Judge David in referring to Judge Lyle. "Everybody knows he is using his office to run for mayor. God help the community if that is going to be the situation.

"No man should be running for office while he is a judge. If he wants to be mayor let him resign. I'd rather be judge than 40 mayors. I wouldn't be surprised if he were the next mayor. Stranger things have happened."

Assails Assistant Prosecutor.

Assistant State's Attorney Euclid Taylor, who responded to the writ summons, started to make some protest about the issuance of the writs in the cases and Judge David turned on him and said:

"All you are doing is making propaganda for a man who is using his office in trying to run for mayor. Are you standing here trying to excuse this alleged judge? Go down to State's Attorney Swanson himself and tell him I want this nonsense stopped. Is there any law in this community?

"I want to know if the sheriff and his officers are to be treated like common felons. Are the judges to be cowed by this man who daily and hourly violates every provision of the law? What kind of a community have we here?

"I think the state's attorney has demonstrated that he is the biggest sort of a coward in not protesting this action."

Shown Protest Was Made.

Judge David was shown the typewritten transcript of the proceedings, showing that Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast did in fact very vigorously protest Judge Lyle's action in the particular case. He advised the judge that there was no case. This, however, did not cause Judge David to in any way retract his statement in reference to the prosecutor.

"I think you ought to summon Judge Lyle to this court," Judge David was advised by one of the lawyers.

"What—and make a Roman holiday out of the whole proceeding," replied the judge. "I would not dignify his actions by calling him into my court. The defendants will be discharged."

CUBAN TROOPS TO STOP BURNING OF SUGAR CANE CROP

Strip and Publicly Spank Rebel Women.

HAVANA, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Cuban government today adopted extraordinary measures to protect the nation's heavy sugar crop, following upon the recent almost daily burning of fields as the harvest season approached.

After a conference in which the secretary of interior, secretary of army and navy, and chief of staff of the army were the principal attendants, it was decided to throuw the full strength of the republic's fighting forces, intelligence service, and secret police to the support of the growers.

The army, navy and aviation corps were instructed to coöperate to the fullest extent in preventing harrassing of the administration by firing of fields.

Short Shrift for Guilty.

Any one caught in the act of firing cane will be dealt with summarily. Persons conspiring to interfere with the harvest will be treated as traitors.

Troops will be posted at the largest fields, and army planes will cruise above the thousands of acres of cane ready for harvest.

The Havana police were ordered today to use their weapons without regard to sex in breaking up any groups forming in the vicinity of the presidential palace. The order, given by the military supervisor, Obdulio Herrera, is intended to prevent recurrence of anti-governmental disturbances such as occurred near the palace during last week.

Women Start Disturbance.

One of these was organized solely by women who unfurled revolutionary banners in Zayas park, directly in front of the main door of the building in which President Machado lives.

Last Saturday four women who attempted to create a disturbance in front of the palace were partly stripped of their clothing by other women, supporters of the Machado administration, and given a public spanking.

Reports of disorders in eastern Cuba were denied today by Jose Terry, pilot of an airplane which reached Havana from Santiago this afternoon. In a flight which began this morning, he said, he stopped at five cities en route and at none of them did he see evidences of any trouble.

GERMANS REJECT FORCED LABOR FOR THE JOBLESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—A proposal to put the German jobless at forced labor was unanimously rejected by representatives of the German labor ministry and central organizations of employers and workers at a conference today.

A motion had been introduced in the Reichstag by the nationalist and economic parties, calling upon the government to take young jobless men from the streets and make them build roads, reclaim lands and perform other useful works.

Such a scheme will not work, those attending today's conference agreed. Experts declared that it would cost four times more than the amount that would be saved in jobless insurance.

BELCASTRO SHOOTING IS BLAMED ON NEW ALCOHOL GANG WAR

A new alcohol war was believed last night to have caused the shooting Sunday of James Belcastro, public enemy and reputed bomb chief. Detectives investigating the case declined to comment, but it was learned that their inquiry was based on the possibility of a falling out among the booze bosses in the old Genna stronghold.

Belcastro was shot by two men as he stepped into his parked automobile in front of 1011 West Polk street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fanelli, parents of Rocco Fanelli, public enemy. Rocco Fanelli, who had been sought for several months on a vagrancy warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle of the Felony court, was seized as a witness and held on the warrant.

Reports were that Belcastro had been in seclusion at the home of the Fanellis, his parents-in-law, for several days. Belcastro was not seriously wounded.

THOUSANDS FIGHT TO SEE HANGING OF WOMAN TODAY

Poisoner of Husband and Son Must Pay.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 12—Marie Kardos, a little 53 year old woman, will swing from the gallows in the snow covered courtyard of the state prison at Szolnok, Hungary at dawn tomorrow. She will pay the supreme penalty for having put arsenic in the coffee cups of her aged husband and her 22 year old son.

She is the first woman to be executed in Hungary since before the reign of Emperor Franz Joseph, and also the first of four husband poisoners condemned to death, whose executions will follow her by a few days. Twenty other Hungarian wives are serving life sentences for the same offense.

Frau Kardos thought that she might get off with a life sentence until today, when Regent Nicholas Horthy turned down her appeal for clemency.

Fight To See Execution.

Carpenters stood knee deep in snow erecting the scaffold this evening, while outside the prison walls thousands of Hungarians were fighting to get good vantage points and hold them until dawn. But the officials are permitting only fifty spectators, besides the officials, to witness the execution.

According to Hungarian custom, the executioner, officials and spectators will be attired in full evening dress.

The condemned woman broke down today when informed that she must hang.

"It's all a big mistake," she sobbed as she was led to the death cell.

Killed To Get Younger Mate.

Frau Kardos was arrested two years ago on charges of putting her first husband, Szendi, and their 22 year old son, out of the way in 1919. Szendi and Frau Kardos had lived together for 2? years, and then she decided she wanted a younger man. She went to the village mid-wife and learned about the marvelous qualities of arsenic when mixed in coffee.

Within a week her husband and son were both buried. Frau Kardos married again and lived on her inheritance until an epidemic of husband ; isonings two years ago led to an investigation which unearthed a whole countryside of Lucrezia Borgias.

FAIL TO ATTAIN PEACE IN BRITISH COAL MINE ROW

Clash of 150,000 Men, Owners in 12th Day.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The South Wales coal strike of 150,000 men, which began on New Year's day, continued tonight after miners and mine owners had met separately in the board of trade headquarters here without even approaching an agreement. While they were meeting 2,000 more miners walked out at the Whitburn colliery near South Shields.

Called to London by the ministry of mines, both sides responded, but there was no joint meeting. The two groups met in different rooms.

Plan Peace Meet Today.

When the meetings adjourned these two officials announced that the executive council of the South Wales Miners' federation and the full negotiating committee of the mine owners would meet again tomorrow in an effort to end the controversy over wages and working hours.

In the Lanlashire cotton weaving trade, which also is torn by disputes over working conditions, 25,000 men remained locked out as the mill owners insisted upon installation of the system by which each weaver now operating four looms would take over eight at an increase of $10 a week.

The weavers say the system would throw many men out of work, but if the trouble is not settled by Saturday the owners threaten to close all the mills, throwing 500,000 men out of work.

Cut Working Week 6 Hours.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—The working time of 220,000 German railway men was reduced from 54 to 48 hours per week, an arbitration award, today.

Invoke "Dictatorship" Clause.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Adam Stegerwald, the minister of labor, today invoked article 48 of the German constitution and declared the government's recent award of a 6 per cent wage cut for coal miners in the Ruhr valley binding upon both miners and employers. Both sides had rejected the award.

Cut Wages 5 Per Cent in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A joint commission of employers and employés today decided on a 5 per cent wage reduction for engineers in the metal construction industry. Half of the cut is effective Jan. 15 and the balance March 1.

BLAME REDS FOR FANATIC UPRISING IN PHILIPPINES

Gov. Gen. Davis Plans Investigation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, Jan. 12.—Reliable persons returning from the town of Tayug tonight are reported to have informed Gov. Gen. Davis that communist agents played a big rôle in inciting the Colorums, religious fanatics, to stage their uprising in Tayug yesterday and the day before, in which a number of persons were killed. Efforts to get confirmation of this report from Gov. Davis were fruitless.

Mr. Davis is expected to order a thorough investigation of communist activities at Tayug. Insular officials are clamoring for an investigation of the constabulary for alleged lack of vigilance over secret societies and failure to forestall the Colorum outbreak. Honorio Ventura, secretary of the interior, will leave for Pangasinan province soon to start the probe for the governor-general.

Capture Revolt Leaders.

Peace was restored today at Tayug following the capture of the Colorum leaders, including "Gen." Cesareo Abis, generalissimo, and "Col." Pedro Tolosa, a notorious agitator who served a prison term for seditious activities. The constabulary reported that the leaders of the Colorum forces were two generals, two colonels, one major, two captains, and two lieutenants.

Questioning of the captured Colorums revealed that the cause of the outbreak was a combination of religious fanaticism and communistic propaganda over agrarian trouble. The Colorum organization dates back to 1913, as shown by an oath in possession of some of the prisoners. The oath reads:

"This agreement is made in the year of our Lord 1913, and by the Almighty we hereby pledge we will not stop or retreat from our fight against our enemies until the end. We also pledge to accept the punishment imposed for violation of this agreement, and we will not hate those who punish us because that is our will, for whosoever sows shall reap, and whosoever retracts or violates this agreement shall forfeit his life."

The oath is written in Colorum dialect and is followed by a long list of signatures and thumb prints.

In addition to casualties previously reported the constabulary tonight reported that three civilian noncombatants were killed in Tayug during the battle yesterday, including a young boy.

DEFENSE BEGINS PLEA TO QUASH SANITARY CASES

Loses First Point, but Is Still Hopeful.

Attorneys representing Timothy Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, and seven other former trustees and officials of the district started yesterday on an argument in Judge Joseph David's Criminal court which they hope will result in quashing the indictments and preventing the defendants from being brought before a jury. The arguments, it was indicated, will perhaps last several weeks.

Although the defense lost on its first point, Judge David indicated by one statement that he may be doubtful over the legality of some of the counts in the indictments, which charge the trustees with conspiracy to squander public funds by whoopee parties and pay roll padding.

Wants Lot from State.

"I want to hear a whole lot from the state on some of the counts in this indictment," said the judge in overruling the first point raised by the defense. "That, however, is not a threat, but I want to hear from the prosecutors on some of these counts."

The first point argued by the defense was that the indictments are illegal because the law was not followed in selecting the grand jury. The attorneys contended that the law provides that a grand jury be selected from a panel of 23 men summoned, and not that 23 men be summoned from a panel of 100 as is the custom.

"Your arguments are logical, I grant you, but this court should not say that precedent of 35 years standing is not correct," replied Judge David. "In a situation of this kind where the state has no appeal a court should be very careful. You may consider your first point overruled."

Discuss Grand Juries.

The judge and attorneys then entered into a discussion on the usefulness of grand juries in the present day.

"Grand juries have outlived their usefulness long ago," said Judge David. "The late lamented Joseph Medill had vision enough back in the constitutional convention of 1870 to see the uselessness of grand juries. The grand jury was originally a body to protect the people from the crown, and we have no crown to oppress the citizen.

Wants Vigorous Prosecution.

"What we should have is a law to place the responsibility for all prosecutions on the state's attorney. If we had a high minded, vigorous state's attorney who would not shirk his duty but would prosecute according to the law, without fear or favor, that would be the ideal system. Understand, I am not talking about the present state's attorney or any other state's attorney, but just stating what the ideal system would be. The state of Wisconsin gets along very nicely without a grand jury."

Other points to be argued, starting this morning, will be that the indictment fails to state a case over which a Criminal court has jurisdiction; that the indictment is vague, indefinite, uncertain, and ambiguous, and that essential averments are missing from the indictments.

BEGIN HEARING ON PLEA TO DISBAR 54 CANAL LAWYERS

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, sitting as commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court, yesterday opened the hearing on disbarment proceedings against fifty-four lawyers who served the sanitary district from 1925 to 1928. The defendants are charged with having received or conspired to have paid padded pay rolls. Informations were brought last June by the Chicago Bar association.

Among the defendants are Hector A. Brouillet, attorney for the board from 1925 to 1926, and Maclay Hoyne, former state's attorney, who followed Brouillet as chief attorney. The other defendants are:

SEEK TO CLOSE 12 PLACES AS VICE RESORTS

Petitions for injunctions against 12 rooming houses, "massage parlors," and "health institutes"—all alleged to be disorderly houses—were filed in Circuit court yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Edgar B. Elder, acting upon information furnished by the Committee of Fifteen, headed by Charles E. Miner.

One of the places cited in the injunction is at 2126 South Wabash avenue on the second floor over Colosimo's restaurant. Mr. Miner said the action against illegitimate places operating for prostitution under the guise of massage parlors "is an attack upon a form of prostitution that is now growing much worse." The police have investigated more than 300 such places, Mr. Miner said.

Yesterday's action, according to Mr. Miner, was part of a "campaign to cut off revenue from gangsters." Referring to the place over Colisimo's, he declared: "There is every reason to believe that income from the resort goes into gangsters' defense funds."

YOUNG STEVENS IS EXONERATED IN AUTO DEATH

Son of Hotel Head Tells of Accident.

Ernest S. Stevens, 21 year old son of Ernest J. Stevens, president of the Stevens Hotel company, was exonerated by a coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday into the death of Mrs. Anna Stone, 60 years old, a widow of the Windermere hotel. Mrs. Stone died early yesterday at the Michael Reese hospital. She was struck on Jan. 5 by an auto driven by young Stevens.

The jury found that death was due to pneumonia which developed following the accident. Young Stevens testified that Mrs. Stone stepped in front of his car while he was driving slowly through a mist. The accident happened at Hyde Park boulevard and 56th street.

Explains Report Issue.

The police began an investigation when it was learned that Stevens had not reported the accident. The youth's father told police that he did not know it was necessary to report the accident and that he had thought Mrs. Stone's physician had notified the police.

This death and four others yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 56. The victims:

Joseph Fiala, 32 years old, 2213 South Home avenue, Berwyn. Died in the Berwyn hospital after being found unconscious in the street at 22d street and 55th avenue, Cicero, early yesterday.

Arnold O. Weatherall, 9 years old, 2019 Mohawk street. Fatally injured when struck by a truck while playing in an alley at the rear of 2052 Lincoln avenue. The driver, Nicholas Schmitt, 2740 Osgood street, was held.

Mrs. Julia Franczkowski, 65 years old, 3003 North Whipple street. Died at her home of injuries received on Jan. 10 when struck by a hit and run motorist at Logan boulevard and Western avenue.

Alfred Marcussen, 41 years old, 7939 Eberhart avenue, a painter. Died at the Albany Park hospital of injuries received on Jan. 4, when the auto he was driving crashed head on into a street car at 79th street and Prairie avenue.

Railway Center Plans Tax on All Motor Traffic

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 12.—Blaming its present economic slump upon the competition of bus and motor transport with the railways, this southern Ontario railway center today took steps to tax every passenger bus and freight laden truck passing along its strategically situated highways. A tenth of a cent per passenger mile is the levy proposed on passenger buses, and the municipal clerk was instructed to see how much the city can tax freight trucks.

DIVORCES HUSBAND, 71, ACCUSING HIM OF AFFAIRS WITH WOMEN

Mrs. Dora Brandenburg, 54 years old, 852 Sheridan road, yesterday won a divorce and a settlement of $18,000 from William Brandenburg, a retired contractor of 3240 Sheridan road. The decree was granted by Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis on grounds of adultery.

Mr. Brandenburg is the father of Walter H. Brandenburg, vice president of the Chicago board of education. He was founder of the William Brandenburg & Co., plastering contractors.

The Brandenburgs were married on June 12, 1915. In her divorce bill Mrs. Brandenburg, who is her husband's second wife, charged that her husband had been guilty of misconduct "with various women during the last few years." Brandenburg, who is 71 years old, did not contest the suit and was not present in court.

On March 19, 1930, Mrs. Brandenburg testified, her husband stayed with Mrs. Laura Wertz, 45 years old, a widow of Syracuse, Ind., at a hotel in Fort Myers, Fla. W. E. Futral, manager of the Fort Myers hotel, corroborated Mrs. Brandenburg's testimony.

A settlement was arranged out of court, whereby Mrs. Brandenburg receives $11,000 as a property division, $6,500 alimony, and $500 solicitor's fees. Mrs. Brandenburg was represented by Attorney Drennan Slater.

GERMANY JAILS POLISH OFFICIAL AS MILITARY SPY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEIPZIG, Germany, Jan. 12.—The supreme court here today sentenced Adam Bierdrzynski, a Polish frontier official, to ten years' penal servitude for military espionage and attempted murder and breaches of the arms and passport regulations. Bierdrzynski was arrested by German detectives at Neuhoefen last May 24 after a revolver duel, in which another Polish official was killed. Judge Schmitz today declared that it was established through th accused's own admissions that he made repeated attempts to obtain military information.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Dr. Alfred Wysocki, Polish minister to Germany, today visited the foreign office and expressed the regrets of the Polish government concerning the flight of three Polish military planes over Oppeln during the visit there of Chancellor Bruening last week. Investigations have not yet cleared up whether or not the Polish breach of Germany's frontier rights was accidental.

MARSHALL FIELD AND BRIDE WILL TARRY FOR WHILE

Tell of Adventures on African Hunt.

Marshall Field III. and his bride, the former Mrs. Dudley Coats of London, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Century. What had been heralded as a fleeting stay here probably will turn out to be an extended sojourn, the newlyweds confided as they were greeted at the station by their aunt, Mrs. Stanley Field.

A Famous Beauty.

Mrs. Field was famous as an international beauty and a member of the prince of Wales' hunting set before her marriage to the grandson of the first Marshall Field. A slim, taller than average figure, she was wrapped yesterday in a luxurious sable coat, worn over a gray cloth traveling suit. Wavy brown hair peeped from beneath her beige beret.

"We shot a couple of lions while we were in Africa," said her husband when questioned about the wedding journey they took by airplane into the dark continent, "but we weren't roughing it any too much. Part of the time we traveled by automobile and part of the time on foot, but there were no great hardships to endure. We got a lot of good photographs and the lions go to the museum."

Air Crash Recalled.

The scene of the hunt and of the crash of the airplane in which the Fields set out from London on their hunting expedition, was in Tanganyika and the Kenya colony. They reached this country from Africa for the holidays.

While in Chicago they will be the guests of the Stanley Fields at their town apartment at 1550 North State parkway, and at their country place at Lake Bluff.

Italy and Turkey Accused of Pact to Split Up Syria

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Jan. 12.—Newspapers at Beirut, Syria, today declared a secret agreement was reached recently between Italy and Turkey. The agreement, it was said, provides that in event of war between Italy and France, ending in victory for Italy, Syria would be partitioned between Italy and Turkey—southern Syria to Italy and northern Syria to Turkey.

500 DELEGATES AT OPENING OF FLOOD MEETING

Hear Four Speeches and See City's Sights.

About five hundred delegates gathered yesterday at the opening session of the waterway and flood control meeting at the Congress hotel. The conference will last four days.

Four speeches, one by Mayor Thompson, music by the police band and automobile sightseeing made up the day's program. The speakers were Representative W. E. Hull [Rep., Ill.], Alfred D. Danziger, representing Gov. Huey Long of Louisiana, and Mayor T. S. Wamsley of New Orleans.

The announced purpose of the conference is to promote flood control and waterways generally and in particular to induce the federal government to release more quickly its 340 million dollar flood control authorization, of which 20 million has been appropriated.

Will Reduce Rates.

Completion of the waterway, Representative Hull declared, would reduce freight rates twenty per cent in the central states. He said he believed opposition by the lake states to diversion at Chicago would soon cease.

President Hoover, invited to the conference, sent regrets through his secretary, as did Vice President Curtis, other Washington officials, and Senator Elect J. Hamilton Lewis, who is in Tucson, Ariz. Of the "half dozen governors, three United States senators, congressmen, and scores of others," scheduled to attend, only Representatives Hull and Reid and four Louisiana representatives were seen at the opening session. Others, however, were scheduled to be present today.

Today's program will include more speeches, organization of committees, state delegation meetings, and the preparation of resolutions to be adopted Thursday, the last day of the conference.

Mary Pickford in Chicago En Route to New York

NEW 'TALKING BEACON' WARNS SHIPS IN FOG HOW NEAR COAST IS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The newest means of warning vessels away from fog bound coasts, a "talking beacon," the first of its kind in the world, consisting of a radio graphophone worked in connection with a lighthouse foghorn, is now in operation at the Cumbrae lighthouse in the Firth of Clyde. With the new device a ship's wireless operator can be told by graduated sound waves exactly how near a perilous coast his vessel is.

A record played on a graphophone gives the name Cumbrae and then counts out the ship's distance in miles from the lighthouse, each number being the time taken for the sound of the foghorn to travel a mile over water. Thus, if a radio operator hears "four" counted and then hears the boom of the fog signal, he knows he is four miles from the beacon. The system is based on the fact that the rate of travel of sound is less than the speed of radio waves.

The device, wherein already widespread interest is shown and which seafaring men believe will have world-wide usage in a short time, was invented by Charles Stevenson and his son, Dan, of Edinburgh.

RANDOLPH CALLS WATER MEETING MAYOR'S TRICK

Says It's His Boom for Mayoralty.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and chairman of the "secret six" committee against crime, tonight said Mayor William Hale Thompson's flood conference was a "convention in Chicago this week to organize the Mississippi valley to elect 'Big Bill' mayor.

Speaking at the annual banquet of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, Col. Randolph said "the ballyhoo is being tried out again, and if you little boys didn't follow the parade it would be a complete flop."

Must Follow Plow.

"The only voluntary agency in the valley that has done anything lasting or effective for flood control and river improvement is the Mississippi Valley association. Don't be led away by the brass band to follow the circus. If you want to get this job done you've got to follow the plow."

Col. Randolph predicted completion of the Chicago-New Orleans nine-foot channel before the opening of navigation in 1933. He assailed the Thompson flood control movement in general and called the selection of the present flood control plan "a more brazen and impudent piece of bureaucratic tyranny than Russia could produce."

Tells of Beer Racket.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—"Crime waves and racketeer murders will continue as long as the Volstead act remains unmodified," said Col. Robert Isham Randolph today. "The beer racket is at the bottom of the whole nasty affair.

"There are 20,000 speakeasies in Chicago today," he added, "and each one uses approximately five barrels of beer a day, which are sold at anywhere from $50 to $65. It means about $250,000 in racketeer pockets to subsidize the police, buy state and county officials and spread graft with a reckless abandon that is almost beyond the imagination. There is almost $3,000,000 a week profit on illicit beer each week."

"They dare not kill me," he added defiantly. "If they would, there would be a few lynchings and they know it."

CANADIAN RUM EXPORT FOR U. S. TAKES BIG JUMP

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Canadian ban on the export of liquor to the United States reduced such exports from 103,945 gallons in December, 1929, to none in December, 1930, but in the same twelve months the export of liquor from Canada to the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon increased by 112,455 gallons.

Rum runners to the United States have been reported to have centered their bases on the French islands since Canada forbade liquor shipments to the United States.

Exports of liquor to St. Pierre and Miquelon in December, 1929, were 115,126 gallons. In December, 1930, they were 227,611 gallons.

TRAP AND SHOOT ROBBER AT HOME OF IOWA JUSTICE

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 12—[Special]—Attempting to break into the home of Judge John Grimm, associate justice of the Iowa Supreme court, a lone burglar suspect was trapped by a squad of deputy sheriffs here tonight and shot down.

The prisoner was Emil Dvock, 32 years old. Two bullets had pierced his abdomen, and he was taken to a hospital where it was said he probably would die.

Sheriff John Pultras laid the trap which resulted in the wounding and capture of Dvock. It was admitted that under cover information was largely responsible for the coup, but officials refused to disclose its source. About 9 o'clock a squad of deputies left the courthouse and surrounded the Grimm residence. The justice and his family were absent, visiting in Des Moines.

A few minutes after the guard had been placed Dvock appeared and, according to officers, attempted to enter the home. A volley of shots was fired. Two struck him.

Aided Dependents of All Slain Policemen.

Edwin F. Meyer, retired capitalist, one of the organizers of the Associated Jewish charities and for many years a director of the Michael Reese hospital, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital. He was 65 years old. Mr. Meyer, according to relatives, expressed the wish that there be no funeral services held for him. A private funeral will be held, it was said.

Until the time of his death, Mr. Meyer for many years gave $500 to the widows or dependents of policemen slain on duty. His interests in philanthropic and in civic affairs were numerous. Mr. Meyer was one of the first presidents of the Associated Jewish charities.

Heads Brewing Company.

After a public school education here Mr. Meyer studied at Yale university and was graduated with the class of '86. After his graduation he became a cowboy on the Crow reservation in Montana for two years.

Later he became head of the Manhattan Brewing company, one of the city's large breweries. He and his brother-in-law, the late Levy Mayer, noted attorney, acquired the old Stratford hotel, which Mr. Meyer managed as a sort of diversion, going to the brewery in the morning and the hotel in the afternoon.

The hotel was torn down in 1922 and the ground was sold to become the site of the Straus building.

Invent Things for House.

Mr. Meyer lived at 45 East Oak street. It amused him to develop behind the exterior of one of the old red brick Oak street houses a rather exotic interior. A close friend of the architect, Benjamin H. Marshall, Mr. Meyer turned Mr. Marshall loose in the house and let him invent all manner of things, including a miniature swimming pool in a little patio and an intricate device by which a table was set in the basement, then moved upward through the floor of the room above, appearing miraculously as he would be chatting with a visitor.

On Aug. 8, 1923, two thieves broke into his residence, locked in a closet three Japanese servants and night watchman, John De Sousa, father of May De Sousa, the opera singer, and shattered the combination of the door of a steel wine vault in the basement. They escaped with 22 cases of pre-war Scotch whisky. When police asked Mr. Meyer to place a value on it, he said, "You would have to taste it and then decide for yourself." More than $100,000 worth of rare whiskies, wines and champagnes were left behind by the thieves.

Mr. Meyer never married. He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Levy Mayer, Mrs. Isaac H. Mayer, Mrs. Sydney Stein and Mrs. Frederick Fechheimer, and three brothers, Albert, Carl and Abraham Meyer.

SENTENCED FOR STABBING.

John Tyrrell, colored, who stabbed Clifford Peters, also colored, a coal dealer at 846 Sedgwick street, because of the latter's refusal to give him coal on credit, was sentenced to sixty days in the Bridewell in the Chicago avenue court yesterday.

SHIP WRECKED ON BUSY STREET IN MANHATTAN

And Ducks Swim About Town in Storm.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—It was wet in Pa Knickerbocker's town today. Rain tumbled down in sheets; pedestrians opened their umbrellas and scudded along before a spanking sou'enster, and taxi drivers backed up to fire plugs for anchorage. Even the judges stuck to their benches and the vice squad policemen checked their bank accounts and played pinochle with the stool pigeons, for it was nasty weather outside.

A 30 foot motor boat cruiser named Aphrodite set out from Grand Central palace showrooms for the East river aboard a truck, but she picked the wrong channel and provided 38th street with its first marine disaster.

Cruising Down the Street.

The cruiser was speeding along at noon in latitude 4 blocks from the Chrysler building and longitude 7 blocks east of Times Square, with a pilot or, rather, truck driver, named Eddie at the helm, or steering wheel. He was sounding his fog horn at intervals of 5 seconds and other craft were thick about him. Eddie was taking all precautions in every direction except one. He never thought to look aloft, and why should a motor boat pilot look skyward when the weather was mostly underfoot.

Suddenly there was a ripping, crunching sound. Eddie slammed on the brakes full astern. He climbed off deck, took one look, and sent forth distress signals, for Eddie had jammed the boat full tilt into the 2d avenue elevated structure.

Part of the superstructure of the cruiser brushed a couple of crates of market-bound ducks from a passing delivery wagon into sewer-bound current that flowed through 38th street. A crowd collected and offered considerable and objectionable nautical advice. The pilot forgot the tradition of the sea and quit his wrecked craft to hunt a cop. The cop contributed his observation, namely, that a boat on a truck couldn't pass under the "L" at that point and called for a wrecker.

SENATOR LEWIS DENIES HE'S 'AT POINT OF DEATH'

Reports current in political circles yesterday that Senator Elect James Hamilton Lewis was "at the point of death from pneumonia" in a sanitarium at Tucson, Ariz., evoked a denial from Lewis himself.

"You see, there's a warm battle on over the mayoralty election back home and I was supposed to have been speaking my mind on that matter," Mr. Lewis said in Tucson. "But the combination of a slight influenza attack and laryngitis was not to be denied, so I came out here on doctor's orders to breathe the desert air."

On arriving at Tucson Mr. Lewis registered at a hotel, but the siege of tourist celebrity hunters compelled him to retire to the sanitarium, he said. Within the last week he has delivered two lectures on political science at the University of Arizona and will give a third on Jan. 22, after which he expects to return to Chicago.

PARIS DIVORCES FOR AMERICANS FREED OF DOUBT

Inquiry Fails to Uncover Irregularities.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Clouds left from bygone marital storms by the question of the legality of some Paris divorces are considered by state department officials to have lifted. It is another matter, however, with regard to freedom obtained in some Mexican states.

The French divorces in question included those of some of the most prominent people in America's social registers.

The French government, it was learned today, has investigated charges of sharp practice among American attorneys practicing before its divorce courts, but so far as is known at the state department the investigations have failed to bring proof of the charges.

Watched Closely by Embassy.

The inquiry was watched closely by the American embassy in Paris, since proof of the charges might have resulted in invalidation of cases in which the alleged illegalities occurred.

A recent tightening up by the French courts and a closer scrutiny of cases instituted by foreigners has brought to an end to a large extent the steady trek in recent years of Americans to Paris for matrimonial relief.

The general belief among those who followed the inquiry was that the false charges had been made out of professional jealousy by other lawyers.

Mexican Divorces in Doubt.

Some of the Mexican states, including Yucatan, with divorces even more easily obtainable than those in the French courts, have offered a more complex problem to the state department. Contrasted with French decrees for Americans, Mexican divorces have brought the state department letters almost daily from persons whose former mates have secured Mexican divorces.

To each of these letters the state department merely replies that the question of validity is one for the courts of the separate states, at least one of which has declared Mexican divorces obtained under certain conditions to be invalid.

A gradual lessening of the interest of American nationals on the question of divorces abroad was found by state department officials to have followed the adoption by the Nevada state legislature of less stringent laws for the establishment of residence in that state.

County Opens Bids for 33 Road Paving Projects

The Cook county board yesterday opened bids for thirty-three contracts involving 61.7 miles of pavement to cost approximately $3,721,000. The contracts on the projects announced several days ago, will be awarded in a couple of weeks and construction will start as soon as weather permits. The construction will furnish employment to approximately 650 men.

Capt. Brower Brings Birds for Museum.

Capt. Charles D. Brower, hero of many adventures in the far north, arrived in Chicago yesterday with a batch of rare birds for the Chicago Academy of Sciences and a variety of views on such things as prohibition, temperatures, morality, crime, and the progress of human events.

For one thing, Capt. Brower found it cold in Chicago yesterday, and allowed that he'd be glad when he got back to Point Barrow, Alaska, the northernmost settlement of North America, 300 miles beyond the arctic circle, where the cold, he says, doesn't get into your bones. However, he added, he plans to spend a few weeks in Florida this winter, just for a change.

Home at Point Barrow.

Point Barrow, the starting point of many arctic expeditions—famous among them the flight of Wilkins and Ellson across the top of the world—is Capt. Brower's home. The hardy frontiersman went there 47 years ago when there were no white men in the country, and no laws. He roamed the north coast of Alaska, established the settlement of Point Barrow, and made his own laws, and today points to the fact that the settlement now has eight white inhabitants, a hospital, a school, a radio station, and a few Eskimo who can read and write.

Life in the far north has its advantages, said Capt. Brower, and among them is the clearness of radio reception.

"Along in the winter when the temperature gets down around 30 below and it begins to get dark we can get almost any radio station in the world," said the captain. "First we hear the American stations: New York, Chicago, San Francisco—all of them. Along about four in the morning we pick up Japan and later on England, France, Holland, and Germany come in as clear as a bell."

No One Ever Dishonest.

Until he left to come "outside" recently Capt. Brower was United States commissioner at Point Barrow. But maintaining law and order in his domain wasn't much of a job, he said. In all his years in the north he has never found a dishonest Eskimo.

He was asked about his impressions of the outside world after so many years of seclusion.

"I've been back off and on for the last fifty years, but civilization never seems to change much," he said. "The buildings are bigger, there are more of them, there are more things in the world. But human nature seems to be more or less constant."

Capt. Brower is 67, but keen and hardy. He makes animal collections, sells guns, foodstuffs, and traps to the natives, and trades with them for their furs. In late years he has been writing a book of his many experiences. He is noted chiefly for his heroic work in saving 360 sailors marooned at Point Barrow when their whaling vessels were caught in an ice jam in 1898. He housed them in warehouses and other buildings, fed them for a year, and sent them back to civilization without the loss of a man.

HIS NEW LANDLORDS WANT RUDY VALLEE TO PAY SOME RENT

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Rudy Vallee's landlords at the Bellaire hotel crooned a tune to the orchestra leader today, to the effect that he pay some rent.

Receivers for the hotel, in Supreme court, obtained an order directing Vallee to show cause Jan. 16 as to why he should not become a paying guest. The receivers set forth that since they took possession Dec. 1 their cashier's acquaintance with Vallee has been purely by hearsay.

The possibility exists, the receivers said, that the crooning orchestra maestro may have had some arrangement whereby the hotel regarded it as a privilege to have him as a guest. The receivers, however, are of a different mind.

Treat Booth Tarkington's Eyes at Johns Hopkins

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Booth Tarkington, Indiana novelist, arrived today at Johns Hopkins hospital for treatment for his eyes at the Wilmer clinic. Tarkington has undergone several operations, but recently it was said that only continued treatment and observation are now planned.

RESIDENTS PLAN PROTEST TO I. C. C. IN TRACK FIGHT

Nickel Plate Tells Reason for 103d St. Rails.

Many far south side residents made plans yesterday to attend the hearing tomorrow before the Illinois commerce commission at which the controversy between the Nickel Plate railroad and property owners who protest against the closing of 103d street will be aired.

Residents, backed by aldermen in the district, have charged that tracks were laid across 103d street by the railroad without authority. Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe is accused of neglecting the public interest because of his failure to open up the street. The south-side residents say they will insist that Wolfe be summoned before the commission to explain his attitude towards the railroad.

Railroad Tells Its Side.

Meanwhile, legal representatives of the Nickel Plate railroad presented their side of the controversy. They declared that the establishment of switchyards at the head of Lake Calumet, thus closing 103d street, was necessary if the Stony Island avenue yards are to be removed and 87th, 93d, and 95th streets opened. It is a case of benefiting a thickly populated district at the expense of a sparsely populated district, they said.

On Dec. 20 the railroad offered a settlement with the city upon the following basis:

The city to abandon permanently its efforts to open 103d street and in lieu thereof open 100th street.

Offer Subways for Traffic.

The railroad to build at its own expense, including the necessary elevation of its tracks at 83d, 87th, 93d streets and Stony Island avenue, subways allowing the opening of these streets; also to pay for its share of the expense of building a subway at 95th street.

The railroad representatives declared this was a fair compromise. The opening of 100th street, instead of 103d, however, has been protested by the property owners, who declare the city has a legal right to open a thoroughfare at 103d street and that this latter opening is more direct and the logical artery for east-west traffic.

BARRETT TAKES OVER JOB AND 100 MILLIONS

Assumes His Duties as State Treasurer.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.] Edward J. Barrett, 30 years old, Democrat, took control of the state treasurer's office today, receiving more than 100 millions in cash and securities from the retiring incumbent, Omer N. Custer. The incoming treasurer becomes the fourth of his party to hold the office since the civil war.

The transfer was completed late today after auditors representing both Mr. Custer and his successor had worked for more than three days checking the bank deposits and cash. When completed, the physical end of the transfer showed cash of $35,297,311 and securities of from sixty to seventy million.

A part of the currency was that credited to several special state funds, including the state teachers' pension and retirement fund, the blind relief fund, the vocational education fund, the vocational rehabilitation fund, the state and county agricultural fair fund, the workmens' compensation fund, and the fish and game fund. These aggregated $1,412,915.84.

Most of the celebration attending the Barrett inauguration was had last Wednesday when he took his oath of office before the 57th general assembly. His desk was covered with flowers again today, however, and some of the state officials and Democratic leaders dropped in to congratulate him.

Democratic congressman-elect William H. Dieterich, and Thomas Donahue, Democratic state chairman, were among those to visit the office during the day. State Auditor Oscar Nelson and Frances G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, also were present.

U. S. ASKS REHEARING OF $22,000,000 CLAIM IN BLACK TOM CASE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—An application for a rehearing of the Black Tom explosion case, decided last November in favor of Germany, was filed with the German-American mixed claims commission today by Robert W. Bonynge, agent for the United States.

In his petition Mr. Bonynge argued that the commission erred, asserting that on the basis of evidence presented by the United States, Germany should have been found guilty of inspiring the gigantic munitions explosion which occurred July 29, 1916, in the Black Tom terminal of the Lehigh Valley railway company in New York harbor.

In its decision the commission held that no direct connection has been established between the explosion and German sabotage activities, as contended by the United States. The United States' claim on account of this explosion was for $22,000,000.

HUNT "RIPPER" WHO KILLED 2 WOMEN, HURT 5

Three detectives dressed as women were yesterday patrolling the vicinity of the 4100 block in South Michigan avenue in an effort to trap the mysterious "ripper" who in the last several months has stabbed two Negro women to death and seriously injured five others.

The first attack occurred last Oct. 12 and since that time police and volunteers have searched homes throughout the district without finding a trace of the killer, who is believed to be insane. The two women who were killed were Gladys Turner, whom he attacked Nov. 9, and Helen Davis, who was killed three days later.

Several days ago he reappeared and attacked Mrs. Frank J. Edwards, but she fought and screamed and escaped with minor injuries.

RASKOB DENIES HE'S HIS PARTY'S CHIEF "ANGEL"

Answers Charges of Columnist Kent.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee tonight outlined his views of his own position with reference to the party. In an open letter addressed to Frank R. Kent, columnist for the Baltimore Sun, he replied to an article that had been published in Kent's column.

"You charge," the letter said, "that I have taken over all the liabilities of the Democratic party, assumed all its debts; that I am the only indorser on its notes; that I put Mr. Shouse in charge and am paying all operating expenses, including several large salaries, and have made great reduction in the party debt: in short, that I have bought and paid for the party. None of these statements are true.'

A Categorical Denial.

Mr. Raskob here takes up each of Mr. Kent's charges and specifically denies each.

"Mr. Shouse was unknown to me previous to the 1928 campaign.

"Your article," he continues, "infers that I was a Republican and states that I voted for Coolidge, Harding, and Hughes and became a Democrat solely because of the Smith candidacy. None of the above is true, although it has been used by the Republicans as political propaganda in every malicious way possible, and in spite of my denials.

"The facts are that my grandfather, father, and whole family were Democrats and I lived with them until 27 years of ago, when I married into a family that have been Democrats always, having settled in Maryland in 1634 and lived there ever since. I disapproved of the party's attitude on silver in 1896, and in consequence, although generally voting the Democratic ticket, have always been an independent in politics until I affiliated with the Democratic party.

Never "Affiliated" with G. O. P.

"I have never affiliated with the Republican party, never voted or took part in its primaries. I did vote for a Republican President and belong to the Union league, a social club in Philadelphia, the charter of which provides that a member must believe in our Republican form of government. It does not provide a member must be a Republican.

"There is no apology needed for any man whose convictions are changed on any subject. Gossip has it that Mr. Hoover was formerly a Democrat. It was his right to change his opinion and his politics, but when your article infers that I was a Republican and changed to the Democratic party because of my religion and because Alfred E. Smith is a Roman Catholic, you are merely joining that strong group in the Republican national committee that have been fomenting religious and class hatreds during the last two years and prostituting the Republican party."

Out of the Murk and Mist of Business Confusion

HERE and there throughout the nation are bright and shining spots recording substantial and increasing growth and gain in public approval.

Wherever and whenever they occur, it is good to see that almost invariably some fine business institution is being rewarded because it has held fast courageously to high principle and sound tradition.

Pierce-Arrow has always felt that in motor cars, as in everything else, a vogue is a hazardous thing because mere vogues are apt to vanish—whereas a reputation well-earned and well-deserved can be counted upon to endure.

The current record leaves little room to doubt that fine car owners have come to the same conclusion—that the time-tried reliabilities of Pierce-Arrow are being preferred to passing sensationalisms.

The new Pierce-Arrow line is evidently considered all-sufficient and all-efficient for the family of established standing and exacting requirements.

These noble and dignified-looking cars live up superbly well to the rich promise of their appearance—leaving nothing to be desired by those who will not compromise with comfort and performance.

A thoughtful appraisal of existing values—a study of the Pierce-Arrow and of its distinguished status—a leisurely demonstration of its new performance powers—these successive steps will reveal it to you more than ever the lord of its own domain.

an Apology to the people of Chicago-

Due to the absolutely unprecedented response to our page advertisement in the Sunday Tribune announcing the liquidation of our $500,000 stock of antiques, objets d'art and fine handmade furniture we were unable to handle the immense crowds that packed our Chicago wholesale showroom yesterday. We were prepared to take care of a large crowd, but the numbers that came in response to our Liquidation Sale swamped our facilities.

We want to take this opportunity to apologize to the people who came to our showroom and were not taken care of. We deeply regret that we were not able to take care of our customers in the way the Bristol Company would liked to have treated them. So great were the bargains offered, that the art-loving public grasped this opportunity in a veritable stampede to acquire authentic antique furniture, matchless reproductions and art treasures—gathered from the four corners of the world.

Although sales were tremendous yesterday there are still many beautiful and attractive bargains on our floor which were missed in the "big rush." Today the remainder of our $500,000 stock goes on sale. If you want fine furniture, if you want to take advantage of the biggest art event and furniture sale ever held in Chicago, be on hand at 8:30 this morning.

SOURCES OF AUTHORITY.

Considerable of the spirit in the senate is that of ruralism against industrialism. Communities which have not made any particular success of self-sustenance elect senators to interfere with production and distribution and to get government funds for the benefit of their constituencies.

Some of the states west of the Mississippi were hurried prematurely into the Union to provide more Republican votes in the senate after the civil war to keep the control from the south. Their contribution to the nation is wild scenery and wilder senators. The latter burden the economic structure with regulatory and repressive legislation which has little direct effect upon their own states. Their states have nothing that could be affected. Ultimately there will be some consequences. They will come when industry and commerce have been so burdened with acts of congress and decisions of the commissars that they cannot pay taxes. Then the loving gifts and benevolences from the federal treasury will be cut off.

That time may not be so far away. The economic structure has been wabbling for a year, and if the fight goes much longer it may not be able to come out of its corner at the bell. The possibility might sound a note of caution to the self-interest of the states which live by the federal almoner system, but evidently it hasn't. The very states which dig deepest into the public treasury are the ones which dig deepest under the foundations of national well-being.

The senate set a precedent by recalling the nominations to the power commission. It would be a blessing if there could be an extension of that and if the admission of some of the states could be recalled and they returned to territorial status.

OPPORTUNITY IN EUROPE.

Mr. Silas Strawn's reference to soviet policy as a factor in the economic situation in Europe, and consequently in that of America, is worthy of consideration by those who largely control international investment and important export. He called attention to the discussion of this phase of economic demoralization in Europe.

"Some of the speakers at the Paris conference," he reports, "advised the discontinuance of credits to the soviets, the argument being that the industrial countries, by selling to the soviets large quantities of machinery and by furnishing experts to erect the machinery and construct factories, are making Russia a strong competitor with countries which are on an unequal basis in the world markets because they employ neither forced labor nor labor on the wage basis of the soviets, which is far below that paid in capitalistic countries."

Mr. Strawn confessed the difficulty of bringing about concerted action among business men of different nations to meet this situation, and of course it follows that action by American financiers and business men, even if obtainable, would be discounted sharply if not made impossible by failure of similar action in Europe. Nevertheless, we think an effort should be made, and to that end a suggestion of Mr. Charles Dewey, recently returned from a service of three years as financial adviser of the Polish government, is worthy of attention.

Mr. Dewey points out that there are ninety million people in non-Russian eastern Europe who are now organized in new states which, in his opinion, are politically and socially stable and who have the same economic system and basic business ethics as our own. These constitute a potential market for American goods and opportunity for productive investment of great promise. It represents a far better opportunity than investment and trade in Russia so long as that country is dominated by communist ethics and an intense hostility to all forms of capitalist enterprise. Why pour money and goods, he asks, into soviet Russia, which is under control of a régime which recognizes pledges to bourgeois peoples only so far as it is necessary and which is bent upon destroying capitalist society by any and all means it can devise? Why help Russia for the sake of immediate and dubious profits when a market of ninety million people, industrious and progressive and ready for mutually profitable relations, is left virtually untouched?

The extension of credit under proper conditions, the investment of American capital in development, in equities, in these new countries, the energetic exploitation of commercial possibilities in these countries, he believes, will not only be economically more certain and more profitable in the long run than any effort in the Russian field but at the same time will be a contribution to the restoration and development of peoples who are opposed to the communist system, the extension of which is a menace to the civilization of which we are now the chief support.

Well considered American investment in the industrial development of these countries, he asserts, will justify itself now in return upon the capital embarked, but also will make a valuable and long continuing market for American replacements. These industries are bound to be developed, but by sharing in them there is assured a market for our manufactures which will offset in some degree results to be expected from the increase of their competition. If America does not take advantage of this opportunity, and at once, it will be seized by other advanced countries.

This seems to be a challenge to American financial and commercial enterprise which ought not to be ignored. British finance and commerce played a large and mutually profitable part in the development of the United States, and we would do well to take account of that fact. Forward-looking American business is now preparing to exploit with renewed energy the rich home market. At the same time there is great and well recognized need to restore and extend foreign markets for our surplus production and our surplus reserves of capital. If the same resourcefulness which is shown in stimulating the buyer at home were extended to the stimulation of demand for our goods abroad, and a thoroughly considered policy of investment of surplus American funds in solid and profitable developments in progressive countries abroad were established by our financiers, results would be substantial and in keeping with both our economic and political welfare. With our present capital accumulation and productive capacity we are necessarily committed to financial and commercial expansion and it should not be beyond our financial and commercial intelligence to conduct this expansion on wise and farsighted lines.

BOTTLE NECKS.

Substantial progress has been made in realizing the program for modern roads in the Chicago region. The other day it was announced that by the end of this year five super highways will have been completed from the Fox river into Chicago and corresponding improvements are to be found to the north and south. Needless to say, these results have been achieved only by continual pressure on state and local officials. Our radial highways at first were too few in number and too narrow for the volume of motor traffic. The number has been somewhat increased and, at the same time, many of the existing roads have been widened from 20 feet to 40 feet over long stretches.

Unfortunately there remain many gaps, some of only a few hundred yards, others continuing for miles, which go a long way toward minimizing the return from the investment in road widening. Roosevelt road, for example, will be a 40 foot highway into Geneva by the end of the summer except for narrow stretches where grade separations are contemplated and, more especially, except for the stretch through Berwyn, Oak Park and Cicero. Similar bottlenecks are to be found on most of the radial roads. They assure serious traffic congestion and delays, the more annoying because they are unnecessary.

The efforts of highway and motor club officials should be concentrated on mopping up these isolated detachments of the enemy to swift and comfortable travel in the Chicago region.

MORE ORDNANCE OBSTRUCTION.

That infantry and ordnance officers should squabble for two years over tank types is nothing new, nor is the suggestion of the head of the ordnance department that the tank approved by the former should be tested further. The ordnance department always wants more time for more tests even under stress of the most urgent need for decision and production, as in 1917 and 1918. When the military authorities at the fighting front were begging for more artillery and the French had turned over the plans of their famous .75 the ordnance department proceeded for months to experiment with possible improvements on this proved weapon instead of turning it out. The experiments were not successful and our army had to rely entirely upon our associates for artillery, a humiliating result for one of the greatest industrial nations in the world.

The ordnance department is inordinately jealous of outside accomplishment and cherishes, in spite of experience, an obsession of superiority. The infantry officers who have actually tried the ordnance model have specific objections and approve the civilian engineer Christie's model. But the ordnance department seems determined to force its own device or go on experimenting until it gets one that is acceptable. That is an old story, but finis should be written for it. The present secretary of war and his chief of staff are practical and decisive men. They ought to see that mechanization proceeds without further obstruction. The army needs tanks and training with tanks. No other army is waiting while a bureau tries to produce perfect models. The British army is well supplied and constantly developing its mechanical equipment. It is intolerable that in such a country as ours we should be bogged in a bureaucratic quicksand.

THE OPERA LIBRETTO.

[New York World.]

Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, continuing her requiem for opera in the World, lays stress as she should on the circumstance that good operas are not being written any more. Why? It is hard to believe that opera is an outmoded art, unsuited to the modern world. The story embellished with music is as popular in its light form as it ever was, and there seems no reason in logic why it should not also be popular in its serious form. And one wonders whether the slackening of its appeal, and particularly the slackening of its creative impulses, are not due to blundering on its own part.

Has it forgotten, perchance, what it really is? Has it got the cart before the horse and come to assume that instead of being story embellished with music it is music embellished with story? There is some reason for thinking so. In recent years it has fallen under the spell of Wagner, and when his ideas are stewed down they mean that the music is more important than the story. He did not himself regard the story as important enough to warrant the services of a librettist: like Irving Berlin, he made up the words himself, and with approximately the same result. And, in the second place, when you examine the new works of recent years, you find that the composers apparently thought the story as unimportant as Wagner thought it. Most of them were written to original librettos, a new departure in opera. The old timers were so anxious for a good story that they took the hits of their time, the Camilles, the Carmens, and the Butterflies; even Wagner based his books on German folklore. But the gentlemen of today seem to think that so long as the story provides costumes, sets, and aria cues it is good enough. Strauss is the only modern composer who orchestrates tales tried and true, and he owes much to the late Hugo von Hofmannsthal.

In other words, if opera were to emulate Mr. Ziegfeld and supply tunes for a "Show Boat," it might find business picking up. As it is, it is slowly theorizing itself out of existence.

TREATING MONGOLIANISM.

DR. WALTER TIMME has a treatment for Mongolianism. This treatment has been in use for ten years. He is not satisfied with it and it has not been adopted by physicians generally. All of which is conclusive that it falls short of being perfect. On the other hand there is no other treatment that has given results that are satisfying, or anywhere near so.

Dr. Timme reports children greatly improved in facial and bodily appearance, greatly changed in disposition, and so improved in mentality that they have been able to do school work in the lower grades, to participate in children's games, and to take their places in the child life of the home and neighborhood. The treatment seems to promise much for a few cases, something for more, and little or nothing for others.

As he uses it now, the Timme treatment consists of thyroid one-tenth to one-fourth grain; saturated solution of iodide of potash, 2 drops; pituitary substance, 2 or 3 capsules, each containing 1 to 2 grains of the anterior lobe; and of the whole lobe, one-tenth to one-fourth grain. These are all the doses for one day. The medicines are given daily as regular as the sun rolls around, year in and year out, and for ten years or more.

After it has been in use for considerable time, a half ampoule of antuitrin is given twice a week in addition to the other medication. The treatment is something of a shotgun affair. There is no proof that each of the ingredients should be in the combination, or that the dosage of each is right. About all that can be said for it is that Mongolianism seems to be due to some disturbance of the ductless glands, that the best proof relates to disturbances in the pituitary gland, and that the treatment gives better results than any other that has been tried.

PROBABLY NEEDS TRAINING.

A. M. R. writes: I am writing you in behalf of a friend who has a boy 11 years of age. His weight and height are normal and he appears to be perfectly well in every way, but he is a physical coward. It is impossible to have his teeth taken care of, as he practically wrecks the dentist's office, kicks the nurses, and screams awfully. The mother has tried scolding, reasoning, and whipping, but he simply will not stop. It is just the same with medical attention. Can you suggest anything that she can try? He is one of three children and both the others are perfect soldiers. When he was three years old his appendix had to be removed, and we think that may have helped to make him so nervous.

REPLY.

A mental and physical examination might disclose some reason for this boy's abnormal behavior. However, faulty training has been a prominent factor and possibly the only one. You are probably right. After his appendix operation he was babied and that spoiled him. Training is the remedy in whole or in part.

NO DANGER EXISTS.

J. J. writes: I am going with a girl whom I intend to marry. Recently she found out that my second cousin has epileptic fits, and she claims that if we marry it would have an effect on our children.

REPLY.

Neither your prospective children nor you and your generation are in any way endangered by your second cousin's epilepsy. Epilepsy is scarcely hereditary in any phase, and the relationship in this case is too remote for genetic relations of any disease or deformity.

SCHOOLROOM WINDOW PANES.

R. W. writes: Recently in a class we were discussing the ideal schoolroom. I was under the impression that windows in schools were made with several small panes of glass instead of one large pane so that the sunlight would be divided and spread over a larger section of the room. We would appreciate it very much if you could let us know if that is true, and if it isn't please tell us why the glass is put in small sections.

REPLY:

Small panes of glass are cheaper. If there is breakage the expense of replacement is less.

There is no health reason for or against small panes.

JOINT TENANCY.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise me what is meant by purchase of real estate in joint tenancy. 1. Can deeds be secured in joint tenancy when contract to buy was void of that fact, if all signers of contract are still alive and agree to same?

A. H.

1. If the instrument expressly provides for joint tenancy as distinguished from tenancy in common, the surviving joint tenant will take to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first.

2. Yes, if it is satisfactory to all parties, including the grantor.

HALL LIGHTS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We live in a twelve flat building. This building is L-shaped and the entrance and halls are very dark. Lights are turned on at 5:30 p. m. and off at 3 a. m. Is there no law to force the landlord to leave on one of the landing lights all night? In case we are held up or injured by a fall is the landlord responsible when he has no light in the hallway? J. D. B.

In 283 Ill. 271, 275, the Supreme court held an ordinance requiring light invalid on the ground that the city has only delegated powers which do not include this subject matter. It is the general rule that in absence of such an ordinance or statute the landlord is under no legal obligation to furnish light [36 C. J. 26 and 214].

INSURANCE BENEFIT.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can my husband make my married daughter beneficiary of $1,500 paid by his employer upon his death after my having raised a large family with him? 2. Am I entitled to this legacy in my status as his legal wife?

E. G.

1. Yes, as far as the facts are before us.

2. You are not entitled to anything unless the wording of the insurance is such as to give you rights.

Really, Sheriff, Some Motorists Are Most Trying.

Sheriff Meyering is quite right in instructing his motor cops that they must never under any circumstances use profane language to motorists. Which makes us rejoice that we are not a motor cop. For when a driver jumps his car out of the endless parade wending its painful way into town on a summer Sunday afternoon and forces cars on their own lawful side of the road to hustle into the ditch to avoid a collision—gosh, if we were a motor cop we fear we'd address the mule driver in language that was both uncouth and almost rude. And if we caught a driver full of hootch driving right into the red light and endangering the life and limb of peaceable motorists who were crossing the street in the exercise of their lawful privilege—well, maybe we would say to the demon driver: "Oh, chocolate creams, you shouldn't drive against the red light; indeed and indeed you should not, darling little sweetums!" But we are very much afraid we might not. The sheriff is right; the only point we're trying to make is that we should never be appointed a traffic cop. We couldn't stand the strain.

"... any mention of Pan in modern poetry is outmoded. ..."

In the fields where autumn gentian
Once spread blue across the grass
Somebody I dare not mention
Still must pass,

For where snow had left a fretwork
Of white lace, half ice, half thaw,
As I pondered on that network,
Lo! I saw

Where the rabbit tracks and roof marks
Of the field mice most abound
There were certain little hoof marks
On the ground.

Not in fours they came, but doubling
In a cozy two by two,
So I knew without much troubling
It was You!

Good old Shaggyhead! You're hiding
Winking eye and pointed ear.
Oh, I'm glad you are abiding
Somewhere near!

See! I bow and spread oblations,
Nuts and corn and sunflower seed.
Come, with all your poor relations!
Come and feed!

R. H. L.: Walter Hemminway, who was raised on the Rockefeller estate, tells of a laborer who asked the big boss for a job. ## THE OLD CLAIM SEEMS TO BE ABOUT PLAYED OUT

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 13, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Voting for the first time in its history upon the suffrage question, the house of representatives rejected the Mondell resolution proposing the national enfranchisement of women. One hundred and seventy-four members voted for the resolution to submit the suffrage constitutional amendment to the states and 204 members against it.

ROME.—The Austrian and German embassies at Rome are warning the nationals of their countries to prepare for departure and are issuing passports to avoid an eleventh hour crush.

ROME.—The Hodeida incident will probably soon be closed. Turkey has definitely accepted all of Italy's demands, including a military salute to the Italian flag when it is again hoisted over the consulate, where it was hauled down by the consul after the violation of the building by the arrest of the British vice consul who had taken refuge there.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 13, 1901.

CHICAGO. — Special reports gathered by THE TRIBUNE show that more than half a million persons in the grip belt, which extends across the United States from the Rocky mountains to New York, are suffering from the disease. The epidemic is greater in the east. In Chicago the grip is spreading at an alarming rate, but few fatal cases are reported.

CHICAGO.—With the selection of a new board of directors stockholders of the Chicago Auditorium association declared for a radical change in policy. Strict business methods are to control hereafter, and efforts will be made to place the property on a dividend paying basis and to raise the market value of the stock from $2, $3 and $4 a share, where it has hung for years, to nearer the par value of $100 a hare. Ferdinand W. Peck, who has been at the head of the association since its organization in 1896, is to retire from the presidency. Directors for the next year are Thomas J. Lefens, Charles H. Wacker, H. H. Kohlsaat, John R. Walsh, W. T. Baker, Charles L. Hutchinson, Martin A. Ryerson, Ferdinand W. Peck, E. L. Brewster, W. J. Chalmers, and Henry Dibblee.

CHICAGO.—Turner hall, 255 West 12th street, was the scene of the wildest panic in the history of the Hebrew quarter when some one saw a wisp of smoke and yelled "Fire" during a performance of "The Greenhorn" in Yiddish. Immediately there was a stampede of men, women and children for the exits. When it was over five persons were dead and more than 50 injured. Four of the dead were children who were trampled to death in the mad rush to escape. Most of the injured also are children. There was no fire.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — Fourteen men were quarantined in a saloon here because of the smallpox scare. When they were not permitted to leave they drank up all the stock in the place.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 13, 1881.

WASHINGTON. — Senator McDonald of Indiana and Mrs. Josephine F. Bernard were married here at the residence of the bride's brother, Frank B. Farnsworth.

WASHINGTON. — Senator Blaine, commenting on the bill to place Gen. Grant on the retired list, says it ought to be done on the ground of fair play. He said: "The people took Gen. Grant from a good life position in the army and made him President. I think they owe it to him now to leave him in as good a position as they found him when they demanded he should serve them as President."

ROME.—Senator Arrivabene, one of the wisest of modern Italian patriots and economists, is dead at the age of 96. He was identified with the Liberal party and made himself obnoxious to many of the governments of the world.

NEW YORK.—Jay Gould and Vanderbilt have effected a consolidation of the rival telegraph companies, the Western Union, the American Union, and the Atlantic and Pacific. President Green of the Western Union said that the terms of consolidation have been arranged and the preliminary papers signed. They will be submitted to the board of directors of the Western Union at once.

BASKETBALL BOOING.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—It is indeed interesting to note the contrast in sportsmanship between two Big Ten teams, particularly Northwestern and Illinois. At the Michigan game last night the decisions of the referee and umpire were continually hissed and booed, while at the game the Saturday previous two of Notre Dame's men who were removed on personal fouls were given an almost unanimous boo instead of the customary applause. Having attended Illinois, I have had the pleasure of watching a spirit seldom seen in any school in the country, that of clean sportsmanship. If Northwestern were to adopt the twelve points on the Illini code of sportsmanship a spirit of good feeling, rather than one of antagonism, could be created between themselves and other Big Ten teams. LEONARD ROBINSON.

CON AMORE.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—On Wednesday, Jan. 7, in the column of "Voice of the People," under the heading "Mussolini's Speech," I noticed that Mrs. Tiheri stated that she was not able to comprehend one word of the speech delivered by Mussolini over the radio. She also remarks, "I pity poor Italy if that man has mastered its people as he has the English language."

Apparently the lady has a very untrained ear for a foreign accent, but the world at large understood well the message delivered by Mussolini on New Year's day over the international broadcast.

I wish to inform Mrs. Tiheri that the Italians love their duce for what he has accomplished in Italy, and he ought to be praised by the world for his determination to master the English language in a very short time. Many others have been unable to accomplish this feat.

We Italians need no pity from Mrs. Tiheri, or any one else, but we are very proud of the duce and his accomplishments. TITO SCHIPA,

Member of the Chicago Civic Opera association.

THE FEAR OF DEATH.

Chicago, Jan. 5. — A great man has lost his battle with death in France. He wanted to live as long as possible; he wanted to live. Now, then, when some poor polilu was ordered to go over the top he was told not to be afraid of death, but if he wanted to live and ran the other way this same great man who just died would order death by the firing squad. Generals do not die in the lines, and they are even afraid to die in bed. ROY R. SMITH.

COME AGAIN.

BRIGHTON.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—I cannot help feeling indignant at the article on Brighton, England, in today's Sunday TRIBUNE, written by John Steele.

I happen to be intimately acquainted with Brighton, having had the inestimable blessing of several years' residence there, and I feel that Mr. Steele has treated with more or less contumely a subject upon which reams of poetic praise have been bestowed, and has grossly neglected his opportunity to regale his readers with matters that could be made most replete with interest of a historical, natural, and climatic nature.

In Europe Brighton's preeminence as a queen of watering places is accepted as incontrovertible. It has no serious rival except the Riviera, and opinion is divided as to their relative advantages. It has the most ideal climate to be found on this planet—not excepting California.

Mr. Steele says nothing about the fact that Brighton is still a gathering place for the socially élite, but in its proper season, which is from November to May, whereas his contact with it has apparently been only in the height of the summer season, when it swarms with "trippers" of a more or less undesirable class. Neither does he say anything about the little, age-old, peaceful Saxon villages that are within the corporate limits of the city, nor the fact that one can ramble over the beautiful South Downs [still within the city limits] for a full day, and not meet a human being, nor once smell gasoline, and have a full view of the English channel at the same time.

No, he compares Brighton to Coney Island and Saugatuck. Monstrous inanity! I am also well acquainted with Saugatuck. It is to laugh.

There is nothing in America to remotely compare with Brighton. Atlantic City is a base imitation with the undesirable element preponderantly large.

But then I suppose that's the sort of articles you have to feed to Americans. Did Mr. Steele ever read Kipling?

JOHN W. MURRAY.

MR. KINSLEY'S DISPATCHES.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—This is a word of appreciation of your report of the convention of scientists at Cleveland. Chicago papers have not been noted for reports of this kind. Your man did a good job. I hope enough people let you know it to have you keep up the good work. H. B. LOOMIS,

Principal, Hyde Park High School.

A FELLOW SUFFERER.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—I note that a young man from Lake Geneva, Wis., was chosen as the man to be examined and to have his headache cured.

Is it possible for me to submit to an examination, for I also built a home at Lake Geneva and have had a headache ever since; also it gives me a pain in the neck. DR. J. M. NICHOLSON.

The HOME

THE enduring strength of America is the home. Everything else, railroads, factories, stores, banks, mines, oil wells—all the material evidences of power and riches—exist merely to serve the home.

As a nation we are fundamentally sound because the average American family is a going concern. The American home as an institution is unconquered and unconquerable.

Collectively these American homes have performed miracles. They financed to a conclusion the costliest of all wars by buying twenty-four billion dollars' worth of Liberty Bonds.

They demanded a fuller, richer life, and great industries arose to serve them. For the American home the five-billion-dollar automobile industry was created. The telephone, the radio and all the myriad applications of electrical energy built great businesses because the American home demanded better things.

American homes steadily grow in numbers. So long as men and women cleave to one another, new families will create new homes. Every four years enough new homes are built in this country to make a city the size of New York.

Last year the people who lived in American homes earned and spent nearly ninety billion dollars. Even in 1930 they increased their savings deposits by two hundred and fifty millions and cleaned up most of their installment debts.

On many subjects they differ, but all want to live well. Ambition and a desire for better things are universal. Americans want the best and are willing to work intelligently to get it.

founded upon a ROCK

That is why they are so deeply interested in advertising. They know that advertising is the shortest way to learn of the best and the newest.

The American people demand just this of business:

"Make better and better goods and tell us plainly what you have accomplished."

Concerns which follow this rule in letter and spirit do the great volume of business in this country. Their names, their products, their brands, their packages, become a familiar part of the everyday buying of the American people.

The high strategy of business is to obey the command of the American home—

INDIANA SENATE TO CONDUCT OWN JOBLESS INQUIRY

Vote Separate Quiz; Speed Up Relief, Aim.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The Indiana state senate in its first official action of the 1931 legislature voted 42 to 7 here this afternoon to conduct its own investigation of unemployment. The investigation also is to include a study of just what steps have been actually taken to relieve the present situation and to determine exactly what has been done by the governor's unemployment commission appointed last fall.

The resolution for the investigation was introduced by Senator Alonzo H. Lindley, Republican.

Declares Many Are Destitute.

He asserted "there are now 700 destitute families in Vermilion county alone, in my district, and I know of 125 school children who are living on one meal a day." Senator George Sims, Republican from Terre Haute, vouched for Lindley's dark picture of southern Indiana destitution and criticized Gov. Leslie for "spending $53,000 on the executive mansion from the state emergency fund in five months. If he can do that we, too, can do something to alleviate this distress." Other senators from southern Indiana, regardless of party, arose to make similar statements.

Provisions of the official Democratic state income tax bill became known tonight. The bill was written by Evans Woollen, Indianapolis banker and Democratic leader.

The official Democratic bill provides that every citizen paying a federal income tax also pay one-half that tax to the state. Lower exemption minimums, affecting poorer citizens, are provided in the bill proposed by the governor's tax survey commission.

The house committee on reapportioning the state to reduce by one Indiana's delegation of thirteen to the United States lower house will be headed by Representative Lew C. Core, Washington, Democrat.

Lake county gets the head of the committee on elections; Fred A. Egan, Gary, attorney and the chairman of the committee on fees and salaries; J. Clinn Allyson, Hammond, real estate man.

The committee on public morals which will receive bills to amend the present bone dry law which technically makes Indiana most arid of the 48 states is composed of Russel Dean, Indianapolis attorney, chairman; George Stolte, Allen county; Earl Crawford, Frank Finney, Morgan county; Martin Krueger, La Porte county; John M. Masselink, Vigo county; J. Henry Monnig Jr., Vanderburgh county; John F. White, Marion county, and William E. Wilson, Hancock and Madison counties, all Democrats. Republicans are Tad A. Adams, Hendricks county; Miles J. Furnas, Randolph county, and Cecil C. Griggs, Park county.

EFFORTS TO AMEND NEW COPYRIGHT LAW DELAY HOUSE ACTION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—A barrage of amendments offered by opponents of the Vestal bill to revise the copyright law prevented final action by the house today on the eight year old measure.

After a day long heated debate, Republican Leader Tilson charged off the floor the Democrats were conducting "an adroit filibuster, cleverly concealed," against the bill.

Representative Busby, Democrat, Mississippi, charged the bill would confer monopolistic rights. One of Busby's amendments was adopted. It struck from the bill a provision making wilful infringement of copyright a misdemeanor punishable by a year's imprisonment, $1,000 fine, or both.

ELIMINATE 6 INCH GUN CRUISERS IN NAVY PROGRAM

House Naval Committee Announces Decision.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Decision to eliminate the ordinary type 6 inch gun cruiser from the navy's new warship authorization bill has been reached informally by the house naval committee, Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], said today. As the bill will go to the house probably Wednesday it will carry but six ships, one cruiser to be equipped with a deck from which planes can take off and on which they can land, one 13,800 ton aircraft carrier and four 1,100 ton fleet submarines. Its cost will be around $70,000,000 instead of $90,000,000 as it now stands.

Indications today are that the naval committee will alter the bill to set a time limit on the construction of the ships. Representative Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.], ranking minority member, offered amendments at today's meeting of the naval committee which, if adopted, would require the beginning of all ships during the next three years and their construction in private yards.

Asks Steel, Not Paper, Ships.

"I am going to push these amendments," Mr. Vinson said today, "because I believe we should authorize steel, not paper, ships. Unless there is a time limit imposed no one knows when the vessels will be laid down. I also believe the ships should be constructed in private yards to stimulate employment."

Unfavorable action on the 6 inch ordinary gun cruiser type will destroy all hopes that the fleet might be built up to London treaty strength by the time the pact expires in December, 1935. Under the treaty the United States must build 6 inch gun cruisers or none after it completes 180,000 tons of 6 inch gun vessels, two of which will not be completed until 1937. The bill carries funds for one 10,000 ton 6 inch gun flying deck cruiser, but this is an experimental ship.

At today's session of the committee an amendment providing $3,000,000 for experimental work with Diesel engines for naval craft was approved. Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnell testified that the navy and in fact the United States ranks far below other powers in Diesel engine development.

To Try Diesel Engines.

"If we used the Diesel engine in cruisers," the rear admiral testified, "this step would be taken to increase the radius of this type of vessel. The Diesel uses only about one-half as much fuel as other engine types. This means that the radius of action of a cruiser might be doubled if a satisfactory engine for this type of vessel were built.

PUBLISHER'S "AD" OF FIVE PAGES BREAKS RECORD

What is said to be the largest newspaper advertisement ever placed by a publishing house appears today in THE TRIBUNE and eleven other dailies. It consists of five consecutive pages, containing an announcement of policy by the Crowell Publishing company for its four magazines—the Woman's Home Companion, the American magazine, Collier's Weekly, and the Country Home. The "ad" says the circulation of the four magazines has increased in four years from 6,400,000 copies per issue to more than 8,550,000. Other papers in which the advertisement appears are the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, New York Telegram, Philadelphia Bulletin, Detroit Free Press, Boston Herald Traveler, San Francisco Examiner, Cincinnati Enquirer, Cleveland Plain Dealer, and Los Angeles Times.

DISCUSSES PLANS FOR NEW AVENUES ON NORTH SHORE

Future development of the lake shore in the suburbs north of Chicago was the topic of an address by Robert Kingery, secretary of the Chicago Regional Planning association, before the Evanston North Shore Association of Architects last evening at the Orrington hotel in Evanston. Traffic outlets from the city were made the subject of special mention.

"Progress in these studies is being made rapidly," Mr. Kingery informed the architects. "The council, plan commission, and a committee of lake shore property owners are approaching agreement as to a general plan and getting down to brass tacks on the details. All studies which have been made include bathing beaches and small harbors at suitable intervals and contemplate direct access to the proposed state park north of Waukegan.

"The Regional Planning association has been making every effort to develop broad traffic arteries to pass by the shore line residential areas."

MR. WM. H. GLOVER

REM quickly checks coughs

Mr. Wm. H. Glover of 5005 Anthony Ave., Baltimore, is the manager of a filling station. Good weather and bad, whenever a customer "honks" for service, he must be on the job, ready to fill up a gas-tank or check the oil. Naturally he gets coughs off and on, but he's learned what to do for them. "It must have been five or six years ago," says Mr. Glover, "that we started using REM in our family. I work at the station all year round, and running out to give service in all kinds of weather, I get coughs-and-colds. But I've never failed to get relief with REM. I've gotten many a bottle at George Bowman's across the street. We all use it at home, too. I think REM's great and I'm glad to tell how good it is."

REM's exclusive formula explains its splendid results. Economical, too!

"Thomas' helped me to prevent baldness"--says

Dr. J. S. O'Connell

Well Known Chicago Dentist

"I have always felt that a good head of hair is a valuable asset to any man—and an asset well worth keeping. When I first noticed my hair getting a little thin, I consulted a Thomas' scalp specialist. He determined the exact cause of my falling hair and administered the Thomas' treatment to meet my specific need. With even the very first Thomas' treatment I could feel new life returning to my scalp. The falling hair soon stopped and my hair started to grow in again. I heartily recommend Thomas' treatment to any person troubled with dandruff, falling hair, or any other scalp disorder. Thomas' treatment produces results and is scientifically sound," Dr. O'Connell says.

More than a quarter million persons, including well known professional men, actors, business men—men in all walks of life—who have taken Thomas' scalp treatment agree with Dr. O'Connell. Let the 16-year proved Thomas' treatment awaken your sluggish scalp—and invigorate those dormant sources of hair growth in your scalp. With Thomas' treatment dandruff soon disappears, abnormal hair-fall stops and new hair grows on the thin and bald spots. Thomas' will not accept you for treatment unless results seem possible. SYNOPSIS.

[illegible] Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Riechtenburg, are [illegible] at their estate near Littal, in Austria, by George Hanbury, companion of Chandos [illegible] adventures. Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, wires that [illegible] not come.

[illegible] Paul, ruler of Riechtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and swore revenge. [illegible] for Marya's safety, because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, [illegible] servants Bell and Rowley, go secretly to Virgil, capital city of Riechtenburg, [illegible] Marya resides. A peasant, named Ramon, leads them through a secret passage. [illegible] tells them that she sent no message. Realizing the telegram was a ruse to [illegible] to Virgil, they are preparing to flee with Marya, when the prince appears. They [illegible] and reach the border, but find it so closely guarded that crossing is impossible. [illegible] is sought and he hides them. Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, hide in a [illegible] village, while Chandos and Rowley join a traveling circus. Marya sends Carol to [illegible] to Bariche, across the border, in a car which they recognize as Grieg's, the chief [illegible] Arrived at the inn in Bariche, they receive a message from Marya stating that [illegible] is pardoned, but she must remain in Riechtenburg and not communicate [illegible]

[illegible] that Marya, endeavoring to save them, has made some impossible arrangement [illegible] their return to the border, Hanbury and Rowley pass, but Chandos is captured. [illegible] to the inspector that Grieg has betrayed his trust. Grieg arrives and leaves [illegible] prisoner for Virgil. Hanbury and Rowley, knowing their friend's plight, hold up [illegible] the chief's car. They drive to the estate of Baron Sabre where they find [illegible] Grieg they left, tied to a post along the roadside.

[illegible] bury, who is in love with Marya, is stunned when she tells them that she was [illegible] of that morning to Grieg—her price for their freedom. Chandos sets out to find [illegible] to do away with him—but Grieg has escaped. Chandos returns to Baron Sabre's [illegible] confronts the prince who has arrived, arguing with Grieg. Grieg is forgiven when [illegible] the prince he has a trap set to catch his prey that evening at the secret border [illegible] as well as Leonie, who is to meet them there. Lelia, a young peasant girl, leads [illegible] to a mill where his friends are hiding. Marya has disappeared and Chandos sends [illegible] and Rowley to follow her and he leaves for the border pass. Lelia, who has fallen [illegible] with Chandos, at the risk of her life, finds him and tells him that Leonie has [illegible] the country an hour before. Grieg traps them and fires at Chandos, but Lelia [illegible] herself in front of him and receives the bullet. Chandos traps Grieg at the brink [illegible] over and forces him to fall to his death below. Chandos then surrenders to the [illegible] in their company sets out to return the body of Lelia to her home. En route [illegible] is met by the local coroner who demands the girl's body for inquest. He hears [illegible] story and promises to see that he is brought back the next day to testify. [illegible] Chandos is being tried at Virgil before a special court, the coroner comes with [illegible] for Chandos and the grand duchess. He is told that the grand duchess has [illegible] to Littal. Chandos is sent back to his cell, where the summons is served on [illegible] He receives a visit from Sully, lord president of the council, who is devoted to [illegible] and has returned to the country at her request.

INSTALLMENT XLIV.

UNCONVINCING EVIDENCE.

When I had made my toilet, Sully's man served me a very good breakfast [illegible] had arranged for some pastry cook to provide, and when I had [illegible] he brought me the morning paper and asked at what hour I would [illegible]. I told him at one o'clock. Then he wished me good morning and [illegible] his way.

Of the news which the paper gave, the inquest to be held at Vardar was [illegible] the largest print and the highest place. No names were mentioned, [illegible] by order of the police: but I was referred to as "a very high person- [illegible] for some extraordinary reason now lying under arrest." Of the obstruc- [illegible] of the coroner's officer no mention was made, but the presence of the [illegible] was referred to as indicating the interest which had been aroused, [illegible] indeed the whole passage might have been designed to make the most [illegible] of readers hungry for news.

Of Leonie nothing was said but the following words:

The Grand Duchess Leonie entered the country by Elsa on Tuesday night. [illegible] highness is understood to have left again this morning. The object [illegible] her visit is not known. We see too little of the lady who, if not Princess [illegible]stenburg, will always be the queen of our hearts.

. . . . . .

[illegible] as the clocks were striking eleven, the door was opened and Sully came [illegible] the room.

"She is not here, Chandos," he said.

"Yes, she is, Sully," said I.

"My dear boy," he began——

"I know it," said I. "I cannot prove it, of course. But they are deceiv- [illegible], Sully. Leonie is here."

"She was here," said Sully. "She came in on Monday evening, driving [illegible]

"As a prince, I honor him. But I would give his royal body for a hair of her lovely head."

[illegible]. Jameson was with her. She drove to the Lessing Strasse, and there [illegible] passed the night. The prince declined to see her and she left again with [illegible] before midday."

"Why?"

"Nobody knows, Chandos. She received a trunk telephone call which [illegible] be traced, and she is believed to have left in response to that. I have [illegible] the book which they keep at the customs at Elsa. The car is entered [illegible] having come in at nine-thirty on Tuesday night, and the 'Exit' column [illegible] stamped——"

"Show me a telegram from Littal, saying that she is there."

"She is not there, Chandos. That I admit. But she may be at Bariche [illegible]burg——"

"Or Vigil," said I.

"The prince has sworn before God that she is not here," he said.

"For Sully's sake I suppressed the obvious retort.

"Those judges know that she's here. And I think the superintendent, [illegible] cannot be sure. And the men that took her must know."

"Chandos, Chandos," cried Sully. "I have ways and means of finding [illegible] in this land. Where she has gone, or why, I cannot tell you. [illegible] will swear to you that she is not here."

"I do not say she is in Vigil," said I. "She may be at the summer [illegible] at Rothenthal. She was driving George Hanbury's car. Let Bell be [illegible] and go with you to the Mews. He'll know the car when he sees it. [illegible] If it is not at the Mews, let him go with some one you trust to Rothen- [illegible]

"It shall be done," said Sully. His hand went into his pocket to bring [illegible] an envelope. "And now here is the pardon——"

"I'm sorry, Sully," said I. "But you know me too well for that."

"My dear boy. . . ."

Absolutely I shook my head.

"I am due at Vardar," I said, "in four hours' time. What evidence [illegible] shall give there remains to be seen. But I will not discuss the matter until [illegible] have seen my wife."

Sully laid a hand on my shoulder.

"I will come back," he said. "I am going to get hold of Bell and do as [illegible] say."

When he was gone I flung myself into a chair and stared at the floor.

Sully was wise. He knew the prince and the country far better than I. [illegible] his secret agents and he knew what men he could trust. Above all, [illegible] loved Leonie. And Sully was satisfied that Leonie was not here. Yet if [illegible] was not here, where would she be? She had set out from Littal because [illegible] found my peril so instant that she could no longer endure to be out of [illegible]. That she should return because the prince would not see her was [illegible] another absurd. Besides she had not returned. And what telephone call [illegible] lure her out of the country when once she was in? All the fear she had [illegible] was the fear of being stopped at the frontier—from coming in. More. [illegible] would have waited for Sully. She alone knew that he was coming and [illegible] her hope was in him.

The book kept at Elsa was faked. No telephone call could be traced [illegible] none had been made. These things were the dust to be thrown into [illegible] eyes. Leonie was here.

. . . . . .

An hour and a half dragged by before Sully returned.

The man looked pale and worn, and I knew he had failed.

"Bell is below, Chandos. We have been to the royal Mews and to the [illegible] palace; but the car is not there."

"So be it," said I. "Then it is somewhere else."

"I do not believe it," cried Sully. "You know that I would not deceive [illegible] let myself be deceived. You know—you must know that I am as [illegible] as you . . . that she has been my darling for twenty years." He [illegible] himself into a chair and covered his eyes. "When I was your age I [illegible] her in my arms—the loveliest baby-child that ever I saw. Even then [illegible] been arranged that one day those tiny hands should put on the [illegible] crown. I watched her grow into a maiden, and I watched the [illegible] grow into a queen. And then my dream was shattered. You broke it. [illegible] You took her away. And when I looked upon my master I thanked [illegible] God. Thanked him for sending you to save her from such a hideous fate. [illegible] made him a prince. Had my father-not seen him in the midwife's arms [illegible] have doubted it. There are times when I doubt it now——" He [illegible] off there, his voice thick and shaken with emotion as I had never heard [illegible] before. After a little he continued shakily. "As a prince, I honor him. [illegible] I would give his royal body for a hair of her lovely head."

"I know it, Sully," said I.

"I serve him. I come to you as his ambassador. At this inquest at [illegible] you will hold his name, perhaps his fortune, in the hollow of your [illegible] He is young and headstrong. In his way he loved the grand duchess. [illegible] years they had been betrothed. He had come to take her for granted, [illegible] his eyes were fixed upon the day when he would be prince and she would [illegible] by his side. And when you came, and she broke off her engagement— [illegible] the blow might well have unbalanced an older and steadier head. His [illegible] was turned to hatred. Jealousy stung him to madness, and all his [illegible] were of vengeance for 'the wrong which he had been done.' Then, [illegible] boy, he noticed Grieg . . . Grieg had no cause to love you, and Grieg was [illegible] of a job. . . . His royal highness was the cat's paw—you know he is very [illegible]. I was not there. Grieg played upon his baser nature, because it suited [illegible] book. But for Grieg, he would never have lifted a finger to do you [illegible]."

[illegible] rare and admirable Sully! Had ever so worthless a master so faithful [illegible]?

Good Morning!

KIND: Historical pantomime recording high lights in the life of Martin Luther, 16th century revolutionist, against papal procedure of that era, and founder of the Lutheran church.

ACTING: Excellent.

DIRECTION: Highly intelligent.

SETS, SCENERY, COSTUMES: Interesting, atmospheric, and, probably, authentic.

SUBTITLES: Informative and tactful.

THE STORY: Starts with Luther in his early manhood while attending the university at Erfurt. Describes his days as a monk of the St. Augustine order; his pilgrimage to Rome; his writing and the posting of the ninety-five theses which roused large numbers of the German people and brought about what is known as the reformation; publication of the manifesto; his appearance before the diet at Worms. It concludes with the peasants' war, at which time Luther's appearance in a pulpit, after he had been in retirement for a season at the castle at Wartburg translating the scriptures into German, quieted the fanaticism of the moment.

Actors' Dues Are Raised.

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A resolution raising the dues of alien actors from $18 a year to 5 per cent of their salaries during their contracts, with a minimum of $10 a week, was adopted at a closed meeting of the Actors' Equity association today.

CHAUNCEY M'CORMICKS BUY FAMOUS ART OF PAST CENTURIES

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Five objects from the famous Guelph treasure, for centuries in the possession of the duke of Brunswick, have been acquired by Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick of Chicago. Several of the objects, it is understood, are to be given to the Antiquarian society of the Art institute of Chicago, of which Mrs. McCormick is president. One of their purchases is a fourteenth century monstrance, which contains what is said to be a tooth of John the Baptist.

This acquisition by Mr. and Mrs. McCormick increases to a dozen the number of objects from this noted collection of medieval ecclesiastical art which are known to have been bought by American museums and collectors. There were a total of eighty-two objects in the collection, which was said to have a value of $5,000,000.

The treasure was bought last year from the former duke of Brunswick, son-in-law of the ex-kaiser, by a group of art dealers. One of the firms was J. & S. Goldschmidt of Berlin, from whom Mr. and Mrs. McCormick made their purchase. The collection is now being shown at the Cleveland museum.

Many of the objects in the treasure were in the possession of the Guelph princes for nearly 800 years.

The silver-gilt monstrance was made in lower Saxony at the end of the fourteenth century and is 17¾ inches high. The rock crystal vase, which contains the relic, however, dates from the tenth or eleventh century.

Another of the objects acquired by Mr. and Mrs. McCormick is a pyxis on a foot. Originally a pyxis was a box of box tree wood, used as a receptacle for the host. This object is thought to be of French workmanship of the fourteenth century.

Other purchases include a cross made in Brunswick about 1325 and a silver relic monstrance of St. Christina of Brunswick craftsmanship, dating from the second half of the fifteenth century, and said to contain a finger of St. Christina.

Hollywood Defies Paris as Place to Find Fashions

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Motion picture fans sat for an hour recently watching a film showing pretty actresses wearing beautiful clothes. Hollywood and Los Angeles saw an opportunity months ago to compete with Paris in creating styles. They have been creating styles and are giving Paris lively competition. Beginning today upwards of 6,000 buyers from over the United States will be entertained here for a week. They will see the actresses wearing the beautiful clothes their customers saw on the screen. Los Angeles is now the third city in the United States in the manufacture of wearing apparel.

Proud Parents Plan to Greet Tallulah Who Captured London

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—A beautiful American girl who went abroad on her nerve and brought London theatergoers to her feet is coming home to an affectionate welcome from her father—Representative Bankhead of the Tenth congressional district of Alabama.

Tallulah Bankhead, blonde, slender, southern belle, who left a skeptical family five years ago, will be received with joy tomorrow in New York.

There will be a family celebration, her father said today, "but no fanfare."

"I am overjoyed," he added. "She went over on her nerve, you know. She had few acquaintances in London.

"Now she has a movie contract and her first talkie will be made in New York."

Representative and Mrs. Bankhead of Jasper, Ala., planned to leave the capital tonight to be on the dock when the Aquitania ties up.

Former Envoy Urges Starving of Next War

Houghton Sees Peace Power in Boycott.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

After the Kellogg peace pact, outlawing war as an instrument of national policy, the next move of peace leaders of the world will be toward an international agreement that no goods of any sort will be sold by neutrals to warring nations. Such a program was predicted yesterday by Alanson B. Houghton, former American ambassador to Great Britain and the first post-war ambassador to Germany.

Mr. Houghton spoke yesterday before business and professional men at a luncheon in the Union League club, sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Sunday Evening club, presided.

As the chairman of the federal council's commission on international relations, Mr. Houghton, applauded the council's work in arousing public conscience against war. He declared that whereas a few years ago only a comparative handful of people could be found in the nations who thought it worth while to work toward a warless world, today that movement now commands the allegiance of millions of people.

Mr. Houghton told of the change in approach to the problem of war by peace leaders in America and European nations. He asserted that present thought among those persons compares war to a fire. The first idea in fighting a fire is to put it out, Mr. Houghton said, and not to discover what or who started it. In modern warfare it is impossible to single out the aggressor nation, he said.

Saying that the thought immediately following the world war was to pick out the nation that started it, Mr. Houghton declared, "a definition of an aggressor cannot be made." Modern war, in his view, must be regarded as the burning of a pile of combustible material that the nations involved previously had piled up. Who lit the match or who fired the first shot does not so much matter, he added.

"If the fire department of the city should use the old reasoning and call a meeting of the common council to decide who started the fire before an attempt to put it out was made, the house would burn before the department got to it," Mr. Houghton asserted.

"The next step, following the Kellogg pact, must be an agreement that the nations will not help any nations who break that pact. We must refuse to sell to any nations in the conflagration. We must stop such a fire by starving it for lack of fuel. To sell the belligerents goods is like pouring oil on a fire. Later on we will have to pay for those goods ourselves. The immediate profit is nothing compared with our ultimate loss. That is proved now by our experience in the world war."

West Side Y. W. C. A. Gets $150,000 for Its New Building

An anonymous gift of $150,000 with which to erect a residence adjacent to the west side Y. W. C. A. at 101 South Ashland avenue was announced yesterday by Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, president of the board of directors. The Wieboldt Foundation donated the lot, valued at $60,000, on which the addition will be built. Accommodation will be provided for 120 girls.

Work will start April 1 on the project. The plans of the architect, Robert S. De Golyer, call for a six story edifice of red brick in the Georgian style, to be topped with a roof garden and recreation ground. A large oval lounge on the first floor, above the English basement, will have "beau nooks" arranged in what would be each corner small triangular rooms off the lounge to provide some privacy for callers.

The English basement will have French windows, opening into an Italian court at the back, this cosmopolitan arrangement being designed as a summer time lounging and lunching center. The court and basement are to be equipped with gay cretonnes and big sun parasols over small tables, and will be open to the public.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

MRS. FISKE is here again, after too long an absence, and the Blackstone theater has begun its new administration with the high distinction that is associated with the career of the First Comedienne. She has been the darling of the intellectuals; she has led the cohorts of Ibsenism; she was the priestess of subtlety when fine spun psychological stuff was the dramatic fashion; but underneath it all she has always been a sly, roguish, laughing lady with a swift pounce upon any comic point within reach.

Behold her, therefore, in the mellow maturity of her most natural talent, as gay as a girl—no, better than that; as gay as a happy dowager. There is much fun in the heart of Mrs. Fiske in spite of her background of Hedda Gablers, Rebecca Wests, Leah Kleschnas, and all the other somber heroines of her impressive past; and "Ladies of the Jury" gives her merry exercise in the fine art of provoking intelligent laughter. It is a comedy that deals with a murder trial, but with Mrs. Fiske as its chief juror-woman, refusing to take either the crime or the law seriously, it is a blithe frolic from the first "Your honor, I object," to the predestined acquittal.

She appears as the jaunty patrician of a suburban region somewhere in New Jersey, doing her democratic duty in the necessary legal procedure relating to the case of Old Man Gordon, who might have been slain either by his wife or himself. She regards the trial as a social function at which she is the genial hostess. She hobnobs with the judge; she cross-questions the witnesses; she behaves as if she had discovered a new hobby.

When she gets into the jury room, however, she is a woman with a purpose, although she keeps it well disguised with frivolity. The eleven others, male and female, are for a quick verdict of guilty, and home in time for dinner; but Mrs. Fiske absurdly votes not guilty and settles down to have her own way in the matter. Evidence? She mentions it glibly, but really dismisses it as unimportant. She doesn't argue; she wheedles. And when the third act is ended she stands triumphant as the world's champion wheedler of her sex.

One by one she wins the votes of the opposition, by starting quarrels between them, by conniving like a diplomat, even by petty bribery. She wins the canny Scotsman, for example, by donating a steak for his dinner and hinting that he can get a job cultivating her rose garden any time he asks for it.

And so it goes, a characteristic vehicle for Mrs. Fiske in a typical fluttering, Fiskian rôle. "Ladies of the Jury" is the lightest and most laughing play ever written about a murder trial, and its star gives a brilliant exhibition of her skill in teasing merriment out of slight material.

She is capably assisted by a cast that carries enough players to equip several stock companies. The various types of court room and jury room are persuasively represented. William Ingersoll, as the pretentious foreman of the jury, and James Seeley, as the learned judge, are two of the better known contributors to the lively and effective performance.

U. S. Senator Reed May Succeed Hibben as Princeton Head

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 12.—[Special].—Among those whose names are being mentioned in university circles here as possible successors to President John Grier Hibben of Princeton, who has announced that he will retire in June, 1932, is Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, a member of the class of 1900. Names of other alumni and members of the faculty also are mentioned.

Senator Reed was elected to the board of trustees of the university at its spring meeting last year. He has been senator from Pennsylvania since 1922 and was a delegate to the recent London Naval conference.

Mention also is being made of Raymond Fosdick, class of 1905,

How Y.M.C.A. College Runs Within Loop

Students Are to Number About 2,700.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

They are getting ready for spring semester at that college in the heart of the La Salle street financial district which hard times do not hurt and which nobody either pampers or pauperizes.

The collegiate group housed at 19 South La Salle street is known as the Young Men's Christian association schools. It is a vivid lesson for morose bankers and brokers among its neighbors. Registration is proceeding briskly for the semester to open on Feb. 2. It will exceed 2,700 and will probably be the largest in the history of a school which carries a man of any age, of any race, and of any or no denomination from first year high school through second year university work.

Far from making depression an excuse to restrict its activities, the school announced yesterday that next year it will so extend its scope that its students will be prepared to take up senior year work in a university.

Preliminary to this expansion the College of Arts and Sciences in the Y. M. C. A. group—a college now functioning only at night—will next autumn offer first and second year university work in the daytime.

In no department of its teaching is the Y. M. C. A. group merely a business college with a flamboyant prospectus. For the excellence of its work in its day and evening high schools and in its college of arts and sciences it has been made a fully accredited member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools. The significance of that membership is that the North Central association is the ruling body on collegiate standards in twenty states of the central west.

As to the standards maintained in the fourth school of the Y. M. C. A. group—its college of commerce—they are scrutinized and approved by the Chicago Real Estate board, the Chicago Association of Credit Men, the Life Underwriters association, and the Western Council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies. These bodies regard the college of commerce as a training school from which to obtain competent employés and they speak of it as "our school."

Thus from none of its departments is the institution in La Salle street able to send out either cultural or commercial dabsters. The scrutiny both by scholars and by business men is too strict.

This group of schools has 110 teachers, 10 administrators, and 15 clerks. There are 25 teachers in its college of arts and sciences—all from either the faculty or the post-graduate schools of the University of Chicago—and they teach 76 cultural courses. The 45 teachers in its day and evening high schools are recruited from the teaching staffs of Chicago's public high schools.

The whole institution's budget is $330,000 a year, 90 per cent of which is met by tuition fees. This is in sharp contrast to the record of the great universities, which, on the average, can count on tuition fees to meet only 50 per cent of their budget. Gifts by alumni and the interest on a general Y. M. C. A. fund of $300,000 made up the 10 per cent deficit in La Salle street.

Students commute to the school in the loop from as far away as Holland, Mich. They find on 20,000 square feet of floor space—every inch of which is made to work till it squeaks—fully equipped laboratories, a library of 8,000 volumes on purchases for which $7,000 a year is spent, and a corps of teachers so ardent that out of their own pockets they provide funds for free scholarships.

In age the students range from 16 to 60 years. They come in eager battalions from 8 in the morning till 10 at night, six days a week and 50 weeks a year. All of them are wage earners and many of them have families to support.

The growth of the institution has been amazing. Ten years ago its college of arts and sciences had 15 students; today it has 715.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A detachment of forty Polish-American world war veterans attending the requiem mass for Marshal Joffre at Holy Name cathedral last Sunday, attired in blue uniforms similar to the French, was not mentioned in the account of the services, Henry Sabieski points out. The men served overseas under Joffre.

U. of C. Professor Calls Russian Divorce Rate Lower Than America's

Russia has a divorce rate relatively 30 per cent lower than the United States and about 60 per cent lower than Chicago. Statistics to that effect were given in the Chicago temple at the Methodist Episcopal ministers' meeting yesterday by Prof. Karl Borders. Mr. Borders is a lecturer on social service administration at the University of Chicago.

In Russia, the speaker said, a wife does not ask the judge for a divorce, she simply goes before the proper authority and says, "I have divorced my husband. Please put it down in the register."

"The business of sex is taken as very real, natural and inevitable," Prof. Borders declared. "It is not a subject of debate and conversation. I never have seen a salacious book in Russia. I never have heard a flippant sex innuendo from the stage there."

Prof. Borders, who has spent considerable time in Russia, declared that the government was intent on killing the Russian Orthodox church, but is not unfriendly to Protestant groups. The latter, he said, are regarded as being so divided that they offer little danger, unless they should unite.

2 Evanston Buildings Get Art Plaques for Year 1931

The Evanston Art commission last night awarded two bronze plaques for the best buildings erected during 1930. For the commercial type, the Illinois Bell Telephone brick structure at 1520 Chicago avenue, was winner, and for public buildings, the award went to the Western Theological seminary, at 600 Haven street.

Maurice Marechal, as Violoncellist, Wins Praises at Recital

Maurice Maréchal is an uncommonly competent artist of the violoncello, and there is only one reason why his recital at the Playhouse yesterday afternoon did not take on greater proportions. It is that latter day composers do not feel inclined to write lavishly for that instrument. One might imagine that there would be as much cause to write for it as for the baritone voice, but apparently inspiration in that direction is lacking.

So the first part of M. Maréchal's program came from the ancients. De Calx d'Hervelois, Boccherini, Vivaldi, and Haydn. For the moderns he took a sonata by Debussy, by no means the best of Debussy, and pieces by Fauré, his own arrangement of De Falla, and Moussorgsky. No question about it, he is a great player in matters of tone, execution, sympathetic execution, everything that makes an interpretive artist notable. All he needed was some modern music as good as he is.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Welcoming the New Grandmother.

My grandfather had brought his second wife home from a distant city and all the children and grandchildren were in the parlor getting acquainted with the newcomer. Four of the children composed a quartet and the fifth played the piano. Naturally, singing was suggested and the musicians began their répertoire.

Imagine the mutual embarrassment when the singers started off on the most popular theme song of the moment, "No One Else Can Take Your Place, Dear."

Jane Addams Pleads for Peace Thoughts, No War

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Jane Addams took an optimistic view of world efforts for peace at a luncheon given in her honor today by the New York branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The seventy-one year old founder of Hull House urged that nations think in political terms in their dealings with one another. Military thinking she branded as out of date.

"The world court and the Kellogg pact are attempts on the part of governments to pull up the political machinery," Miss Addams said. "It's easier for people to get together on the scientific and cultural side than it is to come together on political issues.

Acidity

Runs Down More Persons than all the Motor Cars in the World!

We are shocked to hear of the number of persons every day who are run down by motor cars. Yet a condition known as Acidity takes a far greater toll in human life and happiness.

When the stomach secretes too much acid it causes acid-indigestion, with gas, sourness, and burning. It also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines, creating poisons which pull us down physically and mentally. A marvelous German development, called Magnesia Oxoids, corrects Acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the gastric juice, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent or active oxygen. The oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus which keeps the acid in check; corrects intestinal fermentation and stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowels. All these effects are necessary, and only Magnesia Oxoids supply them because it is the only magnesia product known to science, which when taken internally, releases oxygen in the system.

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If after using the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

Society Artist Designs Panels for Wall Paper

BY THALIA

The latest and possibly the most unusual of the numerous avocations that Mrs. Arthur Aldis has pursued successfully is the designing of wall panels.

It would be a bit of an exaggeration to say that she's gone into the wall paper designing business, but those of Mrs. Aldises' friends who were invited to their apartment on Saturday afternoon and saw the set of "Alice in Wonderland" designs that she has executed agree that she most certainly could if she wanted to.

The set is suitable for decoration of a nursery, and is very original and interesting. It's the second she has done, I believe—the first having been completed some time ago.

Mrs. Aldis, who is by way of being a commuter to New York commuter, departed on Sunday for New York City and her Washington square apartment. She is going to show her designs in an exhibit she and several of her New York artist friends are to have in a few weeks in a vacant apartment next to Mrs. Aldis' own charming one.

Results of News, Some Anti-Dry Law Session.

News in bunches—the Charles G. Dawes of Lake Forest are down town and will be back day after tomorrow (the date of their leaving for Europe is still indefinite, I believe] . . . Mrs. Charles I. Pierce was to leave yesterday to join Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed in Europe . . . Mrs. Karl Sherman is on from Philadelphia—she was with Miss Clara Lake last week, and is now at the Ambassador to stay a few days longer . . . Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stocks have been at Lake Forester Park on the gulf coast . . . Mrs. Wilbur Vernon Booth, who has been in town for the first time in several years, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Patrick Henry Valentine, is departing tomorrow for Europe Thursday.

Of interest concerning the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform massmeeting on the 21st at the Drake—Mrs. Edward S. Moore, wife of a Chicagoan; Mrs. Frederick Stone, Mrs. Charles B. Pike's sister-in-law, and Mrs. John B. Casserly of Evanston, Joseph M. Cudahy's sister, are among the out of town women who are coming on for the meeting. Mrs. Cudahy, Mrs. Billy Mitchell, and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler are giving a luncheon at the Casino on the 22d for the national executive committee. Mrs. Ryan King is to be in charge of the luncheon for the massmeeting.

Upcoming Colonial Coverlets Work They Involved.

The Colonial Coverlet guild's new year book, bound in blue and white and in a quaint coverlet pattern, has this special announcement: "In the olden time a coverlet represented the result of many months' labor. It was an expression of the home in which it was woven. That many of the coverlets recorded in the guild are the work of men and women who have added much to the history through achievements is known.

"The opportunity to share with our readers the story of the coverlet and its graces our year book has been made possible through the kindness of an owner—one of the early members of the Guild—Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick. An etching of the coverlet has come to the guild as a gift from Mrs. McCormick, thereby making possible that we of the guild have a design for our year book an old coverlet unique in charm through the fact it was woven by an ancestor of the family, and also woven by him on the loom he invented.

"The coverlet was woven by Mrs. McCormick's husband's grandfather, Robert McCormick. The coverlet measures six feet by six feet and seven inches and has a pine tree border on three sides. It is now in the rooms of the Chicago Historical society."

We're told that Mrs. Darius Miller and Mrs. Robert Harvey McElwee of Lake Forest have arrived in Pasadena . . . that the young Eddie Winters of Evanston have moved to New York because of Mr. Winters' business . . . that Mrs. Edward A. Leight is "doing" numerology now, and has a group of 8 meeting at her house once a week . . . that Dave Owen returned to Florida just in time to take Mrs. Owen to St. Luke's for what was supposed to be a very minor operation, and that it turned out to be very bothersome . . . that the Paul Rittenhouses and the Sidney Adlers had Sunday dinner parties.

Returning China and Other Loss of General Breakage.

We find . . . that Olga Craven, daughter of the former commandant at Great Lakes, Rear Admiral Thomas Craven, who is in charge of river patrol in China, has returned east with Raymond Baker after visiting the Cravens in Lake Forest for the holidays . . . that a great many chatterers, in order to reduce the percentage of breakage in their kitchens have resorted to requiring their servants not only to pay for the china and glassware that they have damaged or demolished, but insist that they make the trip to the china shop and do the purchasing of the substitutes themselves . . . that the Merle J. Trees of Beverly Hills sailed last night on the Europa and will visit their daughter, Katherine, at Miss Risser's while they are abroad.

Calendar notes—Meeting of Kaskaskia chapter of the D. A. R. at Mrs. Royden Keith's residence at 999 Lake Shore drive and buffet luncheon today . . . a costume dance to be given by the Green Room [group of artists, writers, and musicians] tomorrow evening at studio of Lester B. Eldridge . . . English-Speaking union luncheon on Friday at the Palmer house, with Henry Kittredge Norton speaking on "Anglo-American Relations in the Caribbean" . . . third program this season of the Woman's Symphony orchestra with Arthur Landers [head of music department at the North Shore Country Day school] as guest artist, next Monday evening at the Goodman.

Gala Audience Attends Show, "Ladies of the Jury."

The audience was very gala for the first performance of "Ladies of the Jury" last night. Included in it were the John B. Drakes and the Tracy C. Drakes [the Messrs. Drake having taken over the theater] with Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goodman, Walter H. Wilson, Miss Irene Wilson, and some of the other Drakes with them. Besides, there were present the Cyrus Hall McCormicks, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Arthur Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Marshall, Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, Mrs. R. M. Ashcraft, the Andrew R. Sherriffs, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swift.

Shaw Stage Success Flop as a Talkie, London Critics' View

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Bernard Shaw's first talkie, a three reel playlet, "How He Lied to Her Husband," shown in London tonight, is a dull and disappointing effort, according to British film critics.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The Woman's Congressional club has issued invitations for a reception in honor of President and Mrs. Hoover on Jan. 20, in their clubhouse. This club has arranged two other important dates, which are all annual affairs. Feb. 5 they will give their reception to the Vice President. His sister, Mrs. E. E. Gann, then will share honors with him. On Feb. 26 the club will give a reception in honor of the Speaker and Mrs. Longworth.

The cotillion was led by Brig. Gen. W. E. Horton and Miss Mary Dawes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dawes of Evanston, Ill., and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes. Miss Dawes, who is here in the foreign service school, wore a gown of white lace.

There they went at the end of last week, to be present at the wedding of Miss Shirley Manning and Prince Serge Poutriatine in the Russian orthodox cathedral today. They will return to the Mayflower tomorrow night. Mrs. Loesch has out invitations for luncheon there on Wednesday.

SOCIETY ATTENDS THE OPERA

JUDGING from the size and animation of the audience at "The Bartered Bride" last night, a number of persons who have been neglecting the opera all season are going to catch up during the final fortnight before the company departs for its road tour. Both the boxes and the main floor were well filled. The chattering crowds that packed the foyer between the acts seemed almost as large as on the opening night attendance last October.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, in a black velvet gown and long black suede gloves, was hostess in her box to Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake, the later in black velvet and pearls; Mrs. Winterbotham Buchanan, in turquoise blue velvet, and Edwin D. Krenn. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hackett, Mrs. McD. Wyman, Robert Fernald, and Henry Lane were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde and their daughter, Miss Sarah Hinde.

Mrs. Charles E. Kohl's guests included Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Mrs. William Yager, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Walter Head, and Mrs. Harry Spencer Brown.

Mrs. Edward L. Hasler, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rosecrans Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Fairbank Carpenter, and Henry Porter occupied the Charles H. Schweppe box.

Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick's guests included Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Meredith, Miss Vivian Yager, Hamilton Forrest, and Arthur Heun. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Well, Mrs. Beatrice Glaser, and Leonard B. Ettelson were with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Ettelson. Miss Louise Chandler was with Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth.

The Frederick T. Haskell box was occupied by Prof. and Mrs. Arthur Compton, Prof. and Mrs. George Marsh, Mrs. Tom Peete Cross, and Mrs. Paul Shorey.

Hellenic Society Dance.

Miss Aliki Diplarakou of Athens, otherwise known as "Miss Europe," was a guest of honor at a dinner dance which was given by the Young Ladies' Hellenic society last night in the Castillian room of the Hotel Shoreland. Miss Carrie Mitchell, president of the society, acted as hostess.

The Old Story

Paying a woman's penalty—time after time

In the year of 1931 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain; relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

'Best Medicine I Ever Tried'

Is There Any Wonder This Chicago Lady Is Enthusiastic Over New and Different Medicine?

Medicines are known for their works, not for what is promised for them. Konjola, time after time, has been found to be the very medicine needed; the medicine the sufferer should have had in the first place.

MRS. RUTH MURIEL.

Konjola is actually 32 medicines in one, and of these 32 ingredients 22 are the juices of roots and herbs of known medicinal value. Konjola cleanses and invigorates the ailing organs and removes from the system the poisons and impurities in which lies the cause of the ills that Konjola is designed to relieve. Get the facts about this remarkable medicine, seven million bottles of which were used in two years. Ask any druggist in Chicago or anywhere, and he will tell you of Konjola and its record of triumphs, even where all else tried has failed.

But right now read the words of Mrs. Muriel, 3448 Polk street, Chicago:

"For six years I was troubled with indigestion, with gas and bloating after every meal. I used many medicines and received no relief. Upon the recommendation of a friend I tried Konjola. I have taken ten bottles, and Konjola is the best medicine I ever tried. Now my husband is using Konjola, seeing what it did for me, and is getting fine results. I am glad for this opportunity to tell everyone how Konjola has helped me."

Konjola has won and held more than a million friends just by making good.

BERTHA OTT Announces
ORCHESTRA HALL This FRIDAY at 8:15
EUROPE'S GREATEST DANCER
The MARY WIGMAN
who turned thousands of people away unable to gain admission at her New York appearances.
THE ARTIST WHO APPEALS TO THE MASSES AND CLASSES

The New York Times: Her face is a mask of beautiful eloquence, her body is an instrument of surpassing sentience, her rhythm is a thing of inner compulsion, and over all her mood is the master. Here is a technique to wonder at; it can apparently meet any exigency.

New York Herald: On the credit side must be put down, however, one of the most dynamic and stirring exhibitions which ever has been offered a local audience. The quality of ecstasy and radiance was to be found in every movement and pattern of her performance, even beneath the shadows of her "darkest" compositions. Intensity, enormous vitality, unashing impact, emotional pitch, these were the features of her work which first struck the beholder. Later we became diarily aware of her astonishing resource in choreography, her sustained pace, her virtuosity.

The New York Sun: Perhaps only some of the ancient and honorable wheezes of criticism can be applied to Miss Wigman's art. It cannot be described: it must be seen. It is unique. It is purely personal in its expression. It is subtly individual. All of these, which were undoubtedly said with due solemnity in the corridors of the theaters of Corinth and perhaps Thebes, must be set to work again. All of them are absolutely true when said of Mary Wigman's art.

New York Evening Post: Last night those provident New Yorkers who managed to crowd for Wigman's American debut shouted vociferously and repeatedly, and her bows—each one a spontaneous dance in itself—served only to excite them more.

The New York World: Miss Wigman is an extraordinary person, as subsequent events proved. Various adjectives crowd upon the mind in attempting to describe her. Vital, arresting, intense—none of these quite fills the bill. Perhaps the word "incredible" comes nearer the truth.

New York American: Her bodily movements, her steps, gestures and facial expressions represent grace, variety, feeling, imagination. Like all dancers of her style, Miss Wigman has made an intensive and successful study of line. The pictures she presents to the eye are constantly meaningful and mostly charged with beauty.

Sensible Ignoring Is Wise Cure for "Enthroned" Baby

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany, signed by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent as her greeting on receipt of a 2c postage stamp.

Sunday and Monday we were talking about the little boy or girl whose parents had made him so much the center of their world that he felt himself "enthroned," as the psychologists put it. He has become the victim of enthronement.

Now in the very nature of words—the opposite of enthronement is dethronement—so our beloved little tyrant, if he is to get on happily in the world, is headed for dethronement. He mustn't be left in the pinnacle where adoration and too much attention have put him.

But he must be dethroned very gently. He must be helped to fit into his parents' life and his playmates' life without feeling that any love has been withdrawn. He should receive less attention but he must not feel that he has less love.

The first thing to do is to band together with your husband and other members of your family in a general resolution not to center your eyes, your conversation, and your thoughts on the child all the time that he is around.

Once having made the general resolve, try to put it into effect in detail.

At the table, stop looking at him so much. Have you ever caught yourselves all gazing at the small son or daughter? It gets to be a habit—take it from a fond mother who knows.

Stop talking about food—his especially. Talk about other things—things that interest him, too, if you want to, but not about him. In fact, make a lot of your conversation objective.

Try some wholesome ignoring. Instead of taking issue with every act and every "no," go along as if nothing had happened. Or as though, even if it had happened, it wasn't important.

If possible, provide playmates for your small child. There is nothing better for a child who acts up than the company of his peers.

This also gets him away from the constant companionship of his mother. If there are no playmates nearby, a few hours a day at a good nursery school or well arranged play group will help him to get a new set of values—will help him to fit in rather than to rule.

All this isn't easy—but it can be done. And good reading on child management will help.

Married Woman 'Just Friendly' with Another's Husband

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A respectable married woman [as she tells it, and we have no reason to doubt her word] has brought down the censure of a close relative and friend by her "just ordinary friendliness" with a married man who is also a member of the respectable clan, according to the story.

It seems the wife, the respectable one, encourages another woman's husband to come calling afternoons; object, according to the accused, is simply to discuss public affairs which you read about in the papers. Nothing else. Certainly, with her husband a good man and a kind one, and two bright children, a flirtation is farthest from her mind. She simply likes the man's mind and finds it stimulating.

All of which may be quite, quite true. But the trouble with the afternoon male callers is to keep their talk directed to public affairs about which one reads in the papers. Another trouble is that the men in such innocent affairs are so apt to misconstrue a respectable woman's motive. Of course, they like to have their minds admired, but after a time they get around to wanting their fine persons noticed. Just a quaint male custom, you know.

No, if a lady is interested, really and truly, in maintaining her respectability, she'd better not encourage other men than her husband to discuss public affairs with her. If her husband won't, then she'll just have to join an uplift club of some sort and convene with her women friends to weigh the themes of racketeering, international peace, and high society scandals, and low. It may be a bit the duller road to higher learning, but there is less likelihood of mussing up one's life in the process.

Or, if the conversation is as liason unnatured as reported, why not invite the man and his wife over and let the legal mates in on some of the benefits, too? Indeed, he might welcome the occasion for no other reason than to get his wife right in the eyes of prying friends and relatives.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going out with a fellow for three years, but still enjoy going out with other boys. Is there anything wrong in this? ECILA."

You're quite within your rights, Ecila.

Let Him Decide.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a certain boy, but due to his sister's objections to my company I want to break off with him. Am I doing right? "S. J. K."

Why not let the young man make the decision? He can best decide whether those objections are well founded or selfish.

Food Talk.

Several years ago I was served a most unusual strawberry tart at one of our famous Chicago tearooms. The unusual part of this tart was the cream filling underneath the berries. Its consistency was as smooth and velvetlike as could be. In commenting to the woman in charge on the excellence of my dessert I was told that arrowroot was used to thicken this particular cream filling.

True arrowroot is a starch obtained from the large roots or rhizomes of a West Indian plant called Bermuda arrowroot. The name arrowroot has been given to the plant because the Indians used the fresh cut roots to treat wounds made by poisoned arrows.

To prepare the arrowroot of commerce the roots about one year old are dug, washed and cleansed of the outside paperlike scale. They are again washed and pounded in a mortar to a fine pulp. Out of the pulp oozes a milky liquid which is strained through a sieve. Then the starch settles to the bottom and the liquid is drained off. The remaining powder is dried in the sun or in drying houses. Then it is stored in tight cans or packages.

Arrowroot may be used in the place of flour or cornstarch in any kind of cookery requiring thickening such as blanc mange, pie fillings, and in the making of cakes and biscuits. The thickening power of arrowroot is greater than flour, but is about equal to that of cornstarch. Cooked with clear liquids it produces a much more transparent jelly than cornstarch and the consistency is smoother and more cohesive.

Arrowroot is much more expensive than cornstarch and for this reason is considered a luxury, but occasionally when a particularly smooth texture is wanted it is worth using. Arrowroot is a most excellent and delicate thickening for soups. A good broth is made by stirring two teaspoons of arrowroot into a little cold water until smooth, then adding it to 3 cups strong consommé and boiling for about 3 minutes. It improves the flavor and makes the soup more nutritious.

2 cups scalded milk
4 tbsp. arrowroot
1-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup cold milk
3 egg whites
1 tsp. vanilla

Melt chocolate over warm water and add milk which has been scalded in the top part of the double boiler. Blend arrowroot with sugar and salt and add to cold milk, stirring to a smooth paste. Add this to the hot milk and chocolate. Cook over hot water 20 minutes, stirring constantly until thickened. This requires about 15 minutes. Cool slightly. Add to egg whites beaten stiff but not dry; then add vanilla. Mold, chill and serve with cream.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This attractive frock is especially suited to figures a little above normal and all the best points have been brought out to aid in giving a slender silhouette. The surplice closing adds a softly rippling rever that cuts the breadth and the shaped yoke, brought up to the waistline at the left side front, narrows the hipline. The surplice vestee also does its bit towards slenderness and is becoming.

The pattern, 2858, comes in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 27 inch contrasting.

Palm Beach Will Wear Prints with Velveteen

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.] —One of the burning questions that is asked every year by women who want to plan their new Palm Beach and early spring wardrobes is: "Are they going to wear prints again?" This season, the answer is, as usual, a hearty affirmative: "They are."

I don't believe prints will entirely disappear from feminine fashions. They are too practical, too becoming, and women just love them.

All the leading Paris couturiers are showing some print frocks accompanied by plain coats, for both afternoon and evening in their Palm Beach collections, which means that they're going right on showing them next spring and next summer, too.

Maggy Rouff uses white chiffon printed with large flowers in mauve, pale blue, and dull brown for the evening frock, sketched here. The voluminous skirt gives the impression of being worn over many chiffon petticoats—an effect much liked by Maggy Rouff. Its gradual fullness is achieved by godets that are smocked in points at the top. Two triangles of smocking lend fullness to the left side of the bodice, which is cleverly cut so that it continues into a scarf thrown over the left shoulder. A rope of blue plum velvet ribbon defines the waistline.

Cold Bathing, Winter Walking Keep You Fit

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's no time to be springing cold baths on an already shivering public, you may say. But if I wait till it is warmer outdoors I may forget a point just absorbed from a health magazine, and it is a good one.

"One reason the cold bath makes you feel good all over is that it accelerates the circulation in the back of your brain," is what I read. Another point gathered, which does apply to the coldest January day, is that cold bathing and winter walking improve the heating system because they are nerve tonics. So, if the cold bath doesn't look like a merry little nerve tonic to you just now, you can take yours in a winter walk. For nerves seem to go on attacking beauty in zero hours as well as in the hot ones.

Fur coats and goloshes and woolen blankets do not warm the nerveshot sisters. They have to attend to their own heating system, first, before they are in shape to accept the local warmers.

The proper reaction to a cold bath is a spontaneous production of heat within the body, it is further gleaned from the source already referred to. If you shiver you are not getting the right reaction and should, therefore, leave the cold water for others to plunge into. But if you can get the same heating work accomplished by a cold day outdoor walk, why not insist upon yourself taking it today, tomorrow, and the next, and next?

And if you want to get warm in a hurry when you start out, don't forget to pull in deep and long on the air pipes. Get your lungs full of ozone at once. It's a great little warming scheme. Try it, even if you're not out for better and calmer nerves. Try those full, deep breaths if you have to stand on the corner waiting for a car or on the L platform. Then you'll get an idea of how quickly you can convert cold air into warmth for your body.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

DAFFODILS.

Quarantines have restricted United States importations that until recently amounted to approximately 80,000,000 daffodil bulbs in a year, but the government continues its studies through Dr. David Griffiths, bulb specialist of the department of agriculture.

All of the information necessary for the amateur is contained in a new bulletin, circular 122-C. Flowers that turn green are the result of unfavorable conditions, one of Dr. Griffiths' studies indicates. He has decided that there is no region where all daffodils can be grown successfully, but that there are few sections in the United States where some varieties cannot be produced creditably in decorative plantings.

The name daffodil once was used to denote only certain forms of the narcissus, but the name now applies to the entire plant genus. Each year millions of blossoms are cut and sold from outdoor plantings. Commercial bulb production in this country is largely in regions along the Atlantic and gulf coasts, in the Pacific northwest and in the eastern Mississippi valley.

Successful methods of bulb forcing are outlined in the new circular, in addition to planting, cultivating, digging, and sorting and how to resurrect bulbs after they have been forced.

Gassy Stomach Pain Ends Quick

"I suffered for months from indigestion and gas on the stomach," says C. Bedford of Detroit, Mich. "I got relief from the very start by taking ACIDINE. I could not eat without being troubled with gas, pain and dizziness. Since taking ACIDINE each day, I feel entirely better and have had no pains at all."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

BILL INGRAM SIGNS AS CALIFORNIA FOOTBALL COACH

FORMER NAVY MAN ACCEPTS 3 YEAR CONTRACT

Will Report on Coast March 1.

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP)—William [Navy Bill] Ingram, former coach at the United States Naval academy, today was appointed head football coach at the University of California for a three year term.

Ingram takes the place of C. M. [Nibs] Price, who resigned after last season. No salary terms were announced, but it was understood the new leader will receive between $12,000 and $15,000 yearly.

Will Report March 1.

W. W. Monohan, graduate manager, who signed Ingram during an extensive hunting trip throughout the mid-west and east, had instructions not to offer more than $15,000 a year for a coach.

Ingram notified the California authorities he would report here March 1, in time for spring training. He also stated he would recommend one and possibly two assistants.

Ingram was a star half back and quarter back at Navy in 1916-'17-'18. He was named All-American quarter back in 1918.

In 1919 Navy Bill returned to Annapolis as first assistant to Gil Dobie. He organized the Pacific fleet team in 1920 and 1921 while stationed in this section, and acted as coach and player of those elevens.

Coached William and Mary.

Retiring from the Navy in 1922 to enter business, Ingram accepted a hurry call from William and Mary college of Williamsburg, Va., and took over the head coaching duties there in September of that year.

From 1923 to 1925 he coached at the University of Indiana, and in 1926 came back to Annapolis as head coach. As leader of the Navy squads, his teams won 32 games, lost 13 and tied 3 in the last five years.

1917—Won 6; lost 3; tied 0.
1918—Won 5; lost 3; tied 1.
1919—Won 6; lost 2; tied 2.
1920—Won 6; lost 5; tied 0.

Signing of Ingram culminated a long search for a successor to Price, who was retained for one year as basketball coach. Graduate Manager Monohan spent several weeks in the east interviewing candidates for the position.

Price resigned following an unimpressive season that saw the Bears win four conference games and one nonconference game.

NAVY CONSIDERS MILLER.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 12.—(AP)—A successor to Bill Ingram as head football coach will not be selected for two weeks or a month, Capt. Henry D. Cook, head of the athletic department at the academy, said today.

Edgar Miller, the former Notre Dame tackle who has been line coach at the academy, is returning next season, and he will be considered for head coach, Capt. Cook said. Practically the entire coaching staff at the academy for the last two years will return.

INGRAM MAY TAKE MILLER.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Possibility that the Navy coaching staff may lose more than Navy Bill Ingram, who has resigned to go to the University of California, was indicated tonight when Ingram said E. E. Miller, Navy line coach, was being "highly considered" as his assistant at the western institution.

Ingram is spending the Christmas holidays at his home here.

MULLINS NAMED GRID ASSISTANT AT U. OF KANSAS

Lawrence, Kas., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Appointment of Larry [Moon] Mullins, Notre Dame football star, as an assistant football coach at the University of Kansas was announced today by Athletic Director Forest C. Allen. Mullins, who replaces Paul Murphy, will take part in spring practice and will report next fall to groom the Jayhawker back field.

Melillo Rides to Baseball Fame on a Load of Spinach

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Big league baseball isn't all swell hotels, elaborate meals, train riding, and plaudits. There's Oscar Melillo, for instance. Oscar, second baseman of the St. Louis Browns, is another who went forth from Chicago to earn a big league job, but he held it only because of one thing. You couldn't guess what it is. Spinach. Let the spinach crop fail and the young man who made the mistake of thinking spaghetti and ravioli the last word in diets might be forced out of business.

O, yes, then there is something else worth mentioning about the career of Oscar. When he feels the nibbling of hunger between meals, he doesn't reach for a hot dog or a chocolate bar. He digs into his coat pocket or even into a pocket of his baseball uniform, and comes up with an uncooked carrot. He munches on that. He's been doing it so long and so steadily that last season he had just about all his mates doing the same. The Browns' bench always looked like a clearing house for the Carrot Growers' association, and there is no kidding about this.

Carrots Don't Help Everybody.

As the Browns weren't prominent in the pennant affairs, there isn't much to say in behalf of the carrot diet, but it at least has been of marked aid to Melillo and that's what this yarn is about.

Several years ago, just after Melillo had been purchased as one of the shiftiest infielders ever produced in the American association, he was suddenly taken ill. The Browns were in Cleveland at the time and a doctor was hastily summoned. He asked a few questions, rubbed his corrugated brow a few times, and expressed a belief that the young athlete was suffering from Bright's disease.

Oscar was further cheered by the information that he might never play ball again, but that he might prolong his life by strict dieting. The diet was spinach for breakfast, spinach for lunch, and spinach for dinner, with raw carrots between meals if necessary.

Continues Spinach Diet.

He feasted on spinach throughout the season of 1926 and '27 and thrived. He broke training slightly around the holidays, so was back on the same stuff for '28. He was able to play ball. In '29 he continued to cut down the nation's available spinach and carrot supply, with an occasional venture involving chicken and eggs. He did the same last season and was good enough to figure in almost all the games the Browns played.

Even in the second game of double headers on torrid days, when the supposedly healthy athletes were panting for breath, Melillo never flinched. He just kept on nibbling at carrots between innings. He thinks he'll keep on doing the same thing as long as he plays ball.

Melillo got his baseball start here by playing with a lot team named the Alma Maters. None of them ever went to college.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

More than 16,000 watched King Levinsky win the official decision last Nov. 6 over Jimmy Slattery in a ten round bout at the Stadium. The chorus of dissent that night was evidence that an overwhelming majority of the 16,000 had cast their unofficial ballots for Slattery.

Tomorrow night Slattery has his second opportunity to convince the official voters he is the King's master. And, of course, the Stadium executives are hoping the same 16,000 [there's room for an additional jury of 6,000] will judge the fight.

King's Just a Boy.

This Levinsky boy [he's dropped three years from his official age since November, and in so doing has dropped Al Miller as manager] is a satisfying exhibit in these days of unemployment. Twenty years of age, exposed to Chicago's educational system only as far as the fourth grade, he continues to find lucrative employment. His last fight, with Tommy Loughran, produced an $11,000 purse for thirty minutes' labor.

While the King probably will not draw $11,000 tomorrow night with his 22½ per cent of the receipts, he will be able to pay a year's salary to a grade school teacher, provided, of course, he decides to pick up his reading and writing where he left off several years back.

Levinsky's family and business affairs have organized Chicago fight fans into two armies, those who want the King to win, and those who don't. Is just a boy trying to get along. The pro-Levinskyites aver the King Al Miller, as manager, was a necessary appendage who was overpaid since the King did his personal socking in the manner long accustomed. The other group, and this probably

Art Thurnblad, Chicagoan, Seeks World Cue Crown

Chicago's second hope for a world's three cushion championship is Arthur Thurnblad. With Augie Kieckhefer missing after being consistently in the title fight since 1915, three cushion followers here are looking to Thurnblad to make a serious bid for the crown. With Allen Hall and Thurnblad in the field, Chicago has a splendid chance to gain a world's championship.

ART THURNBLAD.

Thurnblad has seen title competition before, but this will be his first attempt in several seasons. He gained the right to compete by winning the northern sectional championship. In taking that title he was forced to eliminate a strong field.

Thurnblad has never won a world championship, but he takes credit for the development of the famous umbrella shot, which is to billiards what the explosion shot is to golf. To make the umbrella shot it is necessary to get two cushions first on a bank, carom off the first object ball to the cushion, then return and strike the second object ball for the count. This is a daring shot, and there is no better exponent of its execution than Thurnblad.

Thurnblad will be in the field of eight which will compete in the world's championship three cushion tournament at Bensinger's Congress room from Jan. 19 to 29.

(This is the second of a series of sketches on players who will compete in the world three cushion billiard tourney.)

BOOKIES FIND NO GOLD IN ANNUAL RUSH TO FLORIDA

Instead, Mutuels Give 'Em Another Kind of Rush.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—A number of the boys have started walking to Miami, convinced that sunburn is preferable to chilblains but it seems useless to pretend that the sporting program in the land of the whispering and itching palms will be as hilarious this year as in some seasons past.

All of the more pretentious heavyweight prize fighters are holding aloof as the situation has been pretty well canvassed by box office experts, who have returned to report that any one who fights in Miami this winter will have to take about 50 per cent of his compensation out in sunshine and the pleasures of the cup.

Boys Will Restrain Selves.

In as much as the pugilists never do any business impetuously, the heavyweight champions having fought in average about twenty minutes per year in the last ten years, it will be easy for them to restrain themselves until summer comes and a betetr opportunity offers.

This probably means that the customers who do go to Florida will be more likely to get more value for a dollar this winter than at any other time since the real estate boom began and the value of the dollar fell to something on the short side of a worn dime. The real estate speculators and, after them the stock market speculators, made it difficult for the type of customer who was engaged in lines of trade or toil which demanded a dollar's worth of goods or work for a dollar.

Of course, Miami is not Florida and the cities on the gulf coast on the west side of the peninsula were much quicker to revise the tariff downward, but then there is no other city in Florida, nor for that matter in the United States, which offers the customers as many facilities for pleasure, including the more amiable forms of lawlessness.

It's a Handicap.

The Miami horse track will reopen Thursday, but alarming reports are to hand of a change in arrangements for public speculation and great hardship confronts an entire colony of earnest citizens from New York who are either on the ground now or hitchhiking in that direction.

These gentlemen were given to understand that they would handle the horse wagers this year as before, but at the present writing laborers are at work erecting the old parimutuel machine at Hialeah, in preparation for an experiment with a system of betting known as the corporation plan. This is the mutuel system under another name, and the change naturally means that the boys who had planned to book wagers will be seized by the slack of their trousers by the house detectives and hurled over the fences if they attempt to do so.

Fans Prefer Mutuels.

The customers much prefer the mutuel or corporation system, as this process gives them an apparent advantage in dividends, so the bookmakers would not receive any business even if they were allowed to try. Some of the boys may obtain employment in the mutuel plant, but the majority of them will be without means of support, a long way from home, after being lured away.

The larceny is not very restrained when the bookmakers conduct the betting, as they make their own odds and maintain the finest coöperation, but in an unsupervised mutuel system such as the one now proposed for the Miami track the temptation to take advantage of the patrons seems much too strong for the stoutest honor.

Can This Be True?

I have heard many depressing stories of deceitfulness in the unsupervised mutuels, including instances of retroactive wagering by the promo-

MODEST AND VALUABLE

Harvey Woodruff, conductor of The Wake, presents Wesley Fesler of Ohio State The Tribune's seventh annual trophy for the Big Ten football player of greatest value to his team. Fesler received the award between halves of the Wisconsin basketball game, which he helped Ohio win, 29 to 19, Saturday night.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WESLEY FESLER.

In presenting THE TRIBUNE'S seventh annual trophy for the Big Ten football player of greatest value to his team to Wesley E. Fesler at Columbus, Saturday, we met a young fellow even more unusual than had been pictured to us. Everywhere were the highest words of praise—not a discordant note—from coaches, faculty members, and townsfolk.

What the undergraduates thought of their hero was evidenced as he stood out on the floor at the end of the first half of the Ohio State-Wisconsin basketball game during the brief ceremony of presenting the silver football. It was a roar of cheers which lasted nearly a minute. Fesler was still panting from his efforts in helping the Buckeyes take a 13 to 6 lead at the half. As we whispered, "Do you want to say anything in reply?" he shook his head and said, "Tell them I'm still out of breath."

Despite all this adulation Fesler is unspoiled by his fame, the epitome of modesty. In fact, his coaches will tell you he is almost too modest. For instance, Coach Williaman thinks that if Fesler, calling signals on offense from a back field post for the first time against Wisconsin, had used himself more the Buckeyes might have bagged a victory in that 0 to 0 gridiron contest. This was not said in criticism, as that result, in which Ohio State was under dog, proved the turning point of the Ohio season and the Buckeyes did not lose a game thereafter.

Similarly, before the Wisconsin cage game Saturday night Fesler, who has a good "basket eye," was urged to take more shots at the basket himself instead of passing to teammates. Classed as a guard, he really plays center except on the jump. Fesler did take shots at the basket and caged four of them, two from difficult angles, and was a prime factor in the victory.

We also had heard that Fesler was a good student. From one of the deans we learned he is taking eighteen hours of classroom work, three more than the fifteen required, and during the fall quarter had earned three A's and two B's. That was enough on that subject.

THE TRIBUNE trophy winner does not purpose to become a professional. That is due to his own inclination and partly, perhaps, to advice from an older brother, Ray Fesler, who was a Buckeye baseball player. The latter, at graduation, was offered a baseball job at $750 a month with a guarantee of at least three months' trial, or $2,250, a pretty sweet sum to a boy who had supplemented home financing by work while in college. The elder Fesler was a ceramic engineer and chose instead of baseball a job in his profession at $100 per month. In half a dozen years he has become superintendent of an Ohio pottery factory.

Wes Fesler, because he transferred from the engineering to the commerce school, will not be graduated until a year from April instead of this coming June. Ohio State has the quarterly instead of semester system. He probably will assist in coaching next fall. Then one of the greatest natural athletes ever developed at Columbus will embark in business. It was a pleasure to meet a college athlete of his type.

DANIELS LEADS MICHIGAN PAST WISCONSIN, 23-17

Wolverines Lead at Start, Coast to Victory.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Michigan defeated Wisconsin, 23 to 17, here tonight to gain a place in the first division of the Big Ten standing. The Wolverines went into the lead at the outset and never were headed.

Norm Daniels ran his total of points in Big Ten competition to 23 by sinking four goals and making good on one free throw. Petrie, who displaced Eveland at forward, and Weiss also turned in good performances.

Petrie Starts Scoring.

Michigan opened the scoring less than a minute after the tossup, Petrie ducking in for a shot which was good. Wisconsin scored when Paul made a free throw on Petrie's foul. Altenhof then scored a goal after taking a short pass from Daniels. Chmielewski caged a shot from outside the foul line.

Daniels made the score 5 to 3 by sinking a free throw and came back with a field goal. Nelson then added a free throw for the Badgers. Neither team scored for minutes, though Michigan bored in for repeated shots.

Weiss finally added a basket for Michigan by taking a tipoff close under the basket. Daniels followed with another field goal. Wisconsin reduced the Wolverine lead when Nelson registered a free throw and Steen got in a basket before Michigan counted again. Daniels matched the shot with a basket two minutes before the half.

Chmielewski Sinks Long One.

Chmielewski sank a long shot after the resumption of play, but Daniels again matched it by looping one over his shoulder. Williamson added a point from the foul line for Michigan and Weiss sank an easy one.

Williamson fouled Nelson and the Badger forward made good on his shot. Petrie matched it with a toss from the charity line. Altenhof tore in for a basket. Nelson broke through again for a goal, and Paul added a free throw. Petrie closed the scoring for Michigan by dropping a toss from outside the Badger defense. Minutes passed and then Wisconsin broke loose with goals by Nelson and Poser. Lineup:

INDIANA, 23; OHIO STATE, 21

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Snapping out of a slow offensive, Indiana hit its stride in the closing minutes of its second conference game here tonight and defeated Ohio State, 23 to 21. Until the last three minutes of play it looked as if Indiana would lose its second Big Ten game in as many starts, but with a sudden shift in the lineup the Crimson came to life.

Coach Dean sent in Dauer to replace Miller and the speedy substitute scored Indiana's last three points. He sank a free throw and a basket and then the Hoosiers kept the ball by means of a delayed offense until the gun sounded.

In a preliminary game held here this afternoon, Indiana's reserve team lost to Ohio, 29 to 22.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Northwestern university's basketball team staved off a great rally by a fighting Illinois quintet here tonight and won, 29 to 27. Northwestern led at half time, 19 to 4.

The Illini drove their way up from what appeared to be a hopeless position. The game was played in the presence of 7,000 spectators who cheered frantically as the Illini threatened to gain the lead in the last minute of play.

Frank Marshall led the Wildcat attack. He scored four field goals in the first half. Capt. Harper led the Illini with two field goals and a free throw.

N. U. Misses 17 Free Throws.

Northwestern did not take advantage of its opportunities to count from the free throw line, scoring only seven times in 24 attempts. Illinois attempted 18 and made half of them.

The Purple held the Illini scoreless during the last 18 minutes of the first half.

Casion Bennett, lanky Illinois center, scored two free throws to give the Illini the lead in the first minute of play. He followed this with a field goal, but this four point margin was cut away by Marshall's two goals and Joe Reiff's first goal of the game sent the Purple into a lead which they never relinquished. ### IOWA, 25; PURDUE, 23

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Withstanding a rally in the closing minutes which enabled Purdue to whittle a ten point Hawkeye lead down to a single basket, Iowa defeated the Boilermakers, 25 to 23, here tonight.

The thrilling finish, which brought 5,000 spectators to their feet, culminated in the ejection of two Purdue players.

The Hawkeyes were in front, 16 to 9, at the intermission and widened their margin to 23 to 13, early in the second half. Purdue's rally put the Boilermakers only two points behind. Then Mowry tapped in a basket to give Iowa a 25 to 21 lead. Purdue protested the basket and in the heat of the argument Kellar and Porter, Boilermaker forwards, were ordered off the floor by Umpire Stanley Feehle.

Miner's long shot closed the gap, but the gun soon ended the battle.

DUCK HUNTERS OF 1850 ALSO FACED MANY PROBLEMS

Authority of That Time Attacks Poachers.

BY BOB BECKER.

Twenty Canada geese and "well on to a hundred scaup, black duck and Brent geese"—that was considered a fair bag for two sportsmen 80 years ago when wild game was many times more plentiful than it is today. At least this bag is laid down as a reasonable one by Henry William Herbert, outdoor authority of 1850, some of whose articles on waterfowl hunting we have been reading with a view to comparing shotgun loads, methods of hunting, and bag limits of 1850 with 1931 hunting procedure.

Herbert, after stating that 20 geese and a hundred or more ducks is enough for two hunters in one day, adds that "if this be not enough for sportsmen, why, then turn poacher, ungentle reader, and earn the malediction of all who love fair field, fair play for all things, whether they be fish, flesh or fowl."

Discusses Breeding in 1850.

One of the most interesting observations on wild geese, which we found mentioned in Herbert's articles culled from an old volume of bound magazines, concerns the breeding range of Canadian honkers. Herbert, probably voicing the belief of ornithologists in 1850, said that no one had ever found the nesting country of the Canada geese and probably no one ever would, "as they lie, doubtless, beyond the reach of man's all daring footsteps."

As a matter of fact, until very recently, one member of the goose family, the snow goose, did foil bold explorers and keep its nesting grounds secret, although the Canada honker's spring and summer dwelling place did not prove to be such a problem of exploration.

Poachers Troubled Then.

Although wardens today have their troubles with poachers and violators of the migratory bird laws [especially those who trap ducks and kill waterfowl out of season for the market] even in 1850 they had far too many of these fellows. According to this article of Herbert, Canada geese were harassed "especially around Long Island by every poacher's device and artifice which can be devised to slay them."

Londos Beats Kirilenko in Straight Falls

Jim Londos, recognized by the National Boxing association as world heavyweight wrestling champion decided his title last night at the Broadway armory when he defeated Matros Kirilenko, Russian challenger, in two straight falls. He gained the first fall 38 minutes 10 seconds and the second in 6 minutes 53 seconds.

When 7,000 had crowded into the building the Illinois Athletic commission ordered the door closed. Promoter Mayrone announced the receipts at $12,000.

Frank Brunovicz, Polish star from New York, beat Pat McKay of Kentucky with a reverse body lock in 21:04. Ray Steele, California, substituting for Fred Grobmier, went 30 minutes to a draw with Milo Steinborn, German strong man.

CHICAGO TOWN AND TENNIS CLUB TO CONTINUE PLAY

Sale of a section of the Chicago Town and Tennis club property to the Lincoln park board which will be transformed into a public playground will not limit the facilities of the organization. This was announced yesterday by Walter T. Hayes, pioneer member and treasurer of the Chicago and Western Tennis associations.

Hayes said the tract, which was disposed of to lighten the financial burden of the club, has a two block frontage on Granville avenue, where there are three clay and two cement courts. Sale of this acreage, Hayes said, will not inconvenience members, who still have 15 clay and two grass courts.

Persons unacquainted with the affairs of the club, Hayes pointed out, were under the impression that, because of the sale of a plot of the club's large holdings, the organization was planning to disband. He drew a rosy picture of the future to refute such beliefs.

No Gold Now for Bookies in Florida

ters. In this maneuver, the persons in charge, being accountable only to their own consciences, which sometimes are extremely tolerant, have been known to drop in large wagers on the winner after the race, thus diminishing the odds payable to bona fide customers on wagers placed beforehand. It is not considered sporting to enter wagers after a race has been run.

The bookmakers and their clerks who attended the meeting at St. John's park, between Jacksonville and St. Augustine, appear to have succumbed to greed toward the end of the season just closed, for they were firmly ejected from the premises the other day and the owners of the horse track took over the business, using the corporation system. Now it is reported that these same proprietors, William V. Dwyer and William Gallagher, are about to buy out the Miami track and install the same system.

The customer's status, however, will not be affected. He will still be dependent on the honesty and generosity of the people who take his wagers.

Widener Selling Out?

It is a surprise to hear that Mr. Joseph E. Widener, the wealthy and socially exclusive society millionaire of the New York Jockey club, is thinking of selling out the Miami track, which he and some equally wealthy and exclusive associates took over two years ago for the sole purpose of improving the breed of horses. Mr. Widener uttered many noble remarks about his idealism in sport and his determination to make Hialeah a second Ascot, but dispatches from Miami now state that he is about to relinquish this laudable plan, take a profit and withdraw.

The season at the St. John's track has been attended by general disappointment. Last year, when the track was known as Keeney park, Mr. Keeney, the proprietor, counting his funds one night, discovered that the meeting was not a success and disappeared. He left a large herd of live stock stranded on the grounds with their owners and the usual representation of loafers, and also left a bevy of unhappy young ladies who had been bidden to Keeney park to agitate their limbs and flash the sunshine of their smiles at the patrons in a refined cabaret entertainment.

The profession was very indignant at Mr. Keeney for abandoning all these horses and people and many harrowing stories of hardship were recounted. The horsemen were compelled to hop aboard their own steeds and travel out of Florida on the hoof, and some of the horses carried double to get the young ladies off the lot, horsemen being very big hearted.

But this season at St. John's park the racing has been uniformly inferior, as the horse people have been loath to run their stock. So now the complaint runs that they betrayed a generous management.

Not Sporting Country.

But Jacksonville is not good sporting country any way. The city is a sea port with a working population, and no lure to the idling sporting, spending element, comparable to the lure of Miami.

From time to time I have heard resentful remarks from citizens of Miami, who seem to think that any mention of their champagne, gin, and beer supply, and their gambling houses is intended to give the town a bad name. On the contrary, I consider it a kindly service to the customers to remind them of the pleasures of the place, including the pleasures of the eye which parade the white sands in bathing suits of the most nominal character. It is no disservice to the community to direct them to the one free city in the United States. But, of course, by the word "free" I do not mean without cost, although I am told that the dollar will buy as much as 60 cents now.

CUYLER'S CAGERS INVADE CICERO COURT TONIGHT

Kiki Cuyler, Cub outfielder, will bring his basketball team to Chicago tonight to oppose the Cicero Elks at the Cicero stadium, 52d avenue and 21st street. Many major and minor league stars who make Chicago their home have promised to be present.

The Cuyler team, for which Kiki plays guard, is composed of former professional league and college stars and has won a majority of its games during the five seasons it has been playing. The Elks have not yet been defeated.

NobleLarson Beats Foraker, 250-243, in State Cue Meet

Noble Larson, Chicago, scored an upset in the Illinois state amateur 18.2 balkline championship tournament at Mussey's last night when he turned back Hugh Foraker, defending titleholder, 250 to 243, in 47 innings. Larson had a high run of 22; Foraker, 21.

Prelim Boys Speak.

"He can't box," one of the many preliminary boys who daily indulges in lesson of block and counter at the gymnasium where the King trains, said yesterday. And the manner of emphasis this preliminary boy used indicated complete contempt.

"The big bum," our informant continued, "hung a lucky punch on Leo Lonski which grew into $11,000. Slattery'll give the King all the aces in the deck and beat him."

Chicago's fight managers, each with his group of hungry boxers more or less without work, also are of the opinion that the quicker Levinsky is pulled down the more jobs there'll be for them. And Al Miller, who modestly accepts responsibility for creating the King, now is just as anxious to see him whipped, proving no doubt that Miller was 90 per cent of the reason for the King's achievements.

Alvis Leads Supporters.

Ray Alvis, Levinsky's manager, selected and approved by Mrs. Lena Levy, the King's sister, leads the supporting group. During Levinsky's training, Alvis has authorized statements that the King is a great boxer. "In three weeks the King has learned the fine points of boxing. He not only will outslug Slattery but, if need be, he will outpoint him." So Alvis says.

All of which is beside the point, according to the paying customer. He isn't sure, with the volume of ballyhoo, whether Levinsky will stand and fight, or jump out of the ring.

Barney Ross and Charlie Retzlaff are favorites in other bouts on the card. Retzlaff meets George Norton and Ross is matched with Tony Falegano, Filipino from Des Moines, Ia.

These two fights, as well as the Gary Leach-Mickey McFarland match, are expected to end in knockouts. Ross packs a terrific left hook and Retzlaff has stopped 24 of his 27 professional opponents. Leach's record includes quick victories over Ted Ross and Young Jack Dillon. McFarland scored two knockout victories in the Stadium and in his last start boxed a draw with Willie Oster, who later stopped Edgar Norman.

WISTORT INJURES SHOULDER; LOSES FIGHT TO SHANK

Pete Wistort, South Chicago heavyweight, last night lost on a technical knockout to Andy Shank of Michigan, in the fourth round of the main event at White City, when he dislocated his right shoulder.

Shank, substituting for Jay Christianson, held the South Chicagoan even during the three rounds of fighting.

Phil Ross was awarded a six round verdict over Steve Hess in the semi-windup. Ross sent Steve to the mat for a two count in the second round. They are middleweights. Johnny Rich handed Joe Barlow a six round setback and Frankie Boyle easily defeated Kelly Kulak in four rounds. Joey Rehling and Billy Bedard went four fast rounds to a draw, while Angelo Garlow opened the show with a four round decision over Bobby Hynds.

SKI WINNERS AT CARY IN LINE FOR OLYMPIC SQUAD

When more than 80 of the country's leading ski jumpers compete for the national championship on the Cary slide at Fox River Grove, Ill., Sunday afternoon there will be plenty of incentive for them to display their best efforts.

With the Olympic winter sports events scheduled at Lake Placid, N. Y., next year, the showing of the jumpers in the national meet will be a factor in the selection of an American team.

In addition a large silver trophy valued at $1,200, will be placed in competition. This prize is to become the petition.

A foreign threat will be Ludwig Boeck, German champion and one of the leading jumpers and cross-country ski racers in Europe. The Lake Placid Olympics lured him to this country. He will be a member of the German team in that competition.

Casper Oimen, defending champion, is certain to head the list. He is getting in practice on the slide at Berrien Springs, Mich., since lack of snow has made it impossible to train at Cary.

Weather conditions are not worrying Norge officials. They started a crew of 75 men to work yesterday at Escanaba, Mich., 328 miles from Chicago, loading six freight cars with snow to be shipped to Fox River Grove Thursday morning so that it can be spread on the Cary slide in the event the snow shortage continues.

FLIERS, JUST OUT OF TAIL SPIN, TO FACE SHAMROCKS

Four New Stars Revive St. Louis Team.

Hockey Games Tonight

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
Chicago at New York Americans.
Canadiens at Philadelphia.
New York Rangers at Boston.
Detroit at Montreal.

Chicago Shamrocks will make another attempt to break the tie that exists between them and Tulsa for the American league hockey lead when they tackle the St. Louis Fliers at the Stadium tonight.

It will be the Shamrocks' ninth game in 17 days. In this string, which started on Dec. 28, they have won three games, lost three and tied two. Three of the contests played in the last week have been overtime.

St. Louis' last appearance at the Stadium resulted in a 10 to 1 victory for the Shamrocks. Since that time, however, the Fliers have succeeded in securing entry over the border for four men from Winnipeg, heavily counted on earlier in the year. In their last start, when the newcomers made their debut, the Fliers defeated the powerful Kansas City team, 2 to 0.

Jackson Leads New Stars.

Outstanding among the quartet held up by immigration officials is Red Jackson, wing, who was claimed by the Shamrocks, Tulsa and St. Louis. He was awarded to Tulsa, but the Oilers later released him to St. Louis when it was necessary for them to cut their personnel to the league player limit.

The other strangers are Bill Kendall, right wing, Bob Kirk, a center, and Arthur Pattenden, left wing. Herb Rheaume, goalie, formerly with the Boston Bruins and Boston Tigers has been added to the Fliers' regular lineup.

Riley Strengthens Team.

The addition of Jack Riley at center has increased the Shamrocks' strength perceptibly. He was instrumental in scoring both goals, tying the score against Buffalo. He has replaced some of the strength lost through the injury of Corbett Denneny and Bouncer Taylor.

Triumph over St. Louis again would at least keep the Shamrocks in a tie for the lead tonight. Tulsa meets Buffalo, and a victory for the Oilers would make it necessary that the Chicagoans win or drop into second place.

Tonight will be ladies' night, with admission free for the fair ones. The lineup:

| SHAMROCKS. | | ST. LOUIS. |
|---|---|---|
| Timmins | G | Hirsch |
| Mulligan | R. D. | Cassidy |
| Headley | L. D. | Gagnon |
| Tiley | C. | Gelhaar |
| Brydson | R. W. | Jackson |
| Burns | L. W. | Hill |

EX-CHIEF RUSSELL GIVES BLOOD, BUT BROTHER DIES

Joseph Russell, 45 years old, brother of former Police Commissioner William Russell, died yesterday at the Jackson Park hospital after a blood transfusion submitted to by the ex-police head proved unavailing. Russell was an employé in the city department of public works and lived at 6336 Drexel avenue.

Capt. Russell was summoned to the hospital early yesterday by Drs. A. F. Henning and George Butt and told the only hope to save his brother's life was a blood transfusion. The ex-chief readily submitted to the operation and gave a quart of blood. Russell died soon afterward, however. He was taken to the hospital Sunday suffering from ulcers of the stomach.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

CHICAGO STOCKS RETREAT UNDER PROFIT TAKING

Missouri-Kansas Closes 3⅛ Points Lower.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Encountering a moderate volume of selling orders in the early trading the Chicago stock market eased off moderately yesterday. The setback was interpreted as technical reaction from the strength which has prevailed since the first of the year rather than as a consequence of any change in general sentiment.

The session had all the earmarks of a professional performance. The early down trend gave way to a mild rally around midday which, in turn, was followed by further reaction. A liberal supply of fractions and minus signs were needed to compile the day's stock table.

Speculative interest here centered in the market action of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line shares which sold off sharply following the application of receivership proceedings against the company late last week. The issue closed at 5½, down 3⅛ for the day.

Asks Dismissal of Bill.

The company yesterday through its attorney, John R. Nicholson, filed a motion asking dismissal of the receivership bill. The motion was made before Judge Wilkerson in the federal court. Dismissal was asked on the ground that the company and its distributing organization, Frank P. Parish & Co., are both Delaware corporations and the stockholders asking the receivership are citizens of Ohio. Arguments will be heard on the motion this morning.

Nearly 11,000 shares of the company's stock turned over. After opening sharply lower the issue rallied to 6¾ but failed to hold its gain. The company has not issued a balance sheet since the sale of a large portion of its assets to the Columbia Gas interests several months ago.

Hall Printing and Lincoln Printing issues were steady around last week's final prices following release of official estimates on 1930 earnings of each company.

President Washington Flexner told directors yesterday that earnings for 1930 would be slightly in excess of $3 a share on the common stock after providing for dividends on the preference shares. Last year the company earned $2.69 on the common stock. The regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents was voted by directors on the common. President Frank R. Warren of Hall Printing has estimated earnings for the year ending Jan. 31 of slightly more than $2 a share.

Sangamo Estimate.

According to estimates Sangamo Electric company earnings for 1930 will cover dividend requirements. Dividends on the common and preferred issues amounted to $320,000. Earnings of the firm's foreign subsidiaries are not available as yet. In 1929 the company earned net profit of $585,072, exclusive of subsidiaries.

Completion of the acquisition of the Neuhoff Packing company of Nashville, Tenn., was announced yesterday by Swift & Co. The Chicago company also gets the southern firm's two subsidiaries, the White Provision company of Atlanta and the Nashville Cold Storage company. The purchase price was approximately $3,000,000 plus inventories at current prices. Swift and Company will continue the operation of the properties and contemplate no changes in personnel, it was stated by officials.

The E. L. Bruce company has formed the Bruce Chemical company as a wholly owned subsidiary to control and manufacture the company's chemical products.

A. W. MILBURN

President of The Borden Company

"FAITH in the practicability of an idea and the attainment of an ideal of service actuated Gail Borden, as the founder of The Borden Company.

The Solution of Chicago's Transportation Problem is now up to the Security Holders

AFTER years of controversy, Chicago's transportation problem nears solution. Necessary State Legislation has been enacted. The traction ordinance providing for unification of present facilities—and for extensions, including subways—has been passed by the City Council. The people of Chicago voted nearly 6 to 1 in favor of this ordinance. The Plan governing the financial reorganization of the various properties involved, has been approved by the committees whose sanction is necessary to declare the Plan operative.

Now the security owners themselves must sanction the Reorganization Plan. Unless this action is taken, the ordinance may be nullified, the work of years undone, and Chicago's "traction muddle" further complicated . . . Unbiased opinion warns against sacrificing the benefits of the Reorganization Plan and resuming the chaotic uncertainty that has heretofore existed.

As Reorganization Manager, we recommend that holders of securities listed below, deposit their securities and thus approve the Reorganization Plan. Only those who deposit their securities get the benefits which the Plan very positively holds out to them. The Federal Courts and the Illinois Commerce Commission must finally pass on the Plan before it can be consummated.

CENTRAL-ILL. SECURITIES NET IS $684,327

Trust Lists Assets of $15,294,718.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It is no secret that investment trusts, which budded out like the leaves on the trees in 1928 and 1929, suffered when the stock market collapse. In that respect they were no different from most everybody else who speculated. However, some of them escaped with the minimum of damage and now are in position to profit by any appreciation in the value of securities.

PHILIP R. CLARKE. [Chambers Photo.]

For example, the Central Illinois Securities corporation, which was formed as an adjunct of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, one of Chicago's large banks, now has approximately $7,500,000, or half of its invested capital, in the form of cash, call loans and other liquid loans. Its portfolio of investments figured $7,706,869 on Dec. 31, 1930, with prices taken at market or cost.

Cites Liquidation Value.

"Such investments as have been sold during the year, as well as those carried over from 1929, have entailed an aggregate depreciation of approximately $840,000," President Philip R. Clarke says in his annual report. "In view of the drastic recession in security prices, it is gratifying to be able to show so small a decrease. The liquidation value of the outstanding allotment certificates as of Dec. 31 was $30.77 a unit, compared with $31.64 on Dec. 31, 1929, and the original subscription price of $30 a unit."

Net earnings for 1930 were $684,327, equivalent to $1.71 a share on the $20 convertible preference stock. Total assets on Dec. 31, 1930, were $15,294,718. At the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday, W. R. Dawes, vice president and director of the Central Trust company, was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of R. Floyd Clinch.

Makes Innovation.

An innovation in annual bank statements has been made by a Chicago bank, the First National of Englewood. The stockholders have been furnished with a detailed report of the bank's investments, including real estate mortgage loans, municipal bonds, railway equipment notes, commercial paper and customers' collateral loans, although naturally the names of borrowers are omitted.

A trend toward investment in government obligations is shown in the federal reserve board's weekly statement of the position of reporting member banks. These banks increased their holdings of government securities by $97,000,000 during the week ended Jan. 7, but reduced their other securities by $78,000,000. Their loans on securities declined $161,000,000 and all other loans receded $38,000,000. Their borrowings from the reserve bank expanded $37,000,000.

The steel industry extracted another bit of cheer yesterday from the placing of orders for 36,500 tons of rails to cost about $1,570,000 by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. Nearly half of the tonnage went to the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, with the Illinois Steel and Inland Steel companies receiving the remainder. Orders of track fastenings to be placed within a few days will augment the expenditure.

Further expansion in steel mill operations in the last week is expected to be reported by the midweek reviews tomorrow. Pig iron production in the Chicago district remains unchanged at 65 per cent of capacity this week, with four of six stacks active.

Department store sales showed an increase of 50 per cent from November to December, when allowance is made for the number of trading days, according to preliminary figures reported to the federal reserve board. This increase is somewhat less than the estimated seasonal increase for that period, and the board's index of department store sales, which is adjusted for number of trading days and for seasonal variation, declined by 2 per cent for the month.

As compared with last year, the aggregate value of sales in December, according to the preliminary figures, was 8 per cent smaller, and when allowance is made for the fact that there was one more trading day this year than last, the decrease from last year is about 12 per cent. For the year 1930 as a whole, department store sales were 8 per cent smaller than in 1929.

Foreign Shorts Buy May Wheat, Buoying Up Prices

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Foreign shorts in May wheat were on the buying side again yesterday and found offerings small at the start advancing the old style delivery 1c to 84c, the best figure since Oct. 30, and the new to 84½c. A house that frequently acts for the Stabilization Corporation turned seller on the upturn. With some pressure from cash interests it caused a reaction from the top, but the finish was at net gains of ¼@½c; March closing at 81½c, and old May at 83⅜ to 83½c.

July wheat fluctuated erratically within a range of 1¼c. It eased early, only to turn strong toward the last in sympathy with corn and close ¾c higher at 66½c. Strength at Minneapolis attracted considerable attention as that market gained 1⅜@1½c for the day, after having lagged as compared with Chicago for sometime past. May there closing at 78⅜c. Kansas City May gained only ⅜c, and finished 9c under Chicago, or at nearly a shipping difference. During the day Omaha sold 25,000 bu. No. 2 hard winter to come to Chicago at 3@3½c under old May.

Export Demand Increasing.

Foreign demand for Canadian wheat seems to be increasing. While the seaboard estimated 500,000 bu. had been sold, mainly via the Pacific coast, there were intimations of a larger business, with some said to have been taken by France. According to a Winnipeg message to J. E. Bennett & Co., the business with the Orient is on a fairly liberal scale, mainly in the way of flour from U. S. Pacific ports. Winnipeg futures closed ⅝c higher for the day. Buenos Aires was off.

An analysis of the world wheat distribution during the first five months of the crop year indicates a disappearance of 357,000,000 bu. during that time, compared with 289,000,000 bu. in 1929, the world taking the grain at the rate of 15,500,000 bu. per week, equal to 803,000,000 bu. for a full crop year while in 1929-30 the total was only 622,000,000 bu. If consumption holds up the balance of the season at the rate it has since Aug. 1, world's import needs would be 450,000,000 bu. Present supplies on ocean passage are only 25,168,000 bu. or about the smallest on record, comparing with 32,672,000 bu. last year. Liverpool gained ¼@⅝d for the day.

A minimum price of 59¼c per bu. for homegrown wheat delivered at a commercial center is expected to be established in France. An official bureau is also to be created to control wheat imports, and some revision in the present milling regulations covering the grinding of foreign wheat is anticipated. Export sales of Manitoba wheats in all positions were estimated at over 500,000 bu., including some business with France.

While an increase of 1,774,000 bu. was shown in the domestic visible supply of wheat it had little effect on the market. Total stocks are 191,038,000 bu., compared with 172,207,000 bu. last year.

Corn Has Strong Rally.

Corn was eased early, but rallied 1½@1⅝c from the low on covering by local shorts. It closed 1c higher with March 70¼c, May 71⅝@71⅞c, and July 72⅜@72⅝c. An unexpected decrease of 114,000 bu in the visible supply, reflecting the abnormally light movement of cash grain to terminal markets for this season of the year, had some effect on sentiment. Offerings of futures were light on the way up, with the bulge checked by selling against offers. Total stocks are now 16,276,000 bu., against 12,143,000 bu. last year. Purchases to arrive were 40,000 bu., including 28,000 bu. to come from other terminals.

Oats showed a firm undertone from the start with commission houses absorbing local sales. The finish was ⅛c higher, March being 33⅞c, May, 34¼@34⅜c, and July, 33½c. A decrease of 1,319,000 bu. in the visible supply was somewhat in excess of expectations.

Rye was dull, but the market was firmer in sympathy with other grains. The close was at net gains of ½@1c March, finishing at 42c and May and July at 43¼c. There was some buying of rye against sales of other grains by spreaders.

December Regularly Has Brought Increase in Steel Orders—Recent Gain on Par with Two Preceding Decembers.

CHAINS APPEAL STATE TAX LAW TO HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Chain stores appealed to the Supreme court today to test the right of states to impose a separate tax on each store of their chain within the state.

The case comes from North Carolina where the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, F. W. Woolworth company, and a number of other chains challenged the validity of a 1929 law which imposed a tax of $50 on each store operated in the state by chain companies.

Says Taxation Must Pay for Gov't Unemployment Relief

BY SCRUTATOR.

Some interesting examples of the growing desire to have government support the people, when, as Grover Cleveland remarked in 1887 that it was really the people who support the government, come to light daily.

One of these is a bill which Senator Wagner is to sponsor and which will provide that all state funds donated for unemployment relief shall be matched dollar for dollar by the federal government.

In view of the fact that several bills calling for compulsory employment insurance have been introduced into state legislatures, although none has been passed, it is quite likely that such federal legislation would act as a spur to the states. They would be under pressure to help in getting some of the Uncle Sam money for their own voters.

Favor British Model.

Varied forms appear in this projected insurance by states. The favorite seems to be the British model. Briefly, this requires that all employed workers donate about 14 cents a week from their pay, which is supplemented by 16 cents from the employer and 15 cents from the government. Thus, each employed worker represents 45 cents a week in insurance premiums.

For the out of work there are payments of $4.25 a week for an adult, who can draw another $2.25 for a wife and 50 cents for a dependent child. Rather severe lines are drawn to see that the beneficiary takes work when it is offered him.

It cannot be said that the experience of Great Britain with this policy of insurance has been happy. The funds gathered by assessment have not been large enough and deficits running into many millions of pounds have been made up, or must be made up, by taxation. The lot of the unemployed can hardly be much bettered by the small payments. Certainly unemployment is more of an issue in England, and has been so for a longer time, than in the United States.

More Radical Schemes.

There are more radical schemes which provide that employers must bear all the cost of unemployment insurance. It is not difficult to see that such schemes enacted into law would deter men from becoming employers and would result in the constant holding down of working forces to the minimum.

As Cleveland remarked when he vetoed a bill for the government to furnish free seed to drouth sufferers in Texas, there is something wrong in governments extending relief to individuals and getting back nothing related to the public service or benefit.

However, the request for such legislation is one of the trends of the times. The fifty-fifty program, where the federal government gives money to be matched by the states for projects within that state, has had a spectacular growth. In 1912 only eight millions went from the federal treasury in such projects; in 1920 the figure had risen to forty-two millions, and for the last five or six years the amount had averaged more than 150 millions. On top of 150 millions appropriated thus for 1931 there are 116 millions of emergency relief. All of this must be met from taxation.

SELL 55 CARLOADS AT OPENING OF POTATO FUTURES MARKET HERE

More than 2,000,000 pounds of Idaho russet potatoes for March delivery, comprising 55 carloads, were sold yesterday morning at the Chicago mercantile exchange at 110 North Franklin street. Marking the opening of what is said to be the world's first potato futures market.

Opening sales at $1.95 per hundredweight attracted butter and egg dealers from the other boards on the trading floor. From out of the city also came evidences that the experiment was being watched. Several dealers reported they executed orders for buyers and sellers in Idaho cities. Harry H. Fields, president of the exchange, commented on the first day's trading by saying that it was evident potatoes would prove an interesting commodity for futures trading.

Butter and eggs have dominated the interest in the exchange for eleven years. Two years ago cheese was added but trade has been inactive. Other commodities may follow the addition of potatoes to the futures trade, it was said yesterday by representatives of the exchange. Canned goods manufacturers have asked for consideration, and boxed apples and citrus fruits may be sold on futures if sufficient demand and opportunity for trade is apparent to the exchange leaders.

An optimistic viewpoint for the coming year was expressed by Mr. Field at the annual dinner of the exchange, held last night at the Palmer house. Mr. Field was installed as president for the second time at the banquet. Other officers installed for the coming year were: First vice president, C. S. Borden; second vice president, T. F. Gallagher Jr., and secretary, D. J. Coyne Jr.

TIDE OF TRADING CHANGES; STOCK VALUES RECEDE

Railroad Group Is Hardest Hit.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—The stock market turned downward today. Some of the selling was by way of profit taking by traders convinced that with the steel tonnage report out of the way there was little left in the business situation at the moment to warrant a continuation of the advance. A large part, however, was evidently sponsored by bear interests trying for a fresh decline.

Railroad shares were the hardest hit, but many of the better grade industrials also registered losses of from 1 to 4 points or more. The chemicals suffered another relapse, while the Plane Service Halted; Snow and Colder Forecast.

Rain and sleet on streets and sidewalks early today crippled motor and rail traffic in and near Chicago and made walking a perilous adventure.

Scores of motorists, after sliding and skidding dangerously for a few blocks in attempting to drive to the loop, abandoned their cars. At the same time, railroad trains, elevated and street cars were slowed down to walking speed and thousands of loop workers were late reaching offices and stores.

Walking in the street to avoid fall-

LEASE SPACE IN BUILDERS FOR WESTINGHOUSE

New Firm Will Distribute Refrigerators.

BY AL CHASE.

More than half of the fourth floor of he Builders' building at Wacker drive and La Salle street was leased yesterday for display of the new Westinghouse Electric refrigerators by Frank H. Johnson-Soncrowen, Inc. The appointment of this firm as general distributor for Westinghouse was announced yesterday.

S. N. CROWEN.

It is headed by Frank H. Johnson as president, George R. Johnson and Philip C. Crowen as vice presidents and Samuel N. Crowen, Chicago architect, as secretary and treasurer.

The newly organized firm will have charge of the distribution of the Westinghouse Electric company's refrigerator in Cook, Du Page, and Lake counties. It is announced that twelve neighborhood stores will be opened in Chicago during the year. Three of these branches are to be in operation within the next three months, according to the president.

Leased for Five Years.

Yesterday's lease in the Builders' building runs for a term of five years with an option for an additional five years. Arrangement of the quarters has been planned so that the full floor can be taken over when necessary. The space just acquired will be used for executive offices and display rooms. The latter will be typical of similar exhibition rooms to be opened by the Westinghouse company throughout the country.

They will be in the early American style of architecture, designed to resemble a living room. A series of rooms, where refrigerators will be shown in individual settings, is included in the plan. The Chicago headquarters will be formally opened to the public on Thursday.

Real Estators Meet Today.

The regular monthly meeting of the Cook County Real Estate board will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the board rooms. The Real Estate Market of Chicago will meet today at 2 o'clock.

William C. Regelin will speak this evening on "When and How to Make Real Estate Exchanges" before the real estate class of the Central College of Commerce of the Y. M. C. A. which is operated in coöperation with the Chicago Real Estate board.

Tessie Grosby has made a lease with the Phillips Petroleum corporation for ten years on the site at Milwaukee, Mason and Ardmore avenues, on which she will build a gas station for the lessee at once.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter and egg futures showed a weaker undertone on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing unchanged to ⅛c lower, while eggs were off ⅝c. There was some evening up for the government report on storage stocks due late in the day. Weather conditions were regarded as favorable for production of both butter and eggs, and locals sold rather freely, as it was expected that the report on holdings would be bearish. Receipts, butter, 9,758 tubs; eggs, 10,688 cases. Sales—butter, 145 cars; eggs, 59 cars. Deliveries—butter, 13 cars. Prices follow:

LIQUIDATION IN LARD

Liquidation in lard futures, particularly January and May, with no resistance from buyers, carried prices down yesterday with a finish at losses of 12½ to 15c. Hog receipts were heavy yet the market acted well. Liverpool was 1s lower on spot and 6d to 9d lower on futures. Export clearances of lard for the week were 7,260,000 lbs, against 10,822,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 3,529,000, against 5,386,000 lbs last year. Bellies were offered more freely and packers were less inclined to buy, the market being easy. Cash trade was fair. Prices follow:

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 43,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep.

The hog market pushed forward to a stronger position again yesterday against almost overwhelming supplies. Prices slipped a notch at the start, but came back strong during activity in mid-session, when about 75 per cent of the day's offerings cleared at strong to 10c higher prices. Some underweights and light showed even more gain, the extreme top at $8.25 being 15c above last week's close and highest since last Tuesday.

The general average for the whole day showed a gain of 5c at $7.70. Receipts at 75,000, including 36,300 direct to packers, were largest since January, 1930. There have been only four larger daily totals in the last three years. Buying at the strength was brisk soon after the start and only 4,000 head remained at the close. Five markets report 88,000 in sight for today, against 91,000 last Tuesday.

Hog Futures Firm.

Trading in hog futures was slow at firm prices. March and April light weights were bid $9.00, but no offers were made at that figure. January contracts sold at $8.25 and February light were bid $8.50. January mediums were bid $7.50 and March mediums, $8.25.

An increase of 10,000 cattle, or almost 20 per cent, at the seven leading western markets yesterday proved too much for the trade and salesmen were unable to hold prices to the upward course of the last few days. Chicago cattle receipts at slightly over 18,000 were largest in six weeks, and 3,500 above the average Monday run during the last five weeks. Prices were pounded down 25@50c in most instances.

In spite of the gain in numbers, there was a shortage of well finished steers and these brought steady prices. Top yearlings averaging 1,008 lbs. reached $13.25, the top, while top heavy steers stopped at $12.50. Butcher stock sold steady to 25c lower. Calves tumbled 50c. Stockers and feeders were scarce and steady.

Lambs in Demand.

Good fat lambs are in demand, but yesterday's offerings of about 25,000 exceeded immediate requirements and buyers were able to erase some of the recent sharp gains. Prices ruled steady to 25c lower, good kinds going to packers at $8.50@8.60 and to city butchers at $8.65, the day's peak, which compares with $9.00@9.15 at the high point of the previous week.

COTTON SLOW AND LOWER

Trading in cotton dragged most of yesterday and prices yielded under fair pressure and closed around the inside figures, with futures in Chicago 5@13 points lower, New Orleans 8@11, and New York 6@17 points lower. Spots in New York were off 15 points to 10c, New Orleans dropped 10 points to 9.70c, Houston was 9.80c and Galveston 9.90c. Liverpool closed 1 point higher with spot sales 4,000 bales.

Garside's estimate of the consumption in December was 415,000 bales, the same as November, and compares with 452,000 bales in December last year. Fertilizing sales in the 13 southern states during December were 23¾ per cent below the same time last year. Textile sales of merchants in New York for December were 75 per cent of production with shipments 97 per cent and stocks on hand increased 2 per cent and unfilled orders decreased 13.3 per cent. Exports for the week were 173,686 bales, against 173,495 bales for the same time last year. Since Aug. 1 they aggregate 4,200,000 bales, compared with 4,500,000 bales for the same period last year. # CORN NOW SITS ON WHEAT THRONE IN BOARD OF TRADE

Occupies Main Pit for 1st Time in 82 Years.

The grain world yesterday hailed its new cereal king in its mightiest exchange—The Chicago Board of Trade.

By decree of the directors, native American corn was elevated at the opening gong to the throne occupied for 82 years by wheat.

The remnant of a once-mighty group of wheat traders transacted their last deal, for the present at least, in the big wheat pit Saturday and moved across the floor of the vast trading room to the smaller pit built for brokers who deal in corn. The corn traders took over the wheat pit in the center.

The reason for the abandonment of the wheat pit is the attempt of government-sponsored agencies to prevent wheat prices declining below certain minimum levels. As a result wheat trading has fallen considerably below that of corn.

John A. Bunnell, retiring as president of the Chicago Board of Trade, pleaded yesterday for helpful support and assistance from the government, rather than what he termed "the imposition of further radical, uneconomic and unwise restrictions."

Welcoming his successor, James C. Murray, Bunnell said that during his administration the board of trade had coöperated with the federal farm board and the department of agriculture "to the fullest extent consistent with the maintenance of the integrity of our organization."

Murray, assuming the board presidency, said the Chicago mart must take a firm stand on its constitutional rights.*

CLAIM SURVIVAL OF N. W. RAILS DEPENDS ON TRUCK REGULATION

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Railway witnesses, testifying at an interstate commerce hearing today, declared that federal regulations of interstate bus and truck operations is necessary to enable northwest lines to survive motor competition.

A. M. Fenton, vice president of the Omaha railway, presented a statement to Examiner Leo J. Flynn of the commission outlining suggestions for federal regulation of motor carriers which would place them on a footing similar to that of the steam lines. The hearing is part of a national study of means of coördinating bus, truck and railway transportation services.

Under present conditions, railway witnesses testified at the first day's hearing, truck companies, particularly private or "contract" carriers, provide freight service which parallels and duplicates that of the railways. They stated the situation is made worse because the truck lines are permitted to charge any rates they desire while the railroads are prevented from meeting competition by strict government regulation.

Carl R. Gray Jr. of St. Paul, vice president and general manager of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway, said motor truck freight lines should limit their operations to serve communities not receiving adequate railroad service or should substitute for steam trains under certain conditions.

"I look upon the truck line as a feeder to the railroad line and believe that its best place in the transportation system is to take goods from railway lines to localities not now served by the railroads," he said.

Federal regulation of interstate truck lines, he said, is a necessity to fair competition between them and the railways.
